A MURDER AT BROCKVILLE

WILLIAM STOKES CUTS WIFE'S THROAT AND HIS OWN.

Both Are Dead.—They Were Patients in Eastern Asylum—The Superintendent Had Forbade Their Marriage.

Brockville, Nov. 14.—Yesterday morning shortly after eight o'clock William Stokes, aged forty, a discharged patient of the Eastern Hospital, murdered his wife, who was formerly Mrs. Floyd McLean, residing near Maitland, after one week of married life. He afterwards cut his own throat and died in the hospital about three hours later.

The murder took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Gilder, at the corner of Park and James streets, where Mrs. Stokes had been working for the past six weeks, and where Stokes has been boarding since Wednesday.

Mr. Gilder, who is a traveller for the James Smart Mfg. Co., left the house about eight o'clock and boarded the 8.15 train for Kingston. Mrs. Gilder continued her household duties, getting her children ready for school, etc., and after the children had left home she went upstairs to her room, on reaching the head of the stairs, saw Stokes standing in his room door attired only in his underwear, which was covered with blood, and with his throat cut from ear to ear.

Stokes, who was born in England, came as a patient to the Eastern Hospital about six years ago from Ottawa. He was a very depressed and melancholy patient and appeared to be stupid. He recovered from his affliction for a while and appeared quite rational at all times until about four years ago, when he had another attack and was confined to his room at the institution for about a month.

Warned Not to Marry.

About a month ago he was discharged as cured from the institution for the insane, but was hired by Dr. Mitchell to continue in his position. About ten days ago he signified his intention of getting married, and in a talk with Dr. Mitchell over his prospect talked quite sensibly. Dr. Mitchell did not approve of his intention, and told him that if he got married he would have to leave his position at the Eastern Hospital.

Sunday, November 5, was the last day he worked at the hospital, and on the following day he tried at Chrysler's & Steacy's jewellery stores uptown to get a marriage license, but both firms got in communication with Dr. Mitchell over the phone, and Dr. Mitchell forbade the marriage. The couple went to Prescott on Monday and were there married.

Stokes declines to make any statement at first, but when told by Rev. L. E. Davis, of his condition, stated that his wife had come upstairs to the room and quarrelled with him. Stokes stated that she grabbed a razor, and threatened to cut his throat, but he took the razor from her and killed her.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Lillian Rocky, was a patient in the Eastern Hospital shortly before Stokes was removed to the institution about six years ago. About a year ago she applied to Dr. Mitchell for a position on the staff of the hospital and was accepted, but after about two weeks was discharged, owing to her intimacy with the men.

In his statement to Rev. L. E. Davis, Stokes asserted that his wife had said she was going to run away with a soldier. In an examination of the room in which the murder was committed a piece of poetry was found, which was presumably written by the deceased, in which she talked of leaving her husband. Jealousy is the possible motive of the crime.

Liberal Gathering.

President—Frank Thomson, Bancroft.

Secretary—Frank Kelusky, Bancroft.

Treasurer—Emerson, Latady Bancroft.

GIRLS! BEAUTIFY YOUR HAIR AND STOP DANDRUFF

Hair Becomes Charming, Wavy, Lustrous and Thick in Few Moments.

Every Bit of Dandruff Disappears And Hair Stops Coming Out.

For 25 cents you can save your hair. In less than ten minutes you can double its beauty. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as young girl's after applying some Danderine. Also try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or scraggy, faded dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses and purifies and invigorates the scalp forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.

What's in a Name?

A curious idea among the Burmese is that people born on the same day of the week must not marry, and that if they defy the Fates their union will be marked by much ill-luck. To prevent these disastrous marriages, every girl carries a record of her birthday in her name.

No married man is quite ready to arise and say that he thoroughly understands woman.

DOIRAN, HISTORIC TOWN.

Under Decalities of Belasitza Mountains, Prominent in Middle Ages.

Doiran, the town at which the Franco-British forces from Salonica began their long-expected drive recently, is described in the following war geography note issued by the National Geographic Society from its Washington headquarters:

Situated on the frontier between Serbia and Greece, and only about ten miles south of the Bulgarian boundary, Doiran, also known as Polanino, is forty miles north-west of Salonica, on the southern shore of the almost circular lake of the same name.

Lake Doiran, nestling under the southern declivities of the Belasitza Mountain range, is probably the Lake Prasias mentioned by Herodotus, whose description of the Paenionians, living in houses built over the edge of the water, fits in a measure the modern fisherfolk living in huts in this vicinity. The women of present-day Doiran are also famous for their industry, however, as were their noted forerunners.

Eight miles west of Doiran is the Vardar river, which rises in the Shtip Mountains, flows through the Uskup Plain, and enters the Gulf of Salonica, thus constituting for hundreds of years the principal route from Central Europe to the Aegean Sea. Between the Vardar and the Struma river (to the east) extend the Belasitza Mountains, a range some fifty miles in length forming part of the eastern boundary of Bulgaria.

The name of these mountains will always be associated with one of the most harrowing episodes of the Middle Ages, for it was at the battle of Belasitza that Samuel, the Bulgarian Czar who had conquered practically all of the Balkan Peninsula and whose sway extended from the Danube to Mores, met defeat at the hands of the redoubtable Byzantine Emperor, Basil II., surnamed Bulgaroktonos (Slayer of Bulgarians).

During the battle of Belasitza in 1014, Basil captured 15,000 Bulgarians. He blinded the whole number, leaving but one eye to every hundredth man, spared to this extent in order that he might act as a guide for the pitiable host of warriors thus returned to their Czar. When Samuel beheld this helpless army of his mutilated subjects marching toward him he fainted and two days later died of grief. With him died the Slavonic Empire of the Balkans.

WEALTHY IMPERIAL FAMILY.

Japan's Rulers Have Fortune in Bank Shares, Forests, and Palaces.

The property holdings of the imperial household of Japan amount in the aggregate to $250,000,000, according to an article printed in the Nichi Nichi of Tokio. These holdings include shares in the Bank of Japan, the Yokama Specie Bank, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, and shares and bonds of many other concerns. Added to these interests are the contributions made by the Government after the Sino-Japanese war out of the indemnity obtained from China. The indemnity funds and the stock holdings are said to total $90,000,000.

Forests covering 2,130,000 acres and 150,000 acres of prairie land are valued at a sum which would bring the total up to $250,000,000. If to the foregoing the market value of the property of the imperial palace and detached palaces throughout Japan be estimated imperial property would reach a much greater figure. The value of this property is increasing 20 per cent annually.

At the same time, every year an enormous amount is expended in imperial grants. In accordance with the will of the Emperor Meiji, father and predecessor of the present Emperor, the actual expenses of the imperial family are said to be minimized as much as possible. The greater part of the revenues from the imperial properties, says the article, is used for various ceremonies, salaries, pensions, and social expenses incurred in mixing with the royalty of other nations.

In addition the imperial household receives annually $1,500,000 from the Government, and the salaries of the officials of the household department are paid out of that.

It Was Meant Well.

A good story is told concerning Canon Carnegie, the new chaplain of the British House of Commons. It relates to the time when he was working as a curate in the east end of London. He was preaching to a congregation largely composed, so far as the men were concerned, of water-side laborers, and his subject was "Fasting."

"Of course," he said, "many of you men, earning your living as you do by hard and exhausting toil, cannot be expected to deny yourself any food. But I do urge you to do this—spare yourself the use of strong language."

After the sermon Mr. Carnegie was passing out of the church when he overheard one of his late congregation remark: "That was a good sermon (the) the parson preached, Bill."

"Good," was Bill's emphatic rejoinder.

All But Cripples.

Austria-Hungary is calling up fifteen classes of men which heretofore had been exempt from military service, says a despatch from Berne, Switzerland, to the Wireless Press. These classes, the message adds, include all men not actually crippled up to the age of forty-four for service at the front.

PREDICTS PEACE ON FIELD

BULGARIAN PREMIER SAYS TERMS WILL NOT BE SIGNED

At a Conference—Everything Is Fine.—Bulgarian Premier Says Terms Will Not Be Signed.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—At recent confidential conferences with members of the Government party, the Bulgarian premier, M. Radoslavoff, made some significant utterances regarding peace, according to the London correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung, characterizing the situation of Kierbund in all the areas of war as splendid. M. Radoslavoff said the restoration of the Kingdom of Poland was then regarded as a great step toward peace, the central Powers having proved thereby that they did not desire to retain occupied Russian territories. Moreover, it would pave the way to future good relations with Russia and considerably lighten the peace negotiations.

M. Radoslavoff finally intimated that peace would not come as the result of a conference, but that it would probably be signed on the battlefield.

According to the Azest's Sofia correspondent, M. Radoslavoff told yesterday in the course of a general survey of the military and political situations that Bulgaria's situation continued to be especially favorable and that operations in all theatres of war was developing in such a way that a decisive turn for the better for the Central Powers was out of the question, and that the Central Powers were certain of victory.

According to this particularly well-informed Hungarian correspondent, M. Radoslavoff said that the war would probably come to an end without any particular peace conference, meaning that peace would be very likely restored by direct negotiations between the states involved.

WAR MAY CONTINUE BEYOND NEXT YEAR

J. L. Garvin Says the Entente Allies Must Strike More Swiftly.

London, Nov. 14.—J. L. Garvin, writing in The Observer, predicts that unless the Entente Allies come to more vigorous decisions the war will be prolonged far into 1918 as "the result of the new outburst of German energy on all sides and the unity of direction under Von Hindenburg."

"The Allies in the east have perpetrated almost every blunder left to them to commit," writes Editor Garvin, "after a previous record of mismanagement that seemed well nigh exhaustive. The aspect is not disastrous, but is disgraceful as the fault is repairable only at the cost of several million avoidable casualties, and thousands of millions in money which might have been saved. The glorious chapter of the Allied offensive on the Somme is closed. The new chapter in beginning as the Germans have fully recovered their morale. There will be no breaking through by the Allies on the west this year, nor will there be an extensive withdrawal of the German lines between Arras and Noyon."

DEPORTATIONS CONTINUE

Antwerp and Ghent Are Being Slowly Denuded.

London, Nov. 14.—Special despatches from Rotterdam say that the deportations of Belgians continue daily on a large scale. Antwerp and Ghent, the despatches say, are being slowly denuded as able bodied males. Sixteen thousand have already left Ghent.

The men deported from Ghent have been almost exclusively of the unemployed class, but elsewhere, the despatches say, and especially in Antwerp, there has been less discrimination and it is alleged that many workers were taken. No men as yet have been taken from Brussels, but it is said that deportations there will begin on the fifteenth.

According to stories current in Holland, says the despatches, in the "raided" towns, many men were pounced upon suddenly and escorted away by armed guards and not permitted to communicate with friends. Attempts to escape the searchers are futile. Harborers of men who are to be deported are severely punished. Hunger forces holders to surrender. Wire barriers and machine guns are placed around the stations where men are to be entrained lest the crowds threaten to make trouble.

Says Result Should Put New Life Into American Neutrality.

Paris, Nov. 14.—The newspapers, while printing the news of the American election in a prominent position, express little opinion as to the result. What comment there is is sympathetic to President Wilson.

The "Petit Journal" says: "President Wilson's victory is highly satisfactory to us for two reasons: The first is that for four years American foreign policies will be free from all electoral considerations, as the constitution forbids. The second reason is that the result of the election must put new life into American neutrality. Evidently an immense majority of the electorate pronounced against war, but, apart from the millions of voters who approved the policy for which the President forced the Germans to cede on the submarine war question, other millions voted for Hughes because he demanded an even firmer defense of American rights. The chief executive is obliged to take into account this double vote. Just as Hughes could not have ignored the verdict against war, so Wilson must take into consideration the condemnation of a line of policy which Roosevelt has characterized as 'backboneless.'"

The "Matin" and the "Parisien" express the same view. The latter paper concludes: "It is because he played a very honorable role in a moment of grave crisis that the American people have renewed their mandate to President Wilson. In 1912 he owed his election to the division of his adversary. This time he owes it to his prestige, to his electoral campaign and to the confidence which he deserved. It is possible that his policy will now become firmer and clearer, that, profiting by his experience, he will aspire to play a larger role, and to rise up as a more determined champion of the law of nations."
