Rubber Actually Drops In Price While Everything Else Goes Up

More British Government's Foresight Saves Canadians Millions of Dollars. It pays to Protect Expensive Shoes by Wearing Rubbers and Overshoes Which Cost So Little.

Rubbers have not gone up in price because, though labor costs more and the cotton and chemicals used in their manufacture have increased 50% to 100%, the rubber itself actually costs less.

Up till about 1908, the rubber forests of South America and Africa, producing about 60,000 tons a year, easily supplied the demand, and raw rubber sold at $1.00 to $1.30 a pound.

This means a substantial saving to every man, woman and family in Canada—a saving doubly important on account of the 80% advance in the cost of shoe leather.
