THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand.

A superior line of variety and photo entertainment tickled a full house at the Grand last night. Dorothy Bernard and Glenn White, in "Sporting Blood," a galloping romance of the racetrack, drew forth favorable comment. A three reel gloom-chaser, "Lizzie's Lingering Love," will make you laugh till your ribs rattle. The Pathe News showed more than this space permits to tell. Tiny Mattie Lockette did a pleasing sixteen minutes of juvenile character singing and dancing that made a hit. Taylor and Taylor, banjo artists of merit, played "Canadian March," "Miserere," and an overture from "William Tell." This bill will be repeated to-night.

"The Lodger" on Monday.

Lionel Atwill, the celebrated young English star of "The Lodger," in which he and his co-star, Phyllis Relph, will make their first appearance here on Monday evening Nov. 27th at the Grand Opera House brings from London the interesting announcement that nearly every real dramatic success of the present season will be seen in Canada and the United States during the coming year. "It would seem, British and American playwrights at last have found a common language," he said. "Never before has there been such a rush of American producers for London plays. And on the other hand London producers more and more are calling upon Broadway for its new products."

At the Strand.

For Friday and Saturday of this week an exceptionally attractive programme will be given at this popular theatre. The heroine renders herself as ugly as possible before applying for a position as social secretary in the household of a wealthy woman. The contrast when Miss Talmadge resumes her proper appearance is striking and furnishes one of the most unique features of a unique picture. A Keystone comedy, "A Lover's Might," with Fred Mace and other good reels will also be shown. Two high class vaudeville acts have been selected. Miss Winifred Stewart female baritone in the latest popular songs and Millie and Grimley in a novelty act will round out an up-to-date programme.

WANTED TO SEE SISTER; NO WELCOME ON MAT

Man Told Police That Landlord Chased Him Away From the House.

"I wanted to get into the house to see my sister, but they wouldn't let me in. It is not fair to me, and I want something done about it." The police receive all sorts of complaints, and this is one man had to make on Thursday. Questioned by the police, the man stated that his sister lived in this city, and that the other afternoon he had called to see her, but that the landlord of the house took objection to his presence. He tried to argue the matter, but finally came to the conclusion that there was no welcome on the mat for him and he headed for the police station. And to make matters worse the police could not do anything, so he left the station, declaring that he would make another attempt to see his sister. Whether or not he was successful is not known, as he did not come back.

A HOSPITAL ROMANCE BROUGHT TO LIGHT

In the Wedding of Capt. Byers to Paterson, N. J., Nurse.

The Paterson, N.J., Evening News says: "A pretty little romance has been unearthed through the announcement that Miss Elsie Katherine Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, of 25 Union avenue, Clifton, and Capt. David P. Byers of the Queen's Ambulance Corps, Kingston, Ontario, were married on the 17th in the rectory of St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, Ontario, by Rev. A. J. Hanky.

Mrs. Anderson, the bride, was taking a course in nursing at St. Joseph's Hospital, this city, when she met Dr. Byers, who came here little more than one year ago to enter the same institution as an internist. Often the two met in the course of their respective duties and Cupid was not slow to take advantage of the opportunity that lay before him, and the little fellow shot his arrows with true aim.

Unfortunately, for the time being at least, the romance was interrupted when Dr. Byers returned about seven months ago to his home in Canada. The call to serve his country and motherland in the great European conflict was too strong for him to resist and recently he enlisted in the Queen's Ambulance Corps, being given the rank of captain. Although parted by many miles, the days spent together in St. Joseph's hospital were not forgotten by either Miss Anderson or Dr. Byers, with the result that the young woman travelled to Canada to meet the man to whom she was betrothed and arrange for the marriage ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of John Anderson, of the firm of Anderson Bros., silk manufacturers, of this city.
