WEDDING AT PITTSFERRY. Of Miss Fanny Galway to John McClement. Pittserry, Nov. 25.—Wednesday evening was the scene of a pleasant event at the home of George Galway, the occasion being the marriage of his youngest daughter, Fanny, one of the vicinity's most popular young ladies, to John McClement, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McClement, Pittserry. The officiating clergyman was Rev. C. W. Hollingsworth, of St. Lawrence Methodist church. The wedding was in the house and of a quiet nature, only the immediate relatives of both parties being present. The house was tastefully decorated. The table was beautifully laid beneath a bell-like canopy connected with streamers gracefully draped. The evergreen arch, interwoven with ribbon and foliage, marked the place of the ceremony itself. The marriage took place at eight o'clock. The happy couple took their places to the strains of Lohengrin's bridal chorus, played by Miss Jennie McClement, sister of the bridegroom. The couple were unattended. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a gown of white crepe-de-chine most simply made with full gathered skirt and rose bud trimming in the form of a shawl collar. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, sweetheart roses and maidenhair fern, and wore a long tulle veil caught in place with white rose buds and smilax. Little Laura Gates, niece of the bride, carried a ring on a gold tray. Immediately after the ceremony and congratulations, the wedding party sat down to a sumptuous repast. Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth proposed the health of the bride and bridegroom, wishing them a pleasant journey through life. About mid night Mrs. McClement donned her travelling suit of navy blue serge trimmed with bands of braid and velvet and a white corded silk hat, with a white wing. The couple left amid showers of rice for their new home, which the bridegroom had comfortably furnished, he being one of Pittserry's prosperous young farmers.

WOMEN FIGHT DUEL FOR MAX. Desperate Battle in Lonely Country House—Husband Looks On. Seranton, Nov. 28.—Two women, one the wife and the other the mistress of George W. Snyder, a wholesale fruit dealer of this city, fought a duel with revolvers, and the wife was fatally wounded. The duel took place in the country home of Snyder at Moscow, ten miles from Seranton, an isolated section, and both women emptied their revolvers at each other while Snyder looked on.

Snyder left for Seranton in an automobile with the other woman, but a telephone message from Moscow caused their arrest before reaching Seranton.

OFFICERS CONTENT TO TAKE LOWER RANK

Battalions Broken Up, They Join Machine-Gun and Bombing Parties. London, Nov. 28.—The majority of the Canadian officers, whose battalions have been broken up for drafts in France express their willingness to take lesser rank and join fighting battalions in France. Very few express any intention of returning to Canada to civil life.

Shorncliffe is the camp most affected by the new order of things, and some of the former majors there have already taken lower ranks and joined the machine gun, bombing and other special schools. One colonel who saw the inevitable change three months ago took a trench mortar course as captain, and went to the front. He has already been promoted to major.

There are at present nearly 200 of first and second division non-coms, and privates training for commissions at Shorncliffe, Seaford and Bramshott.

GREAT POLITICAL EVENT

Change of Premiership Last of Series of Dramatic Events. London, Nov. 28.—The Daily Chronicle says Premier Sturmer's fall will be hailed as a great political event in Russia.

"There can be little doubt," the paper adds, "that in the general view the stood for the forces with which the Duma and its radical democracy had been at loggerheads. This change of premiership is the last of a series of dramatic events. When the Duma reassembled last week there was no ministerial statement, although the enemy proclamation of a new Kingdom of Poland would seem to have made the usual ministerial declaration of policy more than usually desirable, quite apart from the necessity of contradicting the sinister and unfounded rumors then current of negotiations for a separate peace. Instead the cabinet members left the House immediately after prayers, but it was remarked that the Minister of War remained.

The speeches in detail were all hostile to the Government, that of the Liberal leader was of such a character that it had to be severely censured in the report. Then followed the dramatic episode. The ministers of war and marine rose, one after the other, and declared that Russia would not fight to the end; there would be no separate peace. Within the Duma and in the lobby the announcements created an indescribable scene of enthusiasm. The fighting services—the army and navy—were shown to be at one with the Duma in its determination to fight to a victorious finish and to demand for a more efficient conduct of the war.

After this demonstration Sturmer's tenure of office could hardly have been long. His removal from office is complete, and it is striking proof that the Czar, too, is with the Duma, the army and the nation."

BRIDE SUES ARMY FRAUD.

Mrs. Jenkins Charges Pseudo British Officer With Bigamy. New York, Nov. 28.—John Blandy Jenkins, who, married Miss Helen Veronica Perry of 515 West 156th street in Atlantic city on April 22nd last while he was posing there as a Lieutenant in the British Army invalided home for wounds suffered while performing brave acts at the battle of the Marne, and who was arrested for bigamy when his young wife found a letter in his pocket indicating that he had another wife, was sued yesterday for the annulment of the marriage.

Mrs. Jenkins, who is suing by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Perry, guardian ad litem, alleges that the defendant has another wife, Ethel Monks, an actress, to whom he was married in London in 1914. After he was arrested here Jenkins admitted that he didn't even see the battle of the Marne, but insisted that he had been a private in the British Army. He was held here for extradition to Atlantic city to be prosecuted for bigamy, but later disappeared and was last heard from in Canada. An order to serve the annulment papers on Jenkins by publication was signed by Justice Phillips.

JUDGMENT ON DEATH BED.

Late Chancellor Boyd Determined to Leave Nothing Incomplete. Toronto, Nov. 28.—The desire to leave nothing incomplete, no loose ends that others would have to knit together, led the late Chancellor Boyd to write a judgment upon his very death bed.

He left the bench on Friday afternoon, Nov. 17, at 4.30 o'clock, just having completed the hearing and giving oral judgment in the action by G. W. Mortimer against the Fesserton Timber Co. The same evening he played chess with a grandson, but later became ill. On Tuesday he sent for the papers in a case in which he had reserved judgment the week before—Hutchison v. Standard Bank—and wrote his judgment disposing of the case upon a slip of paper on Tuesday afternoon. In the early morning hours of Thursday, within thirty-six hours, he had passed away.

MEXICANS NOT UNANIMOUS

FOR THE NEWEST POLICY OF SECRETARY LANE

Delay for Withdrawal of Troops and Agreement to Permit Pursuit of Bandits, Divide Leaders. Queretaro, Mex., Nov. 28.—High Mexican officials here to attend the constitutional convention are still awaiting the full text of the border control protocol signed in Atlantic city last week and the full text of Secretary Lane's statement defining in part the policy of the United States government toward Mexico before they will make any comment on either.

There is evidence, however, that the news of the protocol and of Secretary Lane's statement has been received with mixed feelings. There is seemingly satisfaction that an arrangement has been reached for the withdrawal of the American troops from Mexico and for the control of the border, but this is tempered by the feeling that Secretary Lane's statement will require deep consideration.

The terms of the protocol mentioning a delay of forty days for the withdrawal of the troops, if conditions permit of such action, is adversely commented on in some quarters, as many influential men had hoped for the immediate recall of the troops to American territory.

It is known that certain leaders have vigorously opposed any agreement which would permit the pursuit into Mexico of bandits by American troops, as outlined by Secretary Lane, it being stated that such pursuit can only be regarded as an invasion.

Other influential men, however, have made the declaration that the signing of the protocol is the beginning of an understanding which will wipe out cause for disagreement between the two countries.

General Carranza told the Associated Press today it was "too early" to discuss the statement given on Friday by Secretary of the Interior Lane at Atlantic city concerning the policy of the United States toward Mexico. In the statement Mr. Lane asserted his belief that Carranza was a strong man and should be given a "full chance" to settle Mexican differences.

ALLIES MUST AID RUSSIA STRONGLY

Turkey and Bulgaria Should First Be Knocked Out, Garvin Contends. London, Nov. 28.—J. L. Garvin, editor of the Observer, declares in that paper that it is impossible for the Anglo-French to break through the western front unless the Allies totally change their policy regarding southeastern Europe, with a view to eliminating Turkey and Bulgaria. He says the fundamental question of the war now is to remodel the transport so as to strengthen Russia.

"The naval blockade," continues Mr. Garvin, "can never by itself reduce Germany, which is exploiting the resources of Turkish and other dominions, containing some of the most fertile tracts in the world, and developing their manpower, as in all the history of nations, never before. Before the finish of the war the Central league will have had from the beginning to the end nearly 20,000,000 men under arms. Our estimate is that the Central league altogether has four million men in reserve."

"We now see the stupendous folly of the withdrawal from Gallipoli, Russia can never act with the maximum power until the Dardanelles and Black Sea are reopened, enabling the Allies to maintain her reserve fully. Under present conditions Russia cannot come to the maximum of her possible fighting strength even within a year from now; perhaps can never come to it. The Allies made one of their worst mistakes in their incredible mishandling of the opportunities presented by the Rumanian intervention. The Germans grasped that situation and struck in a way that does equal credit to their intelligence and energy."

CLOSE GERMAN COLLEGES.

Teachers and Students Required for Mobilization Purposes. Copenhagen, Nov. 28.—The Berlin correspondent of the Bosphore Tidende says the German Government is considering favorably a proposal of Conservatives in the Reichstag that the universities and others of the higher schools in the empire be virtually closed, so that the teachers and scholars may be embraced in the plan for mobilization of civilians.

Denmark's War Costs.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Denmark's proximity to the war zones is adding heavily to the country's annual expenditures, according to consular advice to the Department of Commerce. This year's war cost is estimated at twenty-seven million dollars gold. Increased revenues will fall to carry this and the annual deficit is placed at $12,000,000 for next year. The Danish national debt will have reached about $130,000,000 by the end of the next fiscal year.

NO LIQUOR IN BAKERIES.

Ready-made Cakes Must Not Contain Any Liquor in Ontario. Mince pies, plum puddings, etc. in Ontario will be made without brandy or other liquor this Christmas, unless those holiday eatables are made as a home bake. According to the Ontario License Board the Ontario Temperance Act does not make any provision for the baker using liquor in his business, and a baker who called upon the board recently for light upon the point was sent away with sound, if unwelcome, advice.

The Ontario License Act allows the keeping of liquor for manufacturing purposes, but the clause setting out the different articles into which it may be placed does not include confectionery of any kind. There is no outlet for the baker by keeping the liquor in his own home and bringing it to the shop, since carrying it from one place to another is an offence, while having it in a building used as a bake shop and partly as a residence is also an offence unless the residence where it is kept is entirely shut off from the shop.

The discussion of the scope of the law in making it an offence for a citizen to have liquor in his possession except upon his own residential premises apparently indicates a way out for the man with the flask. According to the view expressed at the License Department, the Act makes it legal for a person to "carry liquor from one place where it may be legally kept to another place where it may be legally kept." For a person to carry liquor from his home to the home of a neighbor or friend, both being places where liquor may be legally kept, is stated to be within the law.

While one or two convictions have indicated that having liquor on the person is to be construed as a violation of the law, it is said that the Act in its bearing upon this point will be used more to keep a check upon the operations of bootleggers than to harrass the man who likes to have a "nip" about.

Killed Pig in Bathroom.

An Ontario manufacturer who desires to have his hands stay with him all the time sees to it that they are well housed. He will build for a promising workman the kind of house he wants to live in, and at a very moderate rate of interest on the outlay, the result being that he provides six rooms for $10 or less per month. The price will vary slightly according to taxes levied by the municipality, which go up annually with never-failing regularity. It was not always possible to get English-speaking workmen, and resort finally had to be had to any type, irrespective of language or nationality.

A southern European was installed in a six-roomed suite with model bathroom, hardwood floors, and other conveniences. It was found by an inspector that the tenant in this instance used the bathroom for killing hogs. This is but one instance of the difficulty of socially reforming some classes of immigrants. They have skill and work, but social habits that are hard to eradicate in a generation.

Ontario's Thoroughbreds.

Over seventy-four per cent of the stallions under license in the Province of Ontario are thoroughbreds. That striking fact is recorded in the annual report of the Stallion Enrolment Board to Hon. James Duff, and represents the degree of success that has attended the operation of the drastic legislation passed three years ago aiming to gradually eliminate all "grade" animals.

In 1913, when the Act went into force there were 993 grades out of 2,760, or 36 per cent. To-day there are approximately only 726 grades out of 2,630, or about 28 per cent. The big cut was made on August 1st, when by the operation of the Act all grade animals with defects were put on the prohibited list.

This eliminated about 100 stallions. The remaining grades will be tolerated for two seasons yet, but in 1918 they must go and thereafter only pure bred stock will be licensed in the province.

Huge Timber Braces.

Steel and wood do not mix satisfactorily in ships, and hence in building the schooners designed to carry abroad British Columbia lumber the main deck will be supported by immense angle-brackets of timber cut out of one piece. To procure these angle-brackets special forest cruisers were and are being employed. Steel brackets at present would be hard to get, and if they could be got they would not be used, because they have not been found to serve as well as wood in wooden vessels.

Tribute to Tecumseh.

The Kent Battalion paid a tribute to the memory of Tecumseh, the great Indian Chief, the other day, when the unit stopped for a short time at the McDowell farm, in Zone Township, near Chatham, on which a monument to the Indian leader was erected a few years ago. On McDowell farm the battle of the Thames, in which Tecumseh lost his life, is said to have been fought. The battalion tarried at the farm and saluted the monument on the route march from Bothwell to Thamesville.

Nobody Awaiting Execution.

At the present time there is not a single convicted murderer in Canada. For the first time in years the Minister of Justice has no capital case before him waiting his recommendation, and the final arbitration of the Cabinet Council as to whether the death sentence should be carried out or not.
