VERY SMALL ONE.

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Nawspaper Syndicate). "If it is Roxane Pembroke, pe haps I can help you?"

These words rang in my ears. They were the words used by Evelyn Phillips when Harry Pendleton sought her aid in gaining my love What did she mean? What else could she mean than that she expected through her hold upon Arthur bring about a separation which would leave Arthur free to marry her and me free to marry Harry Pendleton?

"If it is Roxane Pembroke, perhaps I can help you?" How dared she assume that she could bring about a separation between Arthur and me What assurance of Arthur's love did she have which would justify her in making such an assertion? The few days immediately following the evening at Mr. Henderson's were filled with uncertainty; doubt and fear. Yet I realized that to a great extent I had brought this situmindenna

Munition Factories,

Rome, Dec. 8 .- As a proof that Italy is prepared to push her operations vigorously the Premier announced that there were now 2,100 factories working on war material, the workers being one-fifth women, whose participation both in industries and agriculture was increasing daily. The Premier declared that victory would insure the equilibrium on the eastern Mediterranean, which he termed one of the chief foundations of Italian policy. He said that Valona would be Italy's strategic post on the Adriatic from which would radiate her future commercial expansion in the Balkans,
