

A Mother of France Pays
Tribute to Britain's Indian Soldiers.

On a Mountain Crag Italian
Officers Survey the Battle
Lines.

Grecian Revolutionary sailors on the "Hydra."

When England's colonial troops passed through one of the main streets of Paris a woman sprang out from the crowd of onlookers, and before anyone could interfere, succeeded in fastening a boutonniere in the straps holding a private's haversack. (Upper photo.)

Candling eggs before shipping to war front. (Lower photo.)

Italian officers observing the enemy.

What War Did Near Verdun

Back to the Front After Leave

SUPPLY AND AMMUNITION DEPOT NEAR VERDUN. A locality in the Verdun region near the front where are the barracks repair houses and an ammunition depot. The heavy bombardment of the Germans is evident from the shell holes splattered over the roofs.

CROWDS OF "PERMISSIONAIRES" RETURNING TO THE FRONT. Large numbers of "Permissionaires" or soldiers on short leave taking train back to the fighting line. The men after their brief vacation eagerly return to their duties feeling quite at home in their trenches.