BOXING GOSSIP.

Another sporting impresario has entered the field. He is Mike Donlin, one-time idol of the Polo Grounds. Donlin is identified with Grant Hugh Brown and C. T. Henshel, who have formed the Cuban Exposition Company, for the promotion of sporting events in Havana. A plant is now under construction in that city in which boxing matches, horse races and ball games will be held, and Donlin has been commissioned to arrange bouts and engage ball players.

The latest report as to Les Darcy is to the effect that Jimmy Dime will manage the Australian in his American venture. Dime had a chance to talk with Darcy on several occasions before the exhibition was cancelled, and it is said they came to an understanding. Dime is now on the way east from the coast, where he and Chip landed a few days ago.

Bob McAllister, whose middleweight championship aspirations were rudely checked by a two-round knockout at the hands of Mike Gibbons, has taken on a new career of hope and is headed for New York.

Johnny Dundee seems to have been making lots of money during the past year. Scotty Monteith, the little Italian's manager, announces that since Jan. 1 Dundee has taken part in twenty contests which have returned him $23,000.

Those who thought that Sam Langford is slipping because Bill Tate roughed him up a bit at their meeting at Syracuse will find it hard to explain how Sam knocked out Battling Jim Johnson when they met in St. Louis last week.

Dick Curley, matchmaker for the Clermont Athletic Club, of Brooklyn, is going after some big matches. He is backed by Jim Buckley, the wealthy New York promoter, who will give Jess Willard $30,000 to box ten rounds with "Gunboat" Smith.

MORAN NO LONGER

Considered in the Champion Class of Pugilists.

Frank Moran is no longer to be considered as one of the contenders for the heavyweight title. With Willard threatening retirement Moran would be in a position to battle for the crown, even though he did make a poor showing against Dillon. He could ask for a return bout with the great killer. His showing against Gunboat Smith, however, seems to be conclusive proof that the Dillon fight was a real tip-off on the heavyweights. Smith dropped out of the front rank of heavyweights some time ago when the knockout punch of his once powerful right hand deserted him. Since that time he has been having only a fair amount of success, but he was able to outpoint Moran with something to spare. Less than a year ago Moran was regarded as having some chance against Jess Willard, and Smith was not considered. To-day Moran is regarded as no better than before he went to Paris and engaged in the bout with Jack Johnson. How the mighty have fallen.

Would Bar the "Spitter."

The "spit ball" is sure to be barred some day by the magnates. The emery ball was barred last season and the use of rosin will be prohibited next year. It is only a question until the pitchers will be allowed to use only the ball in making their delivery. There are matters that have long been discussed by baseball magnates. All artificial methods of deceiving the batter should be eliminated at the earliest possible date.

Word from Larry Doyle, down in Jacksonville, Fla., is that he has thrown away his crutches and is walking about on the ankle he broke as good as ever. Doyle seems to have had a long siege of it, but it is just as well that he took his time about letting the ankle mend. He is one of a number of players who are wintering at Jacksonville.

Jesse Burkett can't keep out of baseball. After quitting the Eastern League he secured a position in a Worcester brass factory and announced he was done with the game. And the first thing they did was to make him manager and coach of the shop baseball league.

HOCKEY A MINIATURE VERDUN.

According to Detroit News—Gaining Favor in U.S.

The Detroit News prints the following: "Hockey isn't a sport; it's a miniature Verdun," comments a peace-loving citizen who recently sat in at his first ice battle. But the man was wrong. Hockey is a sport—a real one—spiced with danger, filled with dash, speed and thrills, a game that enthralls and enthralls. And now hockey promises to come into its own in the United States, due to the building of indoor rinks in all the largest cities in the country. The great winter game has flourished for many years in Canada, where consistent wintry weather gives all-season ice. But not until "ice palaces" began springing up in Uncle Sam's domain has it been possible to play hockey games on schedule. Detroit now has one.

In the past few years the United States has developed some great stars. But wonderful as they are, they must yield top rank to the Canadians, who have mastered every detail of the game, who have become the standards by which all other hockeyists must be judged.

TO TWIRL FOR CHICAGO.

This Makes His Third Trip to the Majors.

President McCaffery, of Toronto, announced the sale of Pitcher McTigue to the Chicago National League Club. The Toronto club is to get two players and a cash consideration for the port-side twirler.

McTigue was the best twirler the Leafs had last season, with the exception of Urban Shocker, who was recalled after making a brilliant record for the New York American League club. McTigue was frequently palyed in the outfield, as he was a fir fielder and a good hitter.

McTigue went from Montreal to the Boston Nationals, but was then signed by Manager Clynne for the Toronto club. Detroit got him from the Leafs and later returned him back. He has pitched excellent ball for Toronto since that period, and it would not be surprising if he should be a success on his second appearance in a Tener outfit.

Quebec Race Track.

An important change was made in the Quebec bill concerning the tax on race tracks. Instead of a 4 per cent. tax, the government has decided to apply the following rate of taxation: $1,000 per day each day of racing on each race track in Montreal, $500 per day of racing on each track outside the island of Montreal, and $300 per day of racing on each half mile track where the entrance fee is only fifty cents.

LES DARCY EXPECTED TO LAND ON TUESDAY

Tex Rickard Said to Be in Wireless Communication With the Australian

Unless storms and shipwrecks intervene to wreck his boat and cast him upon a desert island, Les Darcy, the mystery of the Atlantic, will plant his feet in New York some time next Tuesday.

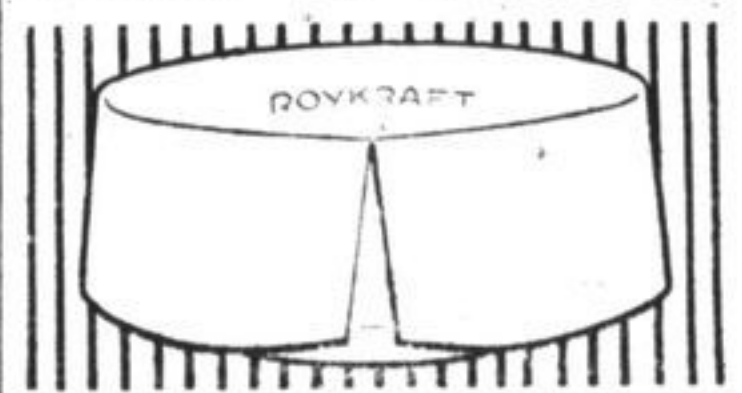

Rickard has been in wireless communication with Darcy several times since he started the wild scramble for bouts by announcing his intention to match George Carpentier with some one. He knows the boat on which Darcy is a passenger or a sailor, and says that when the proper time comes he will let the public in on his secret.

Considering the number of self-confessed managers for Darcy, it is too bad that the day of his arrival should become known, for the Antipodean champion doesn't like crowds and "crowd" would be a poor description for the gathering that will be on hand to look after Darcy's interests.

Rickard is uncertain as to the probable opponent of Darcy. The performance of Jack Dillon and Billy Miske Tuesday night left no choosing between these scrappers, and Rickard believes Mike Gibbons would be a splendid adversary for the visitor.

The Giants finished last in 1915, although they had the champion batsman of the league in their lineup, this being Larry Doyle. Last season, Cincinnati had the best swatsman in the person of Hal Chase. Still, the Reds' best was to tie for the cellar position. May be if it hadn't been for Messrs. Doyle and Chase, the Giants and Reds would have fallen out of the league.

TENNIS ON SKATES.

Meets With Success in the First Test Made.

Ice tennis, that's the latest in sport. This form of competition was tried out for the first time in this country at the Ice Skating Palace, New York, and was voted a success.

Two of the first ten ranking players are among the contestants. They were Watson M. Washburn and Dean Mathey. The other three who played were Frederick B. Alexander, who suggested the game; Theodore Roosevelt Pell and Francis T. Hunter, Washburn and Mathey played several sets of doubles against Alexander and Pell and the honors were even, for no score was kept. The matches served to prove that ice tennis is not only feasible, but that it offers opportunity for an exciting winter pastime. Skill in skating is, of course, a necessity, but it was evident that tennis skill of a high order could be developed in the ice game. The players served, drove and volleyed with much of the same dash and skill which they display on dirt or grass courts, the fact of being on skates hindering them only now and then. The court on which the men played was marked out with painted black lines, and the regulation tennis ball was used. It was generally agreed that singles play was not feasible, but that doubles held many possibilities.

THIRD MINTO CUP TRUSTEE
Sir Richard McBride Taking it Up With W. K. George.

Approving the suggestion of a third trustee, to be named for the board of the Minto Cup trustees, and commending the British Columbia Lacrosse Association for its stand in cancelling all championship series until after the war, Sir Richard McBride writes from London that he is taking up with W. K. George, the Toronto trustee, the question of the immediate appointment of a third man.
