

Forceful Factors in Allies' Advance --- Scenes From Various Fronts

Automobile proves a valuable asset to British balloon observers on the western front.

One of the great new French guns in action on the western front that have done so much to give the Allies their advantage in artillery fire.

French sentry in the Vosges Mountains erects sand-bag shelter on classical lines, affording protection against hostile bullets as well as against rain and snow.

Taking care of a wounded Red Cross dog, wounded in action.

In new khaki, their movements concealed, the Italian troops swarm the hillside like ants.

Italy's Alpine battlefields. Man and nature shelter the soldiers.