CRUISERS SEARCHING FOR GERMAN RAIDER

And an End Will Soon Be Put to Its Depredations.

(Special to the Whig.) Buenos Aires, Jan. 18.—Survivors declare that the German raider always used the Danish or British flags until she was close to her victim, when she ran up the German ensign.

There are still from 300 to 500 members of the crews of sunken vessels unaccounted for, and they may be lost.

Four fast cruisers, including the famous Glasgow, which took part in the Coronel battle two years ago, are understood to be leading the hunt for the raider.

A Japanese cruiser is steaming northward for Punta Arenas to join in the chase. In addition to the Glasgow, the British warships seeking the raider are understood to be the Vindictive, Orana and Edinburgh Castle.

Not the Guilty Ones. Kingston, Jan. 18.—(To the Editor): About two years ago I unfortunately moved next door to a person of the same name, who the following week was charged with selling liquor without a license.

Expresses Thanks. Kingston, Jan. 17.—(To the Editor): Major Wilgar writes to thank the people of Kingston, Glenburgie and Collins Bay who responded so promptly to his appeal for socks for his company.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

No Cause For Disappointment.

Bath Road, Jan. 18.—(To the Editor): In your report of the Kingston Industrial Agricultural Association annual meeting held yesterday your heading in bold type, "Directors Disappointed with Surplus of $209.94," same stands to be corrected.

The directors very generously granted over $175 additional, that with minor other expenditures caused by increased cost of labor, etc., brought the total expenditure up to over $800 over 1915 expenditure.

Following is a table of expenditures for the past six years, showing the growth of the institution:

1911—Expenditure, $1,015.76; deficit, $118.10.

1912—Expenditure, $1,303.22; deficit, $254.16.

1913—Expenditure, $1,241.56; deficit, $65.67. (Rained both days of the exposition; this is the first year of my management.)

1914—Expenditure, $2,535.34; surplus, $191.13.

1915—Expenditure, $3,465.09; surplus, $345.02.

1916—Expenditure, $4,325; surplus, $209.94.

Now the foregoing is presented to the general public same as presented to my Board of Directors yesterday.

I ask, would any business house dispute larger expenditures and go back to the lean years of deficit? I am not less highly than we do. The reports of all fairs held east of Toronto, which have so far been received, show a deficit in every single instance.

That Mr. Bushell has produced a surplus is, to our way of thinking, a marvellous thing. Why anyone should feel disappointed because the surplus was not larger comes as a surprise.

Mr. Bushell is peculiarly fitted to manage such an institution; it would be impossible to find, in city or township, another man as well qualified. So here's to you, Bob Bushell! May you long remain manager of the Kingston Industrial Exhibition.
