NO HUNGER STRIKE.

Prisoners at Fort Henry Did Work Commandants Ordered.

A story was in circulation on Saturday morning that the prisoners of war at Fort Henry were on a hunger strike, to carry out a threat made to the commandant that they would not shovel snow from in front of the main gate. Major H. F. Date, commandant of the fort, stated to the Whig that the snow was shovelled and the prisoners were taking their rations as usual. He added that there was no ground for such a rumor.

Saturday Market Prices.

There was a comparatively small market on Saturday morning, with no change in prices. Eggs sold at 50c a dozen and butter from 45c to 55c a lb. in rolls. Beef was offered in many places from 11c to 15c a lb.; lamb at 25c and pork from 16c to 18c a lb.

BUILDERS' SUPPLIES

HARD COAL

The value of Pea Coal for cooking ranges is not fully realized. It makes a quick fire and is cheaper than chestnut coal. Good results are obtained by mixing it half and half with Chestnut.
