THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand.

An exhibition of the better class of interesting photodramas and polite variety entertainment has been arranged for to-night and Wednesday. An exceedingly fine five-reel feature has been booked for this engagement—"Life's Shadow," with Irene Hawley and William Nigh in the leading roles. Miss Billie Burke will appear in the fourth chapter of "Gloria's Romance," the epoch-making serial which the Grand is offering for the first half of each week. A two-reel Universal photoplay, a comedy, and the Pathe News will also be shown. An unusual vaudeville bill will be shown. Billy and Eva McClintock will present their comedy singing and dancing specialty.

Guy Bates' Post.

Richard Walton Tully, appreciating the fact that this city has always demonstrated in a substantial way its recognition of the very fine talents of Guy Bates Post, has decided to give our theatregoers an opportunity for seeing his new play, "The Masquerader," prior to its presentation in New York City. Mr. Post will come to the Grand Opera House for one night only, on Thursday, Jan. 25th.

"The Masquerader" is a dramatization by John Russell Booth of the novel known in its English form as John Chilcote, M.P., which was written by Katherine Cecil Thurston. For dramatic purposes it has been modernized.

At the Strand.

Capacity business and every one pleased with the elaborate programme given was the order of things at this play-house last evening. Wilfred Lucas and Constance Colman were seen at their best in the latest Triangle play, "The Mischance Mystery." The fun and tragedy that grow out of an invasion of a small town by a group of medical swindlers lend unusual punch to the plot. Charley Chaplin in "The Floorwalker" and Mack Swain, in a two-part Keystone comedy, "Safety First Ambrose," are seen in two of the greatest comedies of fun and frolic. Other good reels and polite vaudeville complete a very entertaining bill. Shown again to-night.

At Griffins.

Full to overflowing was the order of things at Griffin's last evening to see Louise Huff and Jack Pickford in a picturization of Booth Tarkington's famous novel, "The Heavens." There were more than satisfied; in fact, highly delighted with this humorous masterpiece. Both Miss Huff and Mr. Pickford fully sustained their very high reputation as stars, and were ably assisted in doing so by cast of exceptionally well qualified screen artists. Clematis, the house dog, and Genesis, the family servant, are a whole show in themselves. The production is beyond a question of doubt the best humorous screen drama that has ever been put together. The same wonder picture, with other excellent offerings, will be presented to-day and to-morrow. One cannot afford to miss this very unusual bill of real entertainment.

The Girl From Frisco.

Has Arrived at the King Edward Theatre and will be there to-night and every Monday and Tuesday afternoons and evenings for the next fourteen weeks. This is the new serial that has created so much interest in the larger cities throughout America. "Social Pirates," Wednesday and Thursday. Usual admission.
