McLeod, a former member of the first football team who was the principal speaker against the granting of "Q's", proposed the above resolution after speaking against the granting of such insignia. Various devices were used to defeat his object, but in the end the resolution was passed without one dissenting voice.

The passing of the resolution was followed by Queen's yell and various college songs. .This was the principal business of the evening, and it was a late hour before the meeting adjourned. Permission was granted to the Aschylean Society to hold a social evening on February 16th, and the Arts Society to hold a dance on February 9th, and not February 2nd as first decided. Both the Arts and the Theological Societies communicated to the A. M. S. that it was against the wishes of the members of the societies that University should be 1884. abolished. weeks, being in the Hotel Dieu. Two weeks ago his recovery was so far advanced that he was able to go back to his home, but at that time his right side was paralyzed. On Sun-day convulsions set in and he passed away after five weeks suffering. His mother said that during his sickness he never complained and always kept hoping for his recovery.

The little fellow was born twelve years ago at Watertown, N.Y., but came to Canada when but an infant, the family going to Picton. After a short time in Picton the family came to the city, his father taking a posttion in the tannery. There are two other children in the family, James and Lillian, both older than the deceased. The dead boy was a grandson of E.F. Dennee, Inverary,
