TO PROMOTE FRIENDSHIP.

Members of Quebec "Bonne Entente" Visit Ontario.

Believing that amity between the peoples of Quebec and Ontario will be most effectually promoted and that prejudices will be more readily removed by closer acquaintance and mutual understanding of each other's customs, viewpoint, and aspirations, fourscore prominent citizens of the sister province visited Ontario recently, stopping in Toronto, Hamilton, and Niagara Falls. They came in response to an invitation from the Ontario committee of the "Bonne Entente"—the movement to encourage friendly relations between the two provinces-to return the visit made by an Ontario delegation to Quebec last October. They were welcomed in Toronto by the local members of that organization, by the civic authorities, and by the governing bodies of the University of Toronto, which conferred upon Sir George Garneau, one of the leaders of the party, a former mayor of Quebec city, a distinguished alumnus and professor of Laval University, and the chairman of the National Battlefields Commission, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Greetings to the people of Ontario from the municipal Council and people of Quebec were presented by Mayor Henri E. Lavigneur, and a message from the rector of the University of Laval to the University of Toronto was delivered by Sir George Garneau

The visiting party included such well-known public men as Sir Lomer Gouin, Prime Minister of Quebec; Hon. Adelard Turgeon, C. M. G., Speaker of the Quebec Legislative Council; Mr. Justice L. P. Pelletier. formerly Postmaster-General of Canada; Hon. O. C. F. Delage, Senator Beaubien, Judge Dezy, of Three Rivers, President Z. Hebert, of the Montreal Board of Trade, and President L. Gravel, of the Montreal Chambre de Commerce. They were welcomed to Ontario by prominent citizens like J. M. Godfrey, A. E. Ames, W. P. Gundy, James' Ryrie, S. R. Parsons, Lieut.-Colonel Mulloy, Professor John Squair, Prof. J. H. Cameron, Prof. St. Elme de Caamp, Frank Wise, W. A. Dunlap, Thomas Roden. J. P. Murray, J. P. Langley, I. S. Fairty, James E. Day, T. A. Rowan.

No Soldier Forgotten. A Canadian friend writes that she thinks every Canadian soldier must have got several parcels this Christmas, and that if there was such a thing as a lonely soldier in any battalion he could not consider himself so any longer when the parcels arrived. Lest anyone should suppose that our soldiers are at all spoiled, remember that even the best of food becomes monotonous and that "eats" as unlike those supplied by paternal authority as possible, are hailed with the warmth never given to articles sold to trusting relatives as "the very thing for the trenches," or to books reeking with the most lofty statements. "Socks and eats" should be graven on the minds of all who aspire to please the Canadian army Nor are the wounded and sick neglected, for the Parcels Department of the Canadian Red Cross has been busy seeing that each Canadian in hospital for Christmas gets a reminder that he is not forgotten. "Send me any old food," wrote a Canadian to his aunt in London, on which she commented indignantly to a friend, who by right of birth understood the Canadian language, "Imagine Jack supposing I would send him 'old' food! He shall have the best I can get at the stores, poor darling!" and the Canadian friend was too pleased with the sentiment to explain matters .- Mary MacLeod Moore's English letter.
