

OUR CLOTHES ASSORTMENTS

Are grouped under two general heads: Conservative styles and those intended for men who want fashion's latest wrinkles; then we make numerous adaptations of general models, little differences in cut, of shaping, of effect, which taken in the aggregate gives us a variety of styles among which the exactly "right suit" is waiting for every man.

It is unfortunate to see a man neglect his personal appearance when such good clothes can be had at $15.00, $18.00 up to $25.00.

A Troublesome Dog.

MILITARY CIRCLES.

Mrs. Lloyd has received a cable from her husband, Lieut. W. H. Lloyd, medical officer of the 23rd Battalion, telling of his safe arrival in England. He is at Westenhanger camp, as also is Lieut. C. B. Crawford of Queen's Ambulance Corps. Lieut. Lloyd hopes shortly to see his brother, Pte. J. F. Lloyd, at present in France.

As applications continue to be received at militia headquarters and by officers commanding districts from tradesmen and other individuals for assistance in the recovery of debts due to them by officers and soldiers serving in the Canadian Expeditionary Force, or the active militia of Canada, and from officers or sergeants' messes, regimental canteens, etc., it has been found desirable to inform the public that the military authorities have no power to enforce payment, and they are unable to assist in the recovery of private debts. All persons who give credit to officers and soldiers do so at their own risk.

Officers, non-commissioned officers and men are as amenable to the civil law of the country as any other class of His Majesty's subjects, with this exception, that no execution can be taken against their person, pay, arms, ammunition, equipment, instruments, regimental necessities or clothing. The military authorities are therefore unable to take any steps towards the collection of private debts.

Notification has been received at militia headquarters from the Director of Graves Registration and Enquiries, London, that owing to difficulties of transport and for military reasons, it has been found necessary to issue the strictest regulations forbidding the acceptance of even a small stone memorial for erection over graves in France, during the continuance of hostilities. Under arrangements now in force, all known graves are marked with a durable wooden cross, with a stamped metal inscription bearing full particulars.

The above information is published in order to spare much disappointment to relatives of deceased officers and men who may contemplate sending memorials to England for erection over graves in France.

For forestry draft companies have been authorized. Capt. Barnett at Renfrew, Capt. Kenny, at Ottawa, Capt. Ferguson at Brockville, and Capt. McEustie at Belleville will command.

Capt. B. F. Bainsmith, late P. P. C. L., has been transferred to the Royal Flying Corps from the C.E.F.

Lieut. R. Bishop has been transferred from the Ottawa Forestry draft to the 230th Depot and to accompany the draft overseas.

C.S.M. A. C. Davis, late 248th, has been appointed lieutenant in the Ottawa Forestry Depot.

Col. G. Hunter, Oglvie, A.A.G., left on Wednesday evening for western points of the district.

Major G. I. Campbell, G.R.O., was in the city on Thursday morning. He is holding a recruiting campaign for the film, "Canada in Khaki." This has been most successful. He speaks at Carp on Friday evening, Pakenham on Saturday, and will spend Sunday in Peterboro, speaking at Trinity Church there.

As representative of the 47th Frontenac Regiment, Major Knight has been taken on the strength of the 14th Regiment, Canadian Defence Force. The major is confident that as soon as seeding finishes there will be a large number of county men joining the 14th. Seeding requires a large amount of help, and farmers are "doubting up" to get the work done.

A BURSTING SHELL CAUSED HIS DEATH

Pte. F. H. Glover Was Killed While Engaged in Carrying Ammunition.

Pte. F. H. Glover, brother of William Glover, barber in Fred Elmer's shop, whose death in action was reported recently and whose home was in Ganaoquoque, was killed while engaged in carrying ammunition to the front lines after the attack on Thebus. The major and adjutant of the 31st Alberta Battalion, of which deceased was a member, had written, giving the particulars. A high explosive shell burst near him and he met instant death. His body was recovered, and was buried in Ecorseville cemetery.

This was the first casualty that occurred in the transport section of the battalion, and the loss of this gallant young soldier was keenly felt by all his comrades. Pte. Glover was killed on April 19th. He was at first reported missing. On his person was found a letter he had received from "Bob" Kirke, an old chum, who it will be remembered, was awarded a medal at Ganaoquoque some time ago for saving a person from drowning.

Dog Attacked Boy.

Constable Edward Graham was called to shoot a dog which had attacked a little son of Prof. Kirkpatrick, Kensington Avenue. The dog ran off as soon as he made the attack, and when the constable arrived on the scene could not be located. However, while on the call, the constable gathered in a stray brown water spaniel. He has the canine at his home and the owner can secure it from him.

THEATRICAL NEWS

At the Grand.

At the Grand to-night William Farnum appears in the first of the Fox special features entitled "A Tale of Two Cities." This is a lasting picturization of Dickens' immortal story. William Farnum appears in the dual role of two distinct personalities: Darnay, the suave and silent aristocrat; Carton, the rum-wrecked genius, abused to a gutter hell by his sloth and his appetite. This is by far the best work that he has ever done and it will leave a lasting impression on all who witness this superb production. The supporting cast includes such well-known favorites as Jewel Carmen, Charles Gray, Joseph Swickard, Ralph Lewis, Herschell Mayall, and Marc Robbins. Three clever musicians, Dolly, Bennett and Young, that versatile trio, offer one of the best vaudeville acts seen here in some time. The latest Pathé News and comedy reels complete this exceptional bill for to-night and Friday and Saturday matinee and night. Coming: Sarah Bernhardt in "Mothers of France."

At Griffin's.

Lenore Ulrich, who plays all descriptions of exotic characters from Hawaiian, Mexican Algerian, and Indian maidens to assorted types of Orientals, has returned to the well-known American Indian for her newest characterization. "Her Own People" is the title of Miss Ulrich's latest Pallas-Paramount picture, which will be shown at Griffin's to-day, Friday and Saturday, and in this, as the name indicates, she is moved to scorn the wiles and deceptions of the lowly white man for the noble-minded red man, but there is one redeeming character among all the scheming white trash, whom she absolutely despises in making love to the girl finally influences her to change her allegiance from red to white. The second episode of the greatest serial yet produced, "Patria," with Mrs. Vernon Castle in the title role, will also be shown on the same bill, and bids fair to eclipse the first episode in every particular. The usual act of high-class vaudeville and the interesting Mutual Weekly winds up a most entertaining programme.

The "Masque of Life."

"The Masque of Life" which plays at the Strand Theatre, Friday and Saturday, is a film so absolutely different from those common to America, that it is hard to class it as any one particular variety of production. Most people would call it a spectacle because of the tremendousness of its scenes, and the obvious way in which excitement is created by the very magnitude of the situations. The main story is a romance—that of a young girl with whom a prince falls in love. They plan to elope, but the death of the man's father puts the prince on the throne and blocks his proposed marriage to the pretty little circus girl. From a diplomatic standpoint he is forced into a marriage with one of royal blood and becomes a father. He believes his little circus sweetheart to be dead, and does not meet her again until the moment when she rescues his baby from the top of a 360 foot chimney, where it had been taken by a crazed circus chimpanzee. Throughout the entire seven reels of the film there are spectacular incidents, and the story increases in its power, bringing the film to a close logically at the last moment. "Fatty" Arbuckle in "The Bright Lights" and Helen Holmes in "A Lass of the Lumberlands" will also be shown.

Fell in Action.

The many friends of Mrs. M. E. Shannon, widow of the late Christopher Shannon, Estevan, will learn with regret of the death of her eldest son, Charles William Shannon, who died April 13th of wounds received in action at Vimy Ridge. Deceased was born in Sunbury twenty-one years ago, but had spent the greater portion of his life in Estevan, where his mother resides. He was a mechanic, having worked at his trade in the garages in Estevan, but he gave up his position in life and willing responded to the call of his country, enlisting in the 152nd Battalion. His sacrifice to duty will be an inspiration to all.

Two Kingstonians Hit.

Corpl. S. H. Coulson, who was with the 14th Regiment guard, qualified as a machine gunner and went overseas with a draft from the 59th to the 2nd Battalion, has been wounded, according to the official casualty list. This is the second time that he has been hit by Hun shrapnel.

S. Dell, one of four khaki-clad sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dell, Earl street, is also in the list of wounded. His three brothers are now in France.
