The local corps has been making a strong bid for recruits throughout the city and surrounding district, but so far the success attained has not been very gratifying to the officers, who have put much energy into the work. In to-day's announcement the date of the opening of Barrieffield Camp is given, and also the recent authorization of an overseas company to be distinct from the home defence companies, and for which the officers will soon be announced. There are still several hundred young men in this city who should be in uniform, and the call of the local regiment should be productive of better results than have been so far obtained.

THEATRICAL NEWS

Sarah Bernhardt at Grand.

To-night will be your last chance to see "Tale of Two Cities," starring William Farnum in the dual roles of Charles Larnay and Sydney Carton. This is a lasting screen adaptation of Dickens' well-known classic, and proves to be one of the best pictures seen here in some time. An excellent singing, dancing and musical act, together with other pictures, complete this attractive programme. For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week another sterling bill has been secured. When "Mothers of France" was filmed, one of the greatest motion pictures in the history of the industry was taken. Madame Sarah Bernhardt in this stupendous offering does the most superb work of her entire career and shows that she is indeed the world's supreme artist. The Grand Theatre is happy to say that it will have the pleasure of presenting this master product on to its patrons. This picture when first shown in this country at the Rialto Theatre in New York City made a most wonderful impression. It was given the most wonderful press notices ever accorded a motion picture by the New York critics, and it is repeating this success wherever it is being shown. It showing in this city is a film event you cannot afford to miss. An interesting travalgue and comedy pictures will also be shown.

At Griffin's.

To-night will be the last opportunity to see the celebrated drama of racial conflict "Her Own People" featuring the renowned screen favorite Lenora Lithich. This is one of the best stories of Indian life which has been shown on the screen for some time, and was so pronounced by all present last evening. Also the second episode of the most wonderful serial yet produced "Patria" will be shown for the last time this evening. Don't miss this opportunity to begin now to follow the amazing events related in the different episodes of this supreme serial. An exceptionally clever vaudeville act consisting of high class singing, and very funny comedy complete an excellent bill.

"Masque of Life" Film Novelty.

Those who want to see a film that is absolutely different and novel must be sure to get to the Grand Theatre, where "The Masque of Life," a tremendous seven-reel spectacle, will be shown for the last time to-night. It's the most startling and unusual combination of romance, haze, tragedy, mother-love, heart-rending, laughs and tears that could be imagined, and it truly has uncountable thrills. The thing that most people talk about in the picture is the work of Pete Monchello, the monkey star, who provides so much of the excitement. One of his stunts is to climb to the top of the 360 foot tall chimney with a real live baby under his arm. At the top of this chimney there is a thrilling fight between the monkey and the heroine of the story, who goes up the chimney on a guide rope to rescue the child. With the roofs of the city plainly visible below and the always imminent danger of baby, girl or monkey going down into the slanting chimney, this is a scene that makes every audience hold its breath.

Tremendous expense was incurred in making the spectacular scenes bigger than anything ever done before, and the huge success of the film during a long run at the Park Theatre, New York, proved the popularity of a picture which entertains and thrills, without preaching any sermon or touching on forbidden subjects. "The Masque of Life" is clean.

The sixth episode of "A Lass of the Lumberlands" and "Fatty" Arbuckle in "The Bright Lights" also held the boards and were well received.

For the last three days of next week an exceptionally attractive bill has been selected. Irene Rowley will be seen in the latest Triangle play, "Her Father's Keeper." In conjunction with the above feature the second of the new Keystone comedies entitled, "Maggie's First False Step," with Charles Murray and Louise Fazenda, polite vaudeville and "The Purple Mask" will also be shown.
