ROAD PAVING DISCUSSED

BY CITY COUNCIL AT ITS MONDAY NIGHT MEETING

Some Aldermen Want University Avenue Completed—If the Necessary Labor Can Be Secured the Paving May Be Done This Season. Whether or not the University Avenue pavement should be completed this year was debated for an hour by the City Council on Monday night. No decision was reached, as it was deemed advisable that the Board of Works should look into the matter and satisfy itself as to whether the necessary labor can be secured. Ald. Couper and Smith moved to change a resolution Council passed on April 19th, in which it decided to do no road paving this year, so as not to include University Avenue for which a by-law was passed last year. Ald. Nickle opposed the motion. Things were certainly no better, in regard to labor than in April. He did not think it necessary to finish paving University Avenue this year. Nobody had petitioned for the completion of the Avenue, and he was sure that Kingston's 1,200 men over here while they were making sacrifices over there. Nine-tenths of the people never used the centre of the streets, and many of the one-tenth who did had automobiles, and those who used them had time to pick out the good roads or take more time and go slower over the bad ones. In any case why pick out University Avenue? If anyone could show him that University Avenue was worse than Clergy Street between Earl and Johnson Street he would not oppose Ald. Couper's resolution. Ald. Litten took the same view as Ald. Nickle. Labor could not be secured at a low enough figure to run the road machinery. Furthermore he thought that the city should leave all labor possible to the munition factory and the shipbuilding company. Ald. Wright did not think that there would be any conserving of labor by not doing some paving this year.

year. The city had invested much money in a road paving plant, and was not only losing interest, but also much in the depreciation of the plant. Ald. Wright held that it was not right for the Board of Trade to try and tell Council what it should do. He alone had advocated fuller consideration before sweeping resolutions regarding paving which the Council put through on April 19th. Ald. Wright was of opinion that University Avenue came under the heading of necessary work. Ald. Armstrong declared he would not vote for any road work being done unless he could be shown that it is absolutely necessary. "If a man was asked if he would rather go to the trenches than ride over University Avenue, I'm pretty sure he would choose to ride over University Avenue," exclaimed the Rideau ward Orangeman.

If we are not even going to do any patching on University Avenue this year, then I would favor not spending one dollar on any other street," said Ald. Wright. "Let us save our $19,000 appropriation." "I'm in favor of paving the rest of University Avenue this year," announced Ald. Newman who declared that Avenue to have the worst roadway in the city.

Ald. O'Connor said he would not vote for the motion. The people he was sure would put up with the rough Avenue for another year in view of present conditions. Ald. O'Connor stated that the engineering department had done a great deal of the streets this year in the way of repairs. People perhaps did not realize it, but much had been done at this date.

Ald. Wright failed to see what use the Board of Works was this year if no paving was to be done. Its members might as well resign and leave the chairman to attend to whatever little was required to be done.

Ald. O'Connor consoled Ald. Wright with the announcement that if the other members resigned, the chairman would also step out, and all would keep time in marching out to a long vacation.

Mayor Hughes gave it as his opinion that he did not think the city engineer could get the men required to do the work on University Avenue. He advised consulting with the engineer before passing a resolution instructing him to go on with the work. He would like to see the pavement done, but not at too high a cost.

Ald. Couper intimated that he would withdraw his resolution and have the matter fully considered at the next meeting of the Board of Works.

The opinion of Ald. Smith was that the engineer could get the necessary men if he went out after them, at least to put down the concrete on the street.

Ald. Polson advocated taking a vote of the Council so that the Board of Works might see how the aldermen stood on the matter. However he would not support the paving of the street if the cost was much higher than that of last year.

The City Clerk pointed out that the University Avenue paving by-law had been passed last year, and part of the work done. The motion passed by Council on April 19th could not really stop the paving. Of course the engineer was wise in taking heed of the Council's motion to do no paving this year.

Ald. Corbett's view was that the Council should first learn if the necessary labor could be secured and also the cost.

Ald. O'Connor pointed out that Council and not the Board of Works had stopped the paving of University Avenue and it was up to Council to change its order if it wanted the Avenue completed.

It was finally decided that the Board of Works should report upon the matter at the next meeting of Council.

BURIED ON VIMY RIDGE.

Son of Mrs. Peter Embury, Verona, Rests on Sacred Ground.

Mrs. Peter Embury, Verona, has received particulars from Capt. W. H. Davis, chaplain of the Church of England, concerning the death of her son, who was in the 4th C.M.R. at the front. In part the chaplain says: "Your son was a brave boy and died nobly in a noble cause. As far as I can ascertain death was instantaneous, so that he was spared much suffering, which is indeed a great comfort. You will be glad to know that your boy's body was recovered, and that he now rests in a soldier's grave near where he fell at Vimy Ridge. I was able to be present and had a beautiful funeral service so full of comfort with its glorious message of resurrection hope. "One can only hope that this cruel war may soon be over. Just now the prospects are very bright. What a responsibility will rest upon all who are spared to return to carry out those great principles for which so many brave young lives have been sacrificed."

SGT-MAJOR POLLITT WOUNDED.

That bakers who go overseas with the Canadian troops are often in the danger zone is shown in the wounding of Sgt-Major Frederick Pollitt of Kingston, who went overseas a year and a half ago with the 4th Field Bakery. He was struck with shrapnel and his left shoulder was smashed, necessitating his transfer to hospital in England. Before enlisting Sgt-Major Pollitt was employed with Robertson & Nicolie. His family resides on Division Street. Recently his fourteen-year-old daughter died.

Can Get the Labor.

The Whig learns that the city engineering department can get the labor necessary for finishing the University Avenue pavement this year by paying prevailing wages. The labor will cost twenty per cent. more at least than it cost last year.
