A GRUESOME TALE TOLD

PTIE. THOMAS TALLEM, VERONA, WRITES OF HUN TREACHERY.

Tells of Incidents He Has Seen and Describes a Big Canadian Attack—Letter From Tpr. Joseph Smith.

Speaking of the attack made by the Canadians on the Germans the day after Easter Pte. Thomas Tallem writing to his mother, Mrs. E. A. Tallem, in Verona, says: A little after half past five word was passed along, "Over you go" and they say we were half an hour ahead of the time the schedule called for in reaching our final objective. You have seen a field all torn up by the feet of cattle and that is what the ground looked like. It was as full of holes as it possibly could be. Old Fritz's trenches had disappeared altogether. Trenches that had been over ten feet deep were completely filled up by the artillery fire. Words cannot describe the scene that met our gaze. Artillery had never done such deadly damage before. It was the heaviest barrage ever put up in history. Gun emplacements made of armor plate were twisted and turned by the shells and the liquid fire. Concrete emplacements were shattered to pieces. Dugouts one hundred feet deep were so good in that barrage if one of our shells hit them. We call them flying pigs. If they had legs on they would certainly look like big pigs. Fritz retaliated hard but we consolidated in a wood. That was on April 9th and now they are miles past where we took our objective. Of prisoners there were plenty. Some were all right and others were not satisfied and put up a short fight. As an incidence of this there was an officer and six men telling some Fritzies down in a dugout to come out. The first one got out saying "Mercy kama-rad." "When the officer's back was turned he threw a bomb at him. Luckily for the officer the bomb did not explode. Let me tell you that guy had a short life after that. There were about eight men still in the dugout. The officer placed his men in the shell hole and as fast as the Fritzies came out and got clear of the entrance six bullets punctured his dirty hide. If they showed the least sign of putting up a fight they were wiped out completely. This may sound rather fishy but it is a true fact. I heard a story of a private that was detailed to bring in a Fritz officer. The officer refused to go unless he was taken by an officer of equal rank. This private was telling his chum about this afterwards and his chum said, "Where is he now?" The other replied, "He's there yet. I suppose you know why. Well, for fear you don't I'll tell you. He killed him on the spot. The wounded were the saddest part of it all. A fellow certainly sees some awful sights; men with legs off, arms off, heads off, and men blown to pieces. I had seen my first dead man I didn't mind it as much as I thought I would. Blood I thought was an awful sight when around home but out here the very shell holes in which there was water were of a reddish tint. He also describes what the sound of a shelling is like and the conditions he is in. Remarks are also made on the recruiting situation in which he says that all the boys over in France want the war to end, and he supposes the only ones that care when it is over are the men in the bombproofs and the slackers at home.

What Joseph Smith Says.

Tpr. Joseph Smith, a former employee of the British Whig and now with the Royal Canadian Dragoons in France, writing to his sister, Miss Agnes Smith, Portsmouth, says: "We are having it a little warm around here now and I got a great birthday reception as I was going into the front line when we had about 'Umpteen' machine guns turned on us. They were just like hailstones coming around. One went in my haversack and through a couple of tins, through my holdall, ripping tooth paste and razor box and landed in the housewife. I have it for a souvenir. Another dented my tin hat but that was nothing compared with the shells as we attacked a wood and Fritz put up a barrage fire. I was with a few others in a corner of the wood and every time one would come we would get the spray of earth, stones, etc. We were sure lucky as none of us were expected to get out of it. It is great to hear Fritz yelling out his comrades stuff. Two of them said that to a fellow and while he was taking the rifle from one the other shot him through the stomach and both got away. You can see their tricks.

Military News

The only departure of troops for an eastern training point in several weeks took place on Thursday evening, when Capt. J. E. Freeman took away eighty-eight forestry men and Capt. Blesard took away fifty men from the Army Medical Corps. The troops travelled by special train, on which was also over 100 men from the Cobourg Heavy Battery. Major G. I. Campbell accompanied the troops to Montreal. There was quite a number of citizens at the train when it pulled out.

Among the many troubles that fall on the shoulders of Capt. Munie, commanding the Special Service Company, is that of taking care of three bears. A shelter is to be built for the mascots by the men, with whom the animals are so popular.

Major R. H. Parent, A.M.C., has reverted to the rank of captain to proceed overseas.

Lieut. W. J. S. Sharpe, late 21st Battalion, has been struck off the strength of the C.E.F., and returned to his duties in the Department of the Interior.

Lieut. G. G. Phillips, A.M.C., has been detailed as medical officer at Cornwall.

The O.C. unit will report to the A.D. of S. and T. at the end of each month the amount of refuse disposed of, and also how money so received have been expended.—Camp Orders.

"No officers, N.C.O.'s, or men are permitted to keep a dog in camp without written permission from camp quarters, signed by the A.A.G. This permission will be but sparingly given. Complaints have reached headquarters regarding a ferocious dog in one of the units in camp. Under no conditions are dogs to be permitted to roam about the camp."—Camp Orders.

Capt. T. R. Grant, A.M.C., is returning to duty here from Brockville.

A new appointment as captain in the Army Medical Corps Depot is that of Dr. F. Loucher, a Kingstonian who has been in New York for some years.

Sergt.-Major Reid and Sergt.-Inst. Hicks erected the wireless masts at the camp on Thursday morning, and in about ten days, it is expected, that the station will be completed.

The officers of the A.M.C. draft are Captains J. A. Blesard, S. I. Foley, P. A. Leacy and H. G. McCarthy. There were also Sergt. L. Yeomans, Corp. F. McIntosh, Lance Corp. G. S. Elkins, T. A. Laronde, O. Master, Henry Saudier and Privates J. F. Ballard, C. H. Bailey, W. Berrier, A. Bowcott, A. J. Bristol, J. Bookout, L. A. Burpee, J. Corps, E. Cuthbertson, S. Eastcourt, R. Falls, R. S. Flinn, W. Greer, R. S. Gordon, G. Rodgers, S. Holmes, L. Charley, F. Hutton, E. Jenkins, S. E. Kerr, E. Lyons, J. Malone, E. P. Murray, P. Maxfield, R. Moffatt, H. E. Morrow, M. J. Murdock, J. McDonald, E. G. Mewbray, A. S. Oakley, H. Percy, R. Ralston, J. A. Ralph, L. F. Russell, F. Sampson, J. M. Skinner, A. Savary, F. A. Savary, G. Simpson, A. Slaty, G. Thibault, E. J. Walker, J. P. Oke, W. M. C. Willcock.

The arrangements for accommodating soldiers at the new Queen's Military Hospital are being rushed through with all possible speed, and it is hoped that the institution will be quite completed by the first of next week, when some 200 soldiers will arrive for treatment. The orderly, dietitian, kitchen, medical, etc., staffs are being arranged for so that all will be ready.

Major K. Mundell and the officers of the Army Medical Corps are certainly doing everything to make the camp one of the best that has ever been at Barriefield. Electric lights are to be installed immediately. A stable for the transport horses of the unit is nearing completion.

As is being done for the Ongwanada and other military institutions the A.M.C. Depot will probably be supplying the orderlies for the new Queen's Military Hospital. Some men who have been undergoing special training will be used.

At the Theatres

At the Grand.

For to-night the Grand offers a five-part Fox feature, "Tangled Lives," with Miss Genevieve Hamper as the star. This gripping drama was screened at Kingston, Jamaica, and directed by the veteran Fox director, J. Gordon Edwards. Miss Hamper is one of America's most accomplished and convincing stage stars, and made her debut as Jessica in the "Merchant of Venice" in Robert B. Mantell's own company, and has been his leading lady ever since, up until the time she decided to enter the moving picture field. During this period she had a large repertoire of classic characters; her greatest interpretation probably being that of Juliet. So there is hardly any actress better fitted for the strong emotional part that she is called upon to portray in this wonderful feature. Four reels of feature Universal photoplays, and the Pathe News will also be shown. Two acts of feature vaudeville complete this strong bill for to-night, to-morrow and Saturday. Watch for "Comedy Week" with Lonesome Luke and Charlie Chaplin.

At Griffin's.

As an attraction extraordinary the Griffin theatre, commencing to-day will present Mary Pickford in a new Antares picture, "A Romance of the Redwoods." A western subject of full-blooded, dramatic action, the new Pickford vehicle presents little Mary in a role that is entirely different from anything in which she has ever appeared on the screen, and discloses a wealth of typical Pickford incidents of heart appeal. It also shows a regular feature picture starring George Behan, entitled "The Bond Between." Also the serial, "Patria," with Mrs. Vernon Castle as the principal character. Altogether one of the most complete bills Kingston has ever witnessed.

At The Strand.

Wm. S. Hart will be seen for the last three days of the week at the Strand in a new character, "The Desert Man." He's not a bad man this time, he's a big square-jawed whole souled man with faith, ideas and courage. He changes the desolate village of "Broken Hope" to the prosperous town of "Belleville." He clears up a notorious dance hall for the sake of a little boy and in so doing rescues a woman from vice. A sweeping drama with the tang of the Mojave Desert in the atmosphere. Comedy reels and "A Lass of the Lumberlands" will also be shown.

New potatoes from North Carolina at Carnovsky's. Quite a large number of American tourists were in the city on Thursday.

JUST NOW YOU WILL FIND THIS A WARM WEATHER STORE, FILLED WITH GOODS NEEDED FOR THE SUMMER MONTHS, ECONOMICALLY PRICED.
