Drinking Tea Upset Nerves

Mr. Burroughes Compares Canadian Customs With Those in Old Land And Tells How Nerves Were Set Right.

Orillia, Ont., June 27.—"How to be well and strong" is the question many are asking at this time of year, and in this letter you will find the answer.

It tells something of the blood-forming, nerve-invigorating influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative which is causing so much talk here just now.

Nature's way of curing disease is by building up the vitality of the body, and this is exactly what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does. The blood is made rich and red, and it nourishes the exhausted nerves back to health and vigor.

The experience of Mr. Burroughes as described in this letter is similar to that of hundreds of others who have recently put this well known food cure to the test.

Mr. George Burroughes, 23 Peter street, Orillia, Ont., writes: "A few years ago, after coming out to this country from England, the change of customs seemed to have some effect on me. In the old country the habit of drinking strong tea was prevalent, and after arriving here I suffered very much from nervousness. If I put my arm down on the table it would shake, and I was unable to do anything while performing my work I would easily tire, and want to sit down and rest. A friend recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I secured some and took a treatment. It built me up and made me strong and healthy. I have not had a trace of the nervousness since. I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment also, and find that it heals the skin very quickly. In fact, I find all of Dr. Chase's medicines good."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box. A full treatment of six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Cocoon Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mild cocoon oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get purified cocoon oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

GAVE THREE JUDGMENTS

JUDGE MADDEN ANNOUNCED DECISIONS ON CASES.

Susman and Cohen vs Bates & Inness, Diamond vs Norman and Martin vs Tallon et al.

Judge Madden has delivered the following judgments to cases which were tried by him on June 15th in County Court.

Susman & Cohen vs. Bates & Inness. In the Susman and Cohen vs. Bates and Inness case, the judge accepted the evidence of Max Susman as to the contract made over the telephone for sale of soft wool rags to the defendant up to ten tons at eighteen cents a pound. He found that the defendant received five and a half tons of this wool and paid for it without complaint; that as the defendants refused the balance of ten tons contracted for and the same were left on the hands of the plaintiff, which on a drop in its market, they were compelled to sell at a loss of five and a half cents a pound, making a total loss of $569.80 on the goods left on their hands.

The defendant's counter claim for $450, for the low quality of the rags supplied, the judge found that only a small proportion of rough rags was included in shipments and that the defendants made no complaint on these until after the action was commenced and that they accepted and paid for them. The action for $450 was dismissed.

Martin vs. Tallon. In the action to enforce a bond to keep and maintain the plaintiff, in the case of Hannah M. Martin vs. J. H. Tallon and George H. Benn, the judgment was as follows: The bond was not executed by defendant Benn. The bond was given under a mutual and fundamental mistake of all the parties though they were conveying valuable rights of the plaintiff. As a fact they had no such interests as she purported to give for this fund. They had been exempted by process years previously. The action failed for want of consideration. The action was dismissed and judgment for the defendants without costs, proffered by the plaintiff.

Diamond vs. Norman. This judgment states that the plaintiff has acquired no rights against the defendants for support of his buildings. The defendant's excavation has not interfered with the plaintiff's rights. The clay that has gone into the excavation was caused by negligence of the tenant Hughes in disconnecting a section of the conductor pipe and allowing water to waste away part of the excavation. The action was dismissed with costs to be paid by the plaintiff.

EASY & PRACTICAL HOME DRESS MAKING LESSONS

Prepared Specially for This Newspaper

By Pictorial Review

A Summer Tailleur of Good Line.

Directions indicate center-front. Next turn the yokes under on slot perforations, lap on outer front and back to small "o" perforations, corresponding notches even and stitch to position. Close under-arm and shoulder seams as notched. Close the back seam of collar and, if desired, face with seamless, bias material. Sew to neck edge as notched. Then, adjust the facing to position underneath the front, notches and corresponding edges even. Roll the fronts and collar as illustrated.

Loosely woven pongee is used for the development of this attractive summer suit with single-breasted jacket and circular skirt.

Pongee is exceedingly popular for summer suits and one need not necessarily get an expensive quality, for there are many loosely woven lines that are ideal for jackets and skirts. This model illustrates a single-breasted jacket and two-piece circular skirt. The jacket has two-piece sleeves finished with trimming pieces and flare cuffs. In medium size the suit requires 6 1/2 yards 36-inch material.

The jacket is not at all difficult to make, and is a model that the home dressmaker undoubtedly will find a pleasure in attempting. First plait the outer front and back creasing on lines of slot perforations, bring folded edges to corresponding lines of small "o" perforations and press. Line of large "o" perforations indicates center-front.

Arrange the pockets on the front, bringing small "o" perforations near front edge of pocket over small "o" perforations under the back plait, and bring back edge of pocket to inclosing small "o" perforations near under-arm seam; stitch side and lower edges of pocket to position.

To make the lining, crease back on one line of slot perforations and lap folded edge to remaining line of slot perforations; press plait. Form plait at armhole in front placing "T" on corresponding small "o" perforation and tack. Adjust lining in jacket with neck, armhole and lower edges even and fell to under-arm and shoulder seams of jacket matching notches.

Now, take the sleeve and adjust trimming piece to position on sleeve section (J) bringing the notch near upper edge, to the lower notch in back of sleeve; leave lower edge free. Close seams as notched, easing any fullness between notches at elbow. Face cuff and sew to lower edge of sleeve, notches even; bring small "o" perforation in cuff to inside seam of sleeve. Tack lower edge of trimming piece over the cuff. Sew sleeve in armhole as notched, small "o" perforation at shoulder seam, easing any fullness; or if desired the fullness may be shrunk out.

Arrange belt around waist and trim with stitching or braid.
