

COL. STANYON IN THE CITY

HEAD OF SALVATION ARMY HERE 21 YEARS AGO.

Is Now Engaged On Special Work Among Men For Army in the United States—Has Been in the Service Thirty-Four Years.

It is just twenty-one years since Col. Stanyon was in charge of the work of the Salvation Army in Kingston. At that time he was not a Colonel in the ranks of the Salvationists. He held the rank of an Ensign, but his heart was just as big as the rank he now holds, and his mission was the saving of souls. Monday night, Col. Stanyon, with his wife, Mrs. Stanyon, for he took a help-mate some years after leaving this city, visited the local corps and the former Kingstonian and his better half were given a right-joyful welcome. Col. Stanyon met many of the old-time workers in the ranks here, and the meeting was a most joyous one. Col. and Mrs. Stanyon are stationed at New York. At least, that is their headquarters. Mrs. Stanyon is secretary to Commissioner Eva Booth, while her husband is engaged in special work among men in the States, and puts in the most of his time travelling from place to place. After leaving Kingston, the colonel spent some years in Toronto, and then went to New York. He and his wife were in Ogdensburg holding special services over the week-end.

and came to Kingston. They returned to New York on Tuesday.

Col. Stanyon has spent thirty-four years in the service of the Salvation Army. And although his hair is turning grey, he is still a young man. He is an able speaker, and delivers the gospel message with stirring effect. At the Citadel Monday night, he told a wonderful story about the work he has been able to accomplish among the men known as the "down-and-outs" in the big American cities. He is also a sweet singer and delighted his audience with a number of choice songs.

"During the course of his remarks, Col. Stanyon stated that the drug habit was one of the greatest evils the workers of the army had to contend with, although strong drink was responsible for a great deal.

"You have prohibition here," said the speaker, "and we are going to get it in the States too. Just watch for it, for it is bound to come."

The speaker told story after story about men who had been saved by the Army, many of whom are now holding important posts in the service of the Army, which has a hand outstretched for every type of man. And it makes not how deep he has got into sin.

The branch of the work Col. Stanyon is engaged in provides institutions for the care of all the unfortunate, and he gave in detail the work that is being carried on.

Mrs. Stanyon is also a good speaker, and her most inspiring address was listened to with keen interest. Adjutant Smith presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers of the evening. The Army band contributed a splendid programme of music.

PLANTED IN THE PACIFIC

ATLANTIC LOBSTERS WILL BE INSTALLED AT DEPARTURE BAY

Dr. A. P. Knight to Supervise Planting on Colony and to Study How They Get on in New Home.

Dr. A. P. Knight, professor of biology and physiology at Queen's University Kingston, is the guest of his son-in-law, H. S. Wood, barrister, 1251 Cardero street. Dr. Knight is a member of the Biological Board of Canada and of the Royal Society. He devotes most of his vacations to biological research work under the Biological Board and the Dominion government. For two or three years he has been paying particular attention to the lobster, with a view to finding out a way to stop the depletion of the Atlantic beds. The object of his present visit to the Pacific coast is to supervise the installing of a colony of lobsters from the Atlantic at the biological station at Departure Bay, and to study how they get on in their new home. These lobsters are due here via the C.N.R. to-night.

Dr. Knight will go to Departure Bay with them and see them put in their new home. It has never been satisfactorily demonstrated that lobsters will thrive and propagate in these waters. Eastern oysters, it has been found, will wax fat but will not propagate.

Three or four shipments of lobsters have been brought from the east previously. The first batch had their claws wired so that they could not kill each other en route. Unfortunately they were dumped into the water without having their hand-uffs unlocked. That they made food for other denizens of the sea is a safe deduction. Two other shipments were brought out and dumped into the Gulf of Georgia. They were claw free but no one knows whether they thrived or not.

For the batch coming today special pens have been prepared at the biological station at Departure Bay, in which Dr. Knight will be able to observe how they get along, whether they propagate or not and whether any parasite bobs up to make their existence burdensome. Dr. Knight will spend most of the time at the biological station. It is likely that the Canadian club, or some other body will be able to induce him to deliver an address in Vancouver before he leaves for home.

TOLD TO TAKE OFF RIBBONS

Which Commandant of Veterans' Association Issued.

The Whig now learns that the headquarters officers are prohibiting the wearing of the red, white and blue ribbon badge by members of the Kingston Veterans' Association by its commandant. A returned officer brought the matter to the notice of the Whig, and stated that he was unable to find in regulations of any kind, anything that would authorize such a ribbon. The soldiers who were ordered to take the ribbons off declare that honorary members of the association who have not been overseas wear it on their right breast and members who have been overseas wear it on their left breast. It is not worn on either breast by a soldier when he is noticed by the headquarters officers.

At Lake Ontario Park.

An elaborate programme was presented at Lake Ontario Park last evening. Vera Belmont appeared in character changes, and rendered "Rosen Blot" in Yiddish; "Maggie Dooley" in Irish; "I Gotta da Broek" in Italian; "Dixie" Southern; and "Here's My Boy," American, and was loudly applauded. Musical Seelye gave a novelty electrical musical act on banjo, harp, chimes and illuminated Swiss bells. The moving pictures included a two-reel play, "The Pacific," a comedy play, "With the Aid of the Wreck-cr," and "The Faith Gazette." To-morrow will be one-cent day on the cars for the children.

The wind on Tuesday morning dried the streets very quickly.

SAVING IMPERATIVE

If the Country is to Carry Its Financial Burden.

The question is attracting the eager attention of the whole country. A general election may be held. But whatever the outcome of the Ottawa situation the public mind must not be distracted from the war. There never was greater need for concentration on the essentials that are required if victory is to be secured. One of the most pressing needs is for financial mobilization. It must be accompanied by the exercise of thrift by every man and woman in the country. It is estimated that Canada will need $600,000,000 to meet its current war expenditure. That money can only be secured through the patriotic efforts of the whole Dominion. Millions are being spent every day on luxuries. More millions are being wasted because of the failure to practice domestic economy. Other millions are being lost, because sufficient attention is not being paid to prevention and utilization of waste. All these must be corrected if the Dominion is to carry its tremendous financial burden. National Savings and Investment in War Savings Certificates are imperative if victory is to be secured.

TELEPHONE WAS STRAPPED

To Head of Invalid so She Could Hear Party Line Gossip.

An officer in conversation with a Whig representative on Monday said: "I have seen a great number of places, but a few days ago I came across one of the meanest, lowest and most contemptible tricks I have ever heard of. While out motoring through the country in the vicinity of the city, I had occasion to use a telephone and stopped at a country house to do so. When I was let into the house I found that an invalid woman was lying on a couch near the telephone. By an arrangement the telephone receiver was strapped to her head. Every word in conversation that was spoken into any one of the dozen telephones of that party line was heard by her. "and," said the officer, "I suppose the whole countryside then came to her for the gossip."
