THE REBUILDING OF ROADS

CHAIRMAN OF SUBURBAN ROAD AREA COMMISSION TALKS.

The Road from Portsmouth to Le Moine's Point is Being Graded and Will be Macadamized.

A. M. Rankin, chairman of the Suburban Road Area Commission, is making an inspection of the Perth and Sydenham roads to ascertain what improvements can be made to better improve these highways.

Mr. Rankin is constantly on the "job" when good or better roads are concerned. The work in front of the penitentiary has been completed and the grading of King street from the end of the Rockwood Hospital grounds (limit of Portsmouth), west to Le Moine's point has been undertaken. This road will be graded and rebuilt on the most modern accepted standard. The crown will not be too high, being half an inch to the foot. It will be macadam surfaced with oil or tar of some kind.

To decide on the best kind of binding for the top, experiments will shortly be constructed on the Bath and York roads. The latter has started to give and is filled with small holes. These will be repaired and the binding surface applied for a short distance.

Money for building these roads is a big consideration. "We should have some money from the county and the government," said Mr. Rankin. The city's assessment is limited to half a mill, but the Commission secures only two or three mills levied on the county for roads.

Repairing of the side road through Glenburnie and from Connor's corners continues and other roads in that district will require due attention.

"Speaking as chairman of the Commission I am trying to have the money spent this year in perfecting the drainage systems," said Mr. Rankin. "The water must first be taken up and then after repairing of the worst places the balance of our money will go into the rebuilding of permanent highways."

AN IMMENSE PROGRAMME

ORANGEMEN CERTAINLY PLANNING TO HAVE A "BIG DAY."

Parade of 6,000 Orangemen From the Market to Victoria Park—Speakers Are Well Chosen.

There will be 6,000 visitors in the city for the "Glorious Twelfth" on Thursday, according to the present prospects, and all day Wednesday the officials were busy making the final arrangements for the big celebration. It certainly promises to be a gala day for the followers of King William if the weather man will do his part. There are plans made for a gigantic parade, speeches from eloquent men of various parts of Ontario, horse, motor-cycle and bicycle races, and so many other things it is expected that the day will go down in history as one of the biggest Kingston has ever seen.

In the monster parade, which leaves the market square at 1 p.m., will be thousands of Orangemen in Athens, Newboro, Verona, Harrowsmith, Gananogue, Pictou, Marlbank, Lansdowne, Westport, Sydenham, and many other centres will contribute with lodge representatives, and to these will be added who will have come great distances for the event. The parade will be to Victoria Park, and there some of the finest speakers of the country will give addresses.

WAR RELIEF WORK

Will Be an Addition to Social Duties at the Islands.

The social season at the Thousand Islands promises to be one of unusual gaiety, for, added to the usual number of amusements—yachting, sailing, motor-boat racing, golf, tennis, dancing and card parties—there will be subscription dances and card parties given for the benefit of the Red Cross, the Great Lakes Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society, and for the Polish sufferers.

GREATER PRODUCTION EFFORTS

Rev. Samuel Shibley Has Some Fine Early Potatoes.

Rev. Samuel Shibley, Albert street, is a zealous greater productionist and as a result of his efforts he is showing some fine specimens of garden produce. He is a specialist of early gardening, and as early as last Saturday had some fine California potatoes which had grown to a good size in six weeks. He has six varieties of early potatoes planted on a small plot and has had unusual success.

Shiftless people are never the ones who worry about it.

Letters to the Editor

Western Ontario Crops Splendid. Oakville, July 7.—(To the Editor): I take this opportunity of telling you how I appreciate reading the items sent to the Whig by your local correspondents. In almost every instance I notice there is an expression of gratitude for the prospects of good crops which are so badly needed.

I thought perhaps it might be interesting to my many friends in the vicinity of Kingston to hear something of the condition of the country lying a few miles west of them.

On Monday last, in company with some friends we motored from Oakville to Hamilton and from there to Brantford. Then we ran out to the little town of Waterford a distance of about eighteen miles, through a most beautiful country. I don't think I ever felt so small in all my life, as we rode past those elegant farm houses, and the big bank barns, surrounded by acres of orchards, acres of strawberries and small fruits, then to look out on the fields of hay and waving grain. I couldn't help making the remark—I don't know whether I am right or not—but I say the farmer is the man that has the "world by the neck" if he only knew it. And how is it so many city people will term the farmer as a "hay seed", "moss back" and so on. I tell you right now I believe the most of the farmers are in possession of the kind of "moss" the most of us are after, but mark you those things don't come to the farmer who does not work for them good and hard too. Do you know I felt that I wouldn't mind being back in the "swim" myself, but I'm not.

We motored back to Oakville and found in looking at the register that we had covered just one hundred and twenty miles. I think it is needless to say that we enjoyed the trip, but I feel it my duty to say that I don't see how the country could possibly look better. I think we are a favored people in that respect.

May our boys who have gone to the front be rewarded in their noble effort to save our country from the hands of the enemy in the best wish of —SHERMAN G. POWLEY.

A Reply to Dr. J. W. Edwards.

Kingston, July 10.—(To the Editor): So Dr. Edwards has taken up the cudgels. Not in defence this time for his dear Nationalist friend Sevigny, but to clear his own back-yard. He denies the statements made at the Veterans' meeting, Oct. 15, 1914. Now I have three or four reputable men in this city who heard him make such remarks. Even the pleasing words of W. F. Nickle could not gloss over the rash statement nor make these true British soldiers forget I suppose you will deny the charge that you said the same night that a man before the war could not stand up and say he was a Canadian without a blush of shame. You may have felt that way, but there were men there that blushed for shame at your utterances.

You state it is false that you support the worst anti-British stripes of them. Now you have backed Sevigny, who is a Bourassa man. What is the platform of the Nationalists if not equal to that Irish element the Sinn Feiners. I really do not know what to call it if not anti-British, and of the very worst kind. All Canada knows both platforms, and men with the true British blood in them think they all should be shot and all who back them up. Again, to try and cover up other parts of the letter you attack the British Whig, a just, clean, manly paper, giving every man fair play in its columns regardless of race, creed or politics. Don't do that doctor. All the rest of the letter you do not deny so it must be correct. Do not be so erratic and shoot over the mark; take a few lessons from the Nationalists how to be a smooth, gentlemanly politician. Yours truly, —JAMES TRAVERIS.
