A THRILLING EXPERIENCE An Auto Made Three Somersaults or

Way Down. Pembroke. July 17,-For a motor car to make three somersaults down a steep embankment with but minor injuries to the occupants of the car resulting was the exciting experience of a Pembroke party near Waltham on Saturday last. Mr. J. P. Seeley with his wife and little son and Mr. and Mrs. M. McKinnon were en route to Campbell's Bay and when near Waltham the car, as a result of the bending of one of the radius rods, veered off the roadway and went tumbling down a twenty-foot bankment, while the occupants were terrorized by the prospect of what appeared to them as the most likely consequences. Mr. Seeley, who was at the wheel, fell out as the car went over the first time, but the others went to the bottom of the ravine, Mr. McKinnon being the only one to sustain painful injuries. He was rather badly cut about the legs, but Mrs. Seeley and little son and Mrs. McKinnon almost miracufourly escaped with a severe shaking up and nervous shock. The car, too, was little damaged consid- polis ering the unusual treatment to way was able to return to Pembroke to this town. on its own power. It was quite an

DON'T BE A DULL MAN.

And Don't Have to Say "I Didn't Think," or "I Didn't Realize." "The dull man is a bad man," says , Arnold Bennett in the Woman's Home sight when you lift a decayed los or a Companion. "Simply to say 'I never realized' by not an entirely satisfactory excuse. People ought to realize. The habit of not realizing grows faster than almost any other habit, and it is very comfort. able, and it saves a lot of trouble-to oneself. But it is to be condemned.

"Yet if a man is absolutely dull, if he is utterly without imagination, how can be realize, how can be put himself in the other man's place? Is he not to be pitied instead of anathematized?

"As to that, I will tell you something: There is no such person as the absolutely duli man, the man absolutely without imagination. Everybody has some gift of imagination; everybody can succeed in putting himself, to a certain extent, in the other man's place. And few people, if any perform this feat as often or as com pletely as they might do."

OUR SENSE OF MOTION.

And an Explanation of Some Railway Train Delusions.

When you sit in a moving train look ing out of the window it appears as though the fields, the telegraph poles and everything else outside were moving instead of you. This is because our only ideas of motion are arrived at by comparison. The fact that neither you nor the seats of the car nor any other part of the inside of the car is changing its position leads you to the delusion that the things outside the car are

This is particularly noticeable when you are in a train in a station, with another train on the next track. There is a sense of motion if one of the trains only is moving, and you feel that it is the other train, because you are surrounded by objects in the car which are at rest. If the delusion happens to be turned the other way it will appear as though you are moving and the other is still.

Pulling an Elephant's Tooth. Perhaps the greatest dental operation on record was performed some years ago upon an elephant in the City of Mexico. The aching tooth was twelve inches long and measured fourteen inches round the root. After the animal had been securely fastened with chains his mouth was pried open and a quantity of cocaine applied to deaden the pain. When this was done a hole was bored through the tooth and an fron bar inserted. Then a rope was twisted around the bar, and four horses were attached thereto to drag the offending moler out.-London Tit-

Humpback Salmon.

During a humpback salmon year the Indians journey for miles to the streams where the species spawn and there maintain camps for weeks to dry and smoke the succulent fish.

So important do they regard this fish that they date time by them, calling the humpback salmon year "hadaaque," after their name for the species During "off" years the Indians content themselves with dog salmon and slivers from necessity.
