

MINISTERS OF GOSPEL PUT TANLAC TO TEST

Well-Known Ministers of the United States Come Out Openly and Fearlessly and Tell What They Know to be the Truth about the Medicine That Has Helped Them.

Rarely will a minister of the Gospel endorse a proprietary medicine. The preacher's high calling, the influence he commands, puts a grave responsibility on his every word. He will not jeopardize his reputation by commending a thing without first assuring himself it is all right. His word carries as much weight in the home, on the street, or in the public prints as in the pulpit.

When ministers of some of the greatest communions in the land endorse Tanlac their words carry conviction. They say what they know to be the truth. They have put Tanlac to the test of personal service and have not found it wanting. The proprietors of Tanlac have received countless testimonials from people in every walk of life, earnestly commending it. Among them are a number from prominent ministers of various churches. A few of these are printed below:

Rev. W. C. Norton is pastor of the Wesley Memorial Church at Jacksonville, Fla. He says:—"I suffered from chronic indigestion for years. I seldom slept well and had severe headaches. Since taking Tanlac I feel as well as ever I did—sleep splendidly and eat anything I want. Tanlac has restored my health, and I feel it my duty to recommend it."

Rev. A. H. Sykes, pastor of Watkins Park Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn., says:—"I suffered from a stomach and kidney troubles and a nervous breakdown. Tanlac restored her health—she is gaining strength and flesh rapidly—her full restoration is but a question of time."

Rev. E. G. Butler, pastor of Central Baptist Church, Muskogee, Okla., says:—"I had attacks of acute indigestion. Results from taking Tanlac have been most satisfactory—and glad to recommend it as the best medicine I have ever tried."

Rev. F. M. Winburn, Methodist, San Antonio, Tex., says:—"I had no appetite—suffered from weakness and general debility—could not work without quickly tiring. Found Tanlac just what my system needed. I consider Tanlac a good medicine to build up run-down systems."

Rev. R. J. Taylor, pastor of St. Pleasant Baptist Church, Franklin, Tex., says:—"Grippe left me in very bad cause as would make this war the beginning of a new era in the relations between the British and French races in Canada. And it was possible. The opportunity lay straight before us. It was a part of the history of every country whose people have been cemented by the bonds of suffering and sacrifice endured for its defence. Common sacrifice in the common cause obscures divisions, deadens racial animosities, creates new traditions, sets up new standards for thought and aspiration, brings people together and unites them in a sense of mutual interest, mutual dependence and mutual responsibility. Fathers and mothers will not turn from graves where their soldier sons sleep side by side, to quarrel about race and creed and language and social custom. Men who have gone over the parapet together against a foe will not be estranged by the prejudices of by-gone years. Bismarck was right: people who have stood together in a bloody war will stand together in peace.

Certainly if ever the Government of a country had the opportunity to turn this unifying influence of sacrifice to good account it was the Government of Canada in relation to this war. If the world had been searched an enemy could not have been found against whom it should have been so easy to arouse the fighting spirit of both British and French-Canadians. Germany— which crushed France forty-five years ago—sought to crush both France and England, and to make Canada a part of the booty of its bloody adventure. The case has only to be stated to disclose its power of appeal to both the great elements in our population. If Canadians could not be united against such an enemy, for what could they ever be united?

How has that opportunity been realized? Has the appeal been made as it could have been made, and should have been made, equally to both sections of our people? Has it been backed up by that persistent earnestness which alone brought the gravity of the situation home to the people even of Great Britain? Are we to emerge from this war with a new sense of our common Canadianism, or with the old line of cleavage as sharply drawn as before—perhaps more sharply drawn? Has the enemy driven us together or driven us apart? Do we regard each other as equal sharers in the great effort and sacrifice? Or is there a feeling among British-Canadians that the French-Canadians have not done their proportionate part, and a feeling among French-Canadians that this is not their war? Has there been the effort there might and should have been to arouse equal interest and secure an equal response from both sections? And is the enforcement of conscription by arbitrary means likely to make for union or disunion?

Somehow in France duc west of roving hell. Where Death makes merry with shot and shell, My boy to-night remembers me, perchance, And knows my soul is somewhere there in France.

Somehow in France the lips that I have kissed, I see grow dim, and dimly through a mist His face seems pale, but there is in his glance A wondrous light he's found somewhere in France.

Somehow in France my mother's heart shall be Until the day he come back to me; Or it may be with God may rest the chance— My heart shall break, I know not where in France.

BEELEVILLE RESIDENT DEAD.
Prominent in Local Military Affairs for Twenty-five Years.

Belleville, July 25.—Col. Thomas Stewart, for many years a resident of this city, died on Sunday at the age of seventy years. Deceased was at one time a coal merchant in the city, and of late years had conducted an insurance business. For twenty-five years he was identified with the military organization, being for five years commanding officer of the 158th Regiment of this city. He was deservedly popular with officers and men, and recently he received his long-service decoration. Deceased was a Post Master of Belleville Lodge, A.F. and A.M., and a member of Moira Chapter. He was also a member of the Sons of Scotland and the St. Andrew's Society of Toronto. In religion he was a Presbyterian, being for years chairman of the Board of Management of St. Andrew's Church. His wife pre-deceased him some years ago.

Your "Get-Away Power" in Summer is a matter of fuel-food for the human engine. Food that is hard to digest and low in nutritive value does not supply energy for the day's work. It uses up needed power by overtaxing the digestive organs. Shredded Wheat Biscuit is all food. It is 100 per cent; whole wheat and is prepared in a digestible form. Changing from meat and potatoes to Shredded Wheat brings a mental buoyancy and physical alertness that makes one eager for the day's task. Eat it for any meal with sliced bananas, berries, or other fruits.

Don't Spoil Your Hair by Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Don't use prepared shampoo or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain unsalted coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

The shortage of farm labor to-day in Canada is not entirely due to the fact that thousands of men have enlisted in the army. It is also in part due to the fact that thousands of men have enlisted from the cities, and that farm workers have flocked into the cities to take the places of the enlisted men. The net result of the readjustment is that the farm and home work is being done by men who have abandoned work at which they were skilled to learn work to which they were strangers.

It seems unfortunate that the profiteer cannot be allowed to fall into the hands of the Hun.

Has the Enemy Driven Us Apart? It has been often said, and with reason, that the Spanish war did more to obliterate the Mason-Dixon line of cleavage in the sentiment of the American neighbors than any other event of its nature has done. The sons of the men who fought each other in the slave war fought side by side in the Philippines and in Cuba. In doing so they not only came to know each other in the place where work alone counts; they created a new set of national traditions in which the people of the North and the South were partners, and which tended to obscure the old antagonisms which divided them.

President Wilson is the first "Southern" President since the slave war, and in neither of his elections was he opposed in the north on the ground that he was of southern birth. Twenty-five years ago the people of the United States were still Northerners and Southerners; to-day they are Americans. Northerners and Southerners, when men from both halves of the globe, Republic have once more fought for the defence of their common country, and when parents in the North and the Southland alike shall turn away in thought to remember "somewhere in France", where their sons lay side by side.

These are facts which should sink deep into the minds of the Canadian people. They should have been a governing influence in the direction of our war policy from the first. The steady aim of our leaders should have been to induce such common effort and sacrifice in the common
