MEATLESS DAYS ORDER
 IS NOW EFFECTIVE AND MUST BE OBEYED

Eating Houses Must Not Serve Meat or Bacon on Tuesdays and Fridays and Only Once on Other Days.
 The Canada Gazette, publishing the order-in-council regulating eating places has been received in Kingston.
 This Order-in-Council, passed at the request of the Food Controller, prohibits the serving of beef and bacon on Tuesdays and Fridays, and at more than one meal on any other day. Substitutes, such as corn bread, oat cakes, potatoes, etc., must be provided at every meal at which white bread is served. The use of wheat in the distillation or manufacture of alcohol is prohibited, except for manufacturing or munitions purposes, and then only after obtaining a license from the Food Controller.
 Heavy penalties are provided for violation of the regulations. Proprietors, managers and employes of public eating places are liable upon summary conviction, for the first offence, to a penalty not exceeding $100 and not less than $25, and for each subsequent offence to a penalty not exceeding $500, and not less than $100, or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding three months, or to both fine and imprisonment.
 Any person violating any of the provisions regulating the use of wheat in the distillation or manufacture of alcohol is liable upon summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding five thousand dollars.
 The regulations went into effect with the gazetting of the Order-in-Council.

Why Was Returned Soldier Not Made Inspector of Military Buildings?
 In the House of Commons on Wednesday these questions of Hon. George P. Graham were answered by Hon. Mr. Seigney:
 Is G. O. Aiken in the employ of the Government in Kingston? Answer: Yes.
 What are his duties and his salary? Answer: Sanitary inspector of military buildings in Kingston at a salary of $100 a month.
 When was he retired from the position of guard and why? Answer: October 30th, 1916, by voluntary resignation.
 What was the date of his new appointment? Answer: October 19th, 1916, and took up his duties on November 1st, 1916.
 Who previously performed the duties of the position to which Mr. Aiken has now been appointed? Answer: No one.
 Why was not a returned soldier given this position? Answer: Not known.

USE CHEESOTE OIL FOR TUSOCK MOTH.
 A prominent citizen told the Whig to-day that he had a good deal of experience with the tussock moth five years ago, and found that cheesote oil was the best thing to use. Get up on a ladder and touch each egg-mass with a little oil and that will destroy it.

WHEN IS A MAN DRUNK?

TIME-WORN QUESTION UP IN POLICE COURT AGAIN

Mayor Hughes Dismissed Charge Against a Citizen After a Lively Session Friday Morning—His Worship Quoted Montreal Hailing.
 When is a man intoxicated? This is a question which has been threshed out in the local Police Court time and time again. The knotty problem bobbed up again in Police Court on Friday morning, when a man was up charged with being intoxicated, and it required an hour of the time of Mayor Hughes, the acting magistrate, to solve the question, and the ruling of the court, after all had been said on both sides of the case, was that the man was not intoxicated, and the charge against him was dismissed. A feature of the case was the wordy battle between C. R. Webster, who appeared for License Inspector William McCammon for the prosecution and A. B. Cunningham, who defended the accused.
 Mayor Hughes quoted the Montreal Herald on the man in the following: "When a man hangs on to the ground to keep from falling."
 License Inspector William McCammon spotted the man in the case, about 5.30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. At this time, he was on Ontario street, in front of the city buildings. After looking him over, he had Constables Marshall, Armstrong and Earl Jenkins take a peep at him. As a result of the little exhibition, the man was given a Police Court summons. The two constables stated that the accused was staggering. Under stiff cross-examination by Mr. Cunningham, one of the constables said that the fellow was able to care for himself.
 The accused went into the box, and swore positively, that he was not intoxicated. He said he had not had a drink since the previous Thursday. The proprietor of a restaurant, in which the accused was served a meal Sunday afternoon, and who had occasion to see him three times during the afternoon, also swore that he was not drunk.
 This evidence was backed up by a cabman, who drove the accused to his home. The "cabbie" said the man got in and out of his cab like any ordinary person would do, and he did not see anything wrong with him.
 Mr. Webster contended that the evidence of the license inspector, whose business it was to look after such cases, was that the man was intoxicated. Mr. Webster further contended, that if a man was not drunk, and went out on the street and played drunk, he would be under the law and would be liable.
 Mr. Cunningham, pointed out that the evidence for the defence showed clearly that the man was not intoxicated, and that the case should be dismissed. It was not for the inspector of the police to set the standard and to say when a man was intoxicated.
 The Acting Magistrate stated that on the evidence he could not make a conviction, and accordingly dismissed the charge.
