DRILL PRIZE TO BROWNS.

The St. Louis Club Proved the Best in Review.

Members of the St. Louis Club are winners of the competitive military drill of the American League. Lieut. Col. Raymond Sheldon, U. S. A., who reviewed the clubs last week, announced his decision yesterday. The players will be presented with $500 by President Johnson of the American League. The army sergeant who drilled them will get $100.

Second place was given to the Washington Club, and third place to Cleveland. Chicago was awarded fourth place, Boston fifth, Detroit sixth, New York seventh and Philadelphia eighth. The competition was judged according to military standards. The St. Louis players were perfect in variety of movements and punctuality and were penalized one-point in discipline and six points in drilling.

Lieut. Col. Sheldon, in his report, said he was astonished at the efficiency of the teams. "The sergeants deserve great credit for the results they have achieved in such a short time," he said, "and the ball teams are entitled to the highest commendation for the splendid manner in which they acquitted themselves."

President Johnson said that military drilling undoubtedly would be carried out every season.

TORONTO HAS THE BEST

Of the International Schedule for Remainder of Race.

The Toronto Globe says:—The International League season closes on Sept. 15th with Providence at Newark, but the Leafs wind up the campaign on September 15th at Rochester. In three weeks it will be all over but the shouting.

Toronto, Providence, Baltimore and Newark are all very much in the running, and the race is providing more excitement than for years. The Leafs have played more games than any of the other contenders, and a perusal of the schedule reveals the fact that the Lajoies have only one more series with a contending team, viz., Baltimore, who will be in Toronto on Aug. 30, 31 and Sept. 1, following Richmond. Rochester, Buffalo and Montreal will also be engaged at the Island Stadium, while these teams will also be met abroad.

While the Islanders are going against teams which have been unable to get out of the second division, Providence, Baltimore and Newark will be battling among themselves. The Leafs have a crack at the seventh-place Richmond Rebels. All things considered, the Leafs have an excellent chance to win the gonfaleon, but it must be admitted that the race is a neck-and-neck affair, and that much can happen in three weeks.

WILLARD READY TO BOX.

Considering Offer to Meet Winner of Fulton-Morris Bout.

According to advices received here from Cleveland, Jess Willard has been much impressed by the offer made him by Matt Hinkle. The Cleveland promoter has offered Willard $50,000 to box the winner of the Carl Morris-Fred Fulton bout. Hinkle has told Jess that he can set the date for the match.

The $50,000 looks pretty big to Willard. It is more than he has been offered for a bout in some time. Furthermore, Willard has a great deal of faith in Hinkle, and an offer from him is likely to have more weight with the champion than a bigger one would, have if it came from anyone else.

Willard has announced that he will not box for Jim Coffroth under any circumstances. Coffroth was anxious to sign the champion to box the winner of the Morris-Fulton bout and wanted to stage the bout in Toronto in Southern Canada.

Morris and Fulton are to meet at Canton, Ohio, on Labor Day. They will box fifteen rounds to a decision, and the winner undoubtedly will be recognized as the man Willard should meet.

CLEVER HOCKEYIST WOUNDED.

Gouinlock, O. H. A. Junior Star, Now in Hospital.

Lieut. George Roper Gouinlock, well known in Toronto as a clever all-round athlete and particularly brilliant hockey player, has been reported wounded, and from a cable received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gouinlock, 34 Walmer road, is now in a hospital in France. Lieut. Gouinlock, who is attached to the Canadian Field Artillery, first came into prominence as a hockey player as a member of the University of Toronto championship O. H. A. team of the junior series in 1915, and again of the Aura Lee champions in the same series in 1916. Both teams were remarkably fast, and in their respective games provided some of the most exciting contests of the various years.

Phillies Pressing Giants.

While eyes of the baseball world have been firmly fixed on the fast action around the top in the International and American leagues, the Phillies are injecting some zip in the National League battle. The Philadelphiaans are playing better ball than the Giants. In the last few days they have clipped off four and a half games from the Giants' lead, and now stand nine games in the rear. That's considerable lead for a team like the Giants, but the fact that the Phillies and New Yorkers are to clash in nine games is giving hope to their supporters. However, it seems like an insurmountable lead, and nobody (outside Philadelphia) expects the Giants to lose out.

UNASSISTED TRIPLE PLAYS ARE SCARCE

Only Two of These Stunts Were Made in Major League Games.

Ever see an unassisted triple play? If you have, you are one of the very few fans in the vast army that follows the great summer pastime who has been fortunate enough to witness a three-pley killing unassisted.

The unassisted triple play is just about as scarce as the fuzzi on a billiard ball, and you'll admit that it "some" scarce. In the many years that baseball records have been kept, there have been 10 unassisted triple plays recorded, and only two of the 10 were made in the major leagues. The records of unassisted triple plays came in for a lamping recently when Phil Cooney, second baseman of the Omaha (Western League) Club, pulled off one of the triple killings unassisted in a game at Denver. Cooney was playing second base for the Omaha club, and there were men on both first and second when he caught a line drive. He tagged the runner who was coming from first base when the ball was hit, and then hopped back on second in time to retire the runner who had left that station for third base.

Records show it to be the first triple play unassisted that has ever been made in the Western League, and the tenth in the history of baseball. Cooney's play was also the first to occur in five years, the last being made by Player Foreman, at Kankakee, Ill., in 1912. Paul Hines, of the old Providence (National League) Club, was the first player in the history of the organized game to pull off an unassisted triple play. His "history-making" play was made at Providence way back in May of 1878, and there elapsed a period of 24 years before the second unassisted triple play went on record. Harry O'Hagan, of the Rochester (Eastern League) Club, made the second play of this kind at Jersey City in August, 1902. Aside from Hines, Neal Ball is the only major league player to pull off the play. Ball made his unassisted triple play at Cleveland in July of 1909.

BETTING REPORTS OVRDENE.

How Maisonneuve Authorities Regard Racing Meet.

"If there is betting being done at the Maisonneuve race track, then it is on a very small scale, and under cover," said Police Inspector Robert. Inspector Robert had the grounds policed following reports that the end track's meeting was being run wide open. "The reports seem to be exaggerated," said the inspector. "My men did not report anything, although some of the newspaper reports would lead to the belief that the betting was being done as freely as if it were not illegal. There probably is petting, but it is evidently of the 'individual' type, and done very quietly so as not to break the law."

No Betting at Ball Games.

The National Commission has issued an order directing the presidents of the Boston Americans and National clubs to refuse admission to their parks of men convicted of betting.
