

Automobile Headlights

New Standard Headlights Corning Conaphores

Light never more than 42 inches above the road. Headlight range of 500 feet with a 21 c.p. bulb properly focused.

Cuts out all the glare, yet uses all the light, complying with the law of the city and state in glare laws.

Penetrates fog, dust or smoke so you can drive 25 miles an hour under adverse weather conditions. Has strong side-light which illuminates the roadside. The novel beams make the green stand out so you can distinguish bushes and ditches.

Never clogs with dust or mud in summer or with ice or snow in winter and is easily put on any car.

You will have to get them. Why not now and have the pleasure of good light and not bother the other fellow.

THE FINAL PENNANT DRIVE

MAY YET REVISE DOPE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Giants Will Have to Show Improved Form to Hold Present Big Lead—Race in American Still Close.

Nothing is more unreliable than baseball dope and those engaged in the harmless practice of picking winners before the season is over may yet have cause to revise their opinions. Many upsets are possible even in the short time remaining. A winning streak here or a slump there, would make considerable change in the standing of the leaders and open up possibilities for some other club that now appears to be out of the race. Yet, under normal conditions, it looks as though the pennant in the National League were about settled, with the race in the American a toss-up between Chicago and Boston, with the odds favoring the sympathies of the dopsters. With a lead of so many games at this stage of the race it would take herculean work for any of the clubs immediately behind to drag the Giants out of first place. The Phillies have the better chance, but their uneven playing much of this season has not been such as to encourage the hope that they will be able to overtake the leaders in the short time remaining. New York has lately been going none too well, but the chances are that the one-team race has made the Giants sluggish, and in the absence of anything like real competition they have failed to play up to their reputations. Yet with the opening of the opportunity for advancement, only the Phillies has been able to reduce New York's lead to any appreciable extent. The Giants went up the western club's last trip east this week with Pittsburgh, and follow with Brooklyn club, that need not give the Giants much concern, but games that are liable to put the leaders on edge for the series with the Phillies, who meanwhile may be having their own troubles with St. Louis and Boston, both clubs which appear to be playing pretty stiff ball just now.

It will, however, rest with the west to change the complexion of the National League race, for the pennant trip will hinge largely whether the clubs in that section of the county can slow up the present contenders sufficiently to make much, if any, difference. Of the eastern clubs, the Giants are perhaps the better road team. It has been not so long ago, last season, in fact, that the Giants on their last trip west cleaned up every game, and under present conditions they would hardly have to do little more than break even to clinch the flag. If the Phillies are only able to take advantage of any slipping of the leaders it would make the series between the two clubs the decisive one.

White Sox Beat Offensive Team.

Boston and Chicago continue to make all the talk in the American League, and so close are the two clubs that it looks to be a toss-up as to which is really the better club. The recent series between the two resulted in an even break, which because of being played in the West, rather favors the Red Sox. Yet it would not be surprising to see the Red Sox repeat, simply because of their pitchers and their strong defence. When it comes to comparing the clubs on the season's averages, the two teams are about on a par in defensive strength. Offensively, the champions do not show so well. In fact, the White Sox appears to have something on them in nearly every department of the game. In hitting, Chicago ranks third, while the Red Sox are in seventh place. The champions have scored fewer runs than any other American League team with the exception of Washington, and only the Athletics have stolen less bases. The thing that has kept the Red Sox around the top has not alone been the strength of their pitching staff, but the use of the sacrifice hit, in which they are past masters. In the figures Boston ranks next to Cleveland in sacrifice hitting, and it is by the use of this that the Red Sox rely upon to win. By many the Red Sox are counted a gamet team than their western rivals, and not a few followers of baseball are of the opinion that the White Sox, overloaded as they are with high-priced stars, will founder in the stretch. Whichever of the Sox wins will depend largely on what the other clubs will be able to show when pitted against the contenders. The fear is that those teams not prominently in the race will begin experimenting with bush league talent and thus put the pennant up to the series between the two clubs at Boston next month. Many baseball fans would like to see this year's flag go west, if nothing else than for a chance. Should Chicago win it would stimulate interest in that section of the country, as it has been some years since the west has won a championship in either of the major leagues.

Baseball Writer Dead.
Charles A. Lewis, who came here 15 years ago, died in New York on Wednesday aged 40 years. He was a nephew of Irving J. Lewis, managing editor of the New York Morning Telegraph, and of the late Henry Lewis, the well known writer. Mr. Lewis was a member of the Chapter of New York Baseball Writers.

Would Bar Baseball Gamblers.

August Herrmann, chairman of the National Baseball Commission has sent programme to the presidents of the Boston clubs in the National and American Leagues, insisting that in the future, they should not admit to baseball games any persons who have been found guilty in the courts of gambling in the Boston ball games.

FIND MCGRAW GUILTY

And Fine Him $1,000 For Attack on Tener.

John J. McGraw, manager of the New York National League Baseball Club, was fined $1,000, censured and reprimanded by the Board of Directors of the National League for approving an interview, subsequently published, containing an attack upon John K. Tener, president of the league.

This action was taken as the result of demand for an investigation of the case by the New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, after McGraw had signed a statement repudiating the interview when brought before the league upon charges filed by President Tener.

The finding of the board states that witnesses in the room with McGraw at the time of the alleged interview did not hear the remarks attributed to him. McGraw is held responsible, however, upon the ground that he authorized and endorsed statements contained in the interview when he accepted the original manuscript for approval and returned it with the remark that it was "all right."

A lengthy resume of the case, with a report of the findings of the board, was immediately sent to the Baseball Writers' Association.

Covaleski Not Coming.

"Iron Man" Covaleski will not come to the Toronto Leafs after all. The big southpaw whom the Toronto club announced they had secured from the Detroit Tigers refused to come to Toronto, and has left Detroit for his home in Memphis, Tenn. In view of his good services the Detroit club will allow him to select his own minor league berth. The Toronto club is now busy angling for another pitcher.

Charles Ebbets and Wilbert Robinson, president and manager, respectively, of the Brooklyn National League Baseball Club, were on trial yesterday on a charge of violating the Sunday law. The case was dismissed.

CUT FOOTBALL TEAMS.

The Yorkshire Northern Union Has Seven Clubs.

The question of continuing football next season was discussed at the annual meeting of the Yorkshire Northern Union at Leeds. It was reported that only seven clubs had definitely decided in favor of a continuance, those being Leeds, Hunslet, Dewsbury, Bradford, Hull, Hull Kingston Rovers, and Halifax.

A decision to adjourn the meeting for a fortnight, to obtain the definite intentions of other clubs, was agreed to, and in the meantime the Northern Union are to be asked to sanction the playing of twelve a side, in order to reduce expenses.

The famous English Derby for 1919 has closed with the large number of 234 nominations, including thirteen made in New York. His Majesty King George subscribes with three colts by Bayardo, The Tetrarch and Picton, respectively.
