THE CONFESSIONS OF ROXANE (By Frances Walter)

I MEET MRS. HARDWICK.

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The first important conversation I had with any of my fellow-guests at the Chadwick was with Mrs. Hardwick. I was passing through when she caught my eye and beckoned to me with her fan.

"Come and sit down, my dear," she said in her customary quick, decisive tone. "You look lonely. Where is your husband?"

I explained briefly that Kenneth was at his office, that he was just establishing his business and that he frequently was not at home in the evening.

"Yes, I have noticed that," returned Mrs. Hardwick, bluntly, "and it is a very bad idea. I assure you, that you have just been married?"

I acknowledged the indictment, not knowing whether to smile or to become angry. The old woman observed my doubtful frame of mind and waved her fan impatiently.

"But, don't be misled," she remonstrated. "Everybody has curiosity, and just because I put mine into words instead of looking it through my eyes I should not be condemned more than the rest. Don't you know that everybody in the hotel has been watching you ever since you came and that they have been talking about you behind your back?"

"No, I don't know it," I protested, confused in spite of myself.

"Well, they have," declared Mrs. Hardwick, with diabolical persistence. "And a good many of them haven't been saying nice things about you, either. You are too good looking for the old cats. They can't forgive you for being young and handsome, and above all, they can't forgive you for having a handsome husband. It makes them think of the time when they were young, but not handsome, and when they had husbands who were just plain, ordinary looking humans. There are some things that women—even old women of a certain stripe—can't forgive, and that is the superiority of another woman. Did you ever notice that?"

"Possibly I have noticed certain phases of the phenomenon."

"Well, there are a great many phases of it. I sit here and watch the disappointed old hyenas day in and day out and I wonder the good Lord lets them live. I can't understand it."

She slapped her fan against her knee with a resounding smack, as though reproving Providence for a fault, then she turned to me and laughed.

"There is only one thing about this crowd that is at all useful," she declared, "and that is that they help to keep this hotel going. If it weren't for this pack of she wolves here the place would go broke, and then where would you and I live?"

She gave another short cackle, which started several of the "she wolves" referred to and they cast a fleeting glance in our direction.

"See them?" asked Mrs. Hardwick. "Just look at them. Aren't they trying to make you want to Oshelize yourself? Yet I don't, and you won't when you are as old as I am. I suppose we are a sort of plague necessary to the mundane purgatory. Our existence can't be explained on any other hypothesis."

"But have these women children and grandchildren who are dear to them?" I asked innocently enough.

"Suppose they have," retorted the cynical old woman. "What good do they do the children and grandchildren? And what good do the children and grandchildren do them? If they cared anything for each other wouldn't they be living together?"

I replied that I hadn't thought of that.

"Of course, you hadn't," said the old woman brusquely, "but I have. I've thought a great deal about the women in this place, and the more I think about them the less I think of them."

She let out another hard laugh and slapped her fan once more against her knee.

"Well, I'm tired, and I'm going to bed, even if it is only 8 o'clock. I hope I shall have another interesting conversation with you before long, but if any of these old women get to talking to you first, don't believe anything they say about me. And, above all things, don't believe any of their insinuations about your husband."

She turned and hobbled away, leaving me staring at her with eyes wide with astonishment. What did she mean?

IF YOU WANT EVIDENCE

That Hemorrhoids, or Piles, Can Be Completely Cured, Read These Letters—Both Are Sworn Statements.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 29.—Next to personal experience the sworn statements of reliable people is the strongest evidence obtainable. If you have any doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively and completely cure piles, these letters should convince you.

Mr. Samuel Parker, fruit grower, Grimsby, Ont., has made the following declaration before Mr. W. W. Kidd, Notary Public of the same place: "I do solemnly declare that I was troubled with bleeding piles and was advised to go to the hospital to have an operation performed. My wife said 'No, get a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment.' I did so and have used it according to directions while living in Manitoba and obtained a complete cure, for I have never been troubled with piles since. I am now seventy years of age and want to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all sufferers from piles. My wife has used it for itching skin and obtained complete cure."

Mr. Donald M. Campbell, Campbell's Mountain, N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment with great success for hemorrhoids or piles of many years' standing. After trying all kinds of so-called pile cures, three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave me a complete cure. I have also used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and there are no others so good. You may use this letter, if you wish, for the benefit of others who may suffer as I did."

Sworn before me, Murdoch Gordon Campbell, J.P., in the County and for Inverness County.

I wonder what's wrong with my Tea?

My! This certainly IS good Tea

The woman on the left bought some "cheap" tea. You can see she's not pleased. She's sorry now she tried to save a few cents by buying the "cheap" tea.

How different with the woman on the right. The fragrance of her tea tells her how good it is. She paid a few cents more for Red Rose Tea than the other woman paid for her "cheap" tea—and besides Red Rose will prove more economical in the end!

Because of the rich flavor and vigorous strength of the Assam teas of which Red Rose chiefly consists, it will make 250 cups to the pound, or about a fifth of a cent a cup. So cheap that the very poorest can afford it, so good that the rich can find nothing better.
