POLICE OF OTHER LANDS

Declared Index of Character of the People.
It used to be said that each country could be known by the Jews who lived within its borders. In the same way every city can be judged by the character of its policemen. In Christiania the policeman is a mild and amiable citizen in a rather shiny coat, and none too neat, who stands in the middle of the roadway and tries to maintain some semblance of order in the democratic muddle of the city's traffic.
In Stockholm the policeman is a walking arsenal, with sword and pistol and a brass helmet, and the arrest of a disorderly person becomes an act of state. There the policeman represents the high authority of a proud country. He fulfils his duty with a stern severity. He is the symbol of law and established order. Let no one touch these fundamentals of a well regulated commonwealth.
In Copenhagen the policeman is neither the happy-go-lucky citizen who patrols the boulevards of Norway nor is he a creature of resplendent glory like his colleague in Sweden. He strikes a happy medium. In this he is an excellent representative of a land where the art of sensible and peaceful living seems to have been brought to its highest perfection.
If only the chauffeurs of the Danish capital would learn how to drive their cars we should not have a single complaint to make against a country where everybody seems well fed, where beggars are as scarce as very rich people, and where the women live up to the best traditions of the charming china which is made in the royal residence of Denmark—Hendrik Willem Van Loon, in The Century.

A Brute Explains Himself.
In October, 1915, the German military authorities in Belgium accused a British nurse, Edith Cavell, of helping British and Belgian soldiers to escape from the country. Miss Cavell was tried by court-martial and shot, in spite of the remonstrance of the American Minister. This brutal execution of a woman aroused the keenest resentment throughout the civilized world.
A member of the Belgian commission, Vernon Kellogg, tells in The World's Work of a visit Herbert Hoover and he made to Berlin connected with the Belgian relief work. They happened to meet the general wip, as military governor of Brussels, was responsible for Miss Cavell's murder. The general had had a few drinks and he insisted on telling them about what he called "Die Cavell"—"The Cavell." Here is the account:
"He said the Belgians called him a murderer, another Duke of Alva, but he wasn't. He was just a soldier doing his duty. Die Cavell was a thing that interfered with the spread of German civilization. It had to be got rid of. 'So I had her shot. Yes, I did it.' Did we think the world called him a murderer, too?"
It is because German autocracy agrees with this soldier that what interferes with the spread of German civilization should be got rid of. That all the world is in the war to suppress by force of arms so ruthless a doctrine.

Our idea of a diplomat is a man who never misses an opportunity of accusing a homely girl of being pretty.
There is nothing a woman enjoys more than telling how much better her husband's digestive apparatus works since she married him.

5 YEARS OF SUFFERING ENDED

The little son of Mrs. W. Adams of 489 La Salle Rd., Verdun, Montreal, suffered for over five years with the worst form of eczema. Mrs. Adams tried everything—took the child to various hospitals, where he received the best possible medical treatment, but it was of no avail. The doctors said the case was incurable. Then she heard of Zam-Buk and used it, with the result that to-day the child is completely cured of the terrible disease.

Mrs. Adams writes: "The eruption started on my little son's neck and spread. His skin was so highly spoked of rapidly until his body was entirely covered. It was terrible to see how he suffered with the burning and irritation. I took him to a hospital for treatment, but instead of getting better the sores became worse. I then took him to another hospital, where he remained for some time, and although at first he seemed to be getting better, the improvement was only temporary, and the doctors finally pronounced the disease incurable."
"Five years had now elapsed since the sores first appeared, and I was beginning to fear the doctors were right, when I was advised to use

Zam-Buk. This ointment was so highly spoken of that I determined to give it a trial, and a few weeks after commencing its use I noticed a decided improvement. This was so encouraging that I continued. Gradually my boy got better and better until after four months of Zam-Buk treatment he was entirely cured and his skin absolutely clear."
"Although it is now six years since this wonderful cure was effected, there has not been the slightest trace of the disease returning."
Zam-Buk is unsurpassed for eczema, chronic sores, ringworm, bad legs, blood-poisoning, pimples, boils and piles, as well as for cuts, burns, scalds and all skin injuries. All dealers, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.
