THE WAR CONDITIONS A BENEFIT TO SPORT

Will Bring About More General Participation of Youth in Athletics.

Intercollegiate athletics will not suffer from the war. The calibre of the teams in intercollegiate sport and the quality of their performances will not be up to past standards, but that will not be harmful, since it will create an opportunity for men of less skill and experience.

This summary represents the views of two of Cornell's athletic coaches, Jack Moakley, famous track and cross-country coach, and Al Sharpe, builder of one Cornell champion football team and director of football, baseball and basket ball at Cornell.

"The war hurt athletics? On the contrary the war will do more than any other factor to bring about general participation in sports by American youth," was Dr. Sharpe's opinion. He looks for an athletic regeneration.

"Football will suffer somewhat in quality because the time to develop teams like those in the past is lacking," he continued. "The college men will want to give more time to military training, and they should. We won't have Brickleys and Barrets, perhaps, but the training of the men of less skill is in itself an accomplishment worth while."

LACK OF FOOTBALL TELLS ON THE FUNDS

Princeton's Other Sports Suffer From the Loss of the Major Game.

The probability of Princeton indulging in athletic contests with other colleges during the coming year seems remote just now. This condition prevails in spite of the ruling that "if the undergraduates with athletics they may have them" of Dean Howard McClenahan. Chairman of the Board of Athletic Control, who ordered the suspension of all athletics when war was declared.

Lack of funds is likely to be the big obstacle to Princeton's carrying out a schedule in minor sports. Football helped finance the minor sports, nearly all of which do not pay expenses, and with no varsity football this fall there will be no money for the other branches of sports.

Rugby at Hamilton.

The majority of the players figuring on the Hamilton O.R.F.U. teams will be soldiers. The Mounted Rifles will select their team from the ranks and it is thought that most of the players on the other teams will be in uniform before the season is very advanced. This will be pointed out to the H.A.A. directors at a conference to be held this week and there is still a chance that some of the league games will be played on the famous "stamping" grounds of the Tigers. The latter will not enter a team in the Ontario union.

FANS SAY WILLARD MUST ENTER RING

The Big Boxer is Regarded as Champion in Name Only.

Fight or forfeit the title. This is the ultimatum "an angry fight fan" would issue to Jess Willard. Mr. Fyn has expressed the sentiments of many thousands of boxing enthusiasts in the United States. Willard has come to be regarded as champion in name only. But who is there with the authority to strip Jess Willard of his crown and award it to another heavyweight?

Jess doesn't want to fight. Everyone knows that. He would like to retire, but doesn't dare because his circus depends upon his championship. But it is apparent the fans are getting tired of his inactivity. Once since winning the title from Jack Johnson, more than two years ago, has Jess condescended (for a paltry $47,500) to re-enter the ring. That once was a year ago last March. It's a long time between bouts.

The champion is able to remain idle so long without defending his title proves that a governing body such as the National Sporting Club of London is needed in this country. There is an organization which was founded on the prospect of controlling the sport, but governing boxing in the United States, or rather, not controlling the sport, but governing it so far as uniformity of rules and weights is concerned, with a view also to make champions in all divisions defend their title within stated intervals. It is known as the American Boxing Association.

CONNIE DOUBLY CANNY

Declines to Predict Winner—Says It'll be Hard to Fight

Connie Mack, creator of the great Athletic team, world's champions of other days, declined to be pinned down to a definite expression of opinion as to the outcome of the world's series of 1917, but conveyed the impression that he believed the Giants and the White Sox to be more evenly matched in playing strength than any of the contenders of recent years. "The Giants are unusually strong, particularly in batting," said Manager Mack, "and it will take some great pitching by Cicotte, Fieber, Russell and Williams to hold them down."

"Cicotte is a first-class pitcher, in spite of the 'shine ball' which he has been using all season. He would get the same results without it. But the 'shine ball' is just as legal as the 'spit ball,' so there should be no kick about it."

"I'm not in the habit of picking winners, but being an American League man, I'd be glad to see the White Sox come out on top. They'll have to play harder than ever to whip the Giants however and for that reason I think the coming series will be one of the best in the history of baseball."

Another World's Record.

A new world's swimming record was set at San Francisco when Miss Claire Galligan, of New York, completed the women's national 500-yard championship in 7 minutes 31 2-5 seconds. This bettered Miss Fannie Durack's time of 7 minutes 32 2-5 seconds, made at Sydney, Australia, in 1915. Miss Galligan swam in a 25-yard tank.

But Was it Lacrosse?

Goal scoring records for past season in the National Lacrosse Union are not available. However, in the slugging department "Newsy" Lalonde leads with six or seven knock-outs to his credit. Neil Penny, George Roberts and Degray are also well up, while Montreal police figured in kayo specialties in several cases. No wonder Joe Lally quit in disgust!

SOME FLY CATCHER.

When Harry Hempstead mystified every big leaguer in the country by drafting "Tanglefoot" of Grand Rapids, he became the first man to put one over on John E. Bruce. Tanglefoot, according to Hempstead, was the greatest fly catcher the world ever saw. The joke originated in the Polo Grounds where the fence surrounding the park bears a sign reading: "Burns, New York, caught 287 flies in 1916. Tanglefoot, Grand Rapids, caught 50,000,000,000 flies." "Some fly catcher," figured Hempstead, so he put in a draft for the marvel and sent in a check to pay for him.

Junior Hockey in Saskatchewan
Junior hockey is going to be promoted on an extensive scale in Saskatchewan this coming winter. "We feel it is very important at the present time, in view of conscription, to promote the game among the younger boys," writes "Billy" Bettschen, secretary of the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey League. "I felt this very strongly last March, when I saw the brave little Vics of Winnipeg do battle with the older players of Toronto and Port Arthur. Nothing like starting early, and when the winter comes we will find ourselves organized."

Gives Giant Fans Confidence.
Giant fans are preparing to put their last dollar on the McGraw clan in the coming clash with the White Sox. Reason: Charley Herzog is back with his old zip and pep. Reports from Philadelphia of the fire Herzog displayed in the games against the Phillies brought assurance to the Giant followers that the New York infield will be on the job with its full strength in the world's series. Herzog had a good rest at his home. His back, which caused his layoff, is strong again. There is no doubt that Herzog's fighting spirit carries the Giants to heights they never attain without him. McGraw's pitchers are also ready.
