HALLOWEEN FESTIVITIES

INCLEMENT WEATHER COULD NOT KEEP YOUNGSTERS IN.

There Were Many Costumed Boys and Girls on the Streets—The Police Had a Quiet Time.

The night of nights in the lives of the children has come and gone, leaving many happy memories in its wake. In spite of the inclement weather the youngsters were out in force on Halloween and braved the snow and rain during the fore part of the evening to visit the homes of their friends. The usual allotment of nuts, candies, oranges and the other gifts which they received when they sang and danced or in other ways performed for their friends were generously given to delight the hearts of the little ones. Halloween was also made the occasion for a number of parties, and some places amid the soft glow of the light from the inside of mystic looking pumpkins a merry time was spent in the various games that have been kept principally for the festivities of Halloween.

The costumes worn by the youngsters with the grotesque false faces were diversified to saghe the least, and everything from a piece of yellow cheese cloth to garments which took weeks to prepare were used. On Princess street some of the more daring ones paraded in their made-up and provided much amusement for pedestrians.

It was fortunate that this year, unlike many of the years in the past, the rough element among the boys was not so much in evidence, and few depredations of property have been reported to the police. In some parts of the city fences were taken and signs removed, but generally it was more innocent mischief than intentional harm that was done. Policemen patrolled the city during the early part of the evening, and reported that they had had very little trouble with the youngsters.

Military News

An important announcement has been made by Secretary E. H. Scammell, of the Military Hospitals Commission, that as a result of an arrangement requiring special appliances such as orthopedic shoes, trusses, rubber bandages and belts, will be given a bill of credit in addition to their pensions. This credit, which will cover the yearly purchases of these articles is the result of an arrangement between the Hospitals Board and the Board of Pension Commissioners.

"We have so arranged," said Mr. Scammell, "that a man may purchase such appliances as it has been found he needs at any shop handling such goods, and forward the bill to the Commission. His needs having been appraised and the fair cost of such articles estimated, this sum will be deducted from the amount granted for the year, and if at the end of the term there is a balance it will be given to him."

It is interesting to note in the face of general horror of blindness that the assumption in many quarters that the war will turn back into Canada hundreds of sightless men is without foundation. The records of the Military Hospitals Commission, under whose direction all disabled soldiers come when they return to this country, show that of the 400,000 Canadians sent overseas, only thirty-one have been blinded to date. Nine of these men have been returned to Canada ready to carry on in professions which they learned at St. Dunstan's School for the Blind in London, England, and are making good; the rest are in England, still in training.

Young Jack Canuck returned from the front is proud of his assorted vocabulary. He talks a bit of Russian, Turco, Arabic, Greek and German, to say nothing of French and Cockney slang. In the wards of the Military Convalescent Hospitals he trots them all out and shows the greatest eagerness to learn more of any of them.

Many of the boys who are in the eastern convalescent homes of the Commission are taking French lessons. They practise in conversation with their French comrades and are making great strides, just as many of the French who never spoke English before are mastering their language.

The latest issue of the Toronto magazine called "Construction" contains some splendid pictures of the buildings of the Military Hospitals Commission here. The pictures are of the Mowat Hospital and other institutions and show the architectural ideas used.

Lieut. Terry Maunsell, second son of Brig.-Gen. Maunsell, G. S. O. Military District No. 3, is in Ottawa on furlough. He was wounded in August, 1916. His elder brother, Lieut. Bert Maunsell, was killed in action while serving with the Royal Warwickshire Regiment in September, 1915.

It was stated at military headquarters in Ottawa that no action had been taken to arrange for leave of absence in Canada for the men who went to the front with the First Contingent. A high official of the Militia Department said the matter had not been considered.

The need of the State is to be the only test applied in exemptions from military service, essential industries will be maintained, and allowance made for previous service out of families.

Capt. Angus McDonald, A. M. C., and Capt. W. W. Sauter, A.M.C., are detailed to duty on the Standing Medical Board, Ottawa.

Dr. S. F. Cooke, civilian practitioner, is detailed for duty at the base recruiting office.

The uniforms will be taken from soldiers not receiving an honourable discharge.

The garrison band played on the streets on Thursday afternoon and was much admired by the people.

Brig.-Gen. T. D. R. Hemming, C.M.G., is leaving on Friday to attend the marriage of Lady Mary Cavendish in Ottawa.

The prospect of having a new military hospital in the city is arousing a great amount of interest among the citizens. It is understood that the whole matter will be thoroughly discussed in Ottawa on Saturday with local officers in attendance at the meeting. The decision is pretty definite that Kingston will be selected as the site, as the various military institutions and the experience of local specialists will prove very valuable.

COMING TO KINGSTON

"Experience" Will Be the Big Attraction To-night.

"No play in recent years has been a Duit around the remarkable romance which is attended to the story of "Experience," the morality drama by George V. Hobart which comes to the Grand Opera House for a three days' engagement beginning Nov. 1st with a matinee on Saturday. "Experience" at one time went begging for a producer, was at first a financial failure and now has been turned into one of the biggest successes ever known in the theatrical business and likely to make a fortune of half a million dollars for its producers during the next few years.

About three years ago George V. Hobart, successful writer of farcical comedies and light opera librettos, was asked to write a burlesque on the various morality plays which have been produced from time to time during the last three hundred years. Mr. Hobart accepted the commission to write the burlesque but was so deeply impressed with an instrument for good that he decided to write a straight morality play, modern in every way yet retaining the old idea of naming his characters after various traits and attributes of the human race.

The result was a one-act play called "Experience" produced privately at a Sunday night gambol of the famous Lambs Club in New York City. It dealt with Youth going forth into the world in search of fame and fortune and made such a great success that Mr. Hobart was urged to elaborate it into a full evening's entertainment. The result is the present three-act version in ten vivid and dramatic scenes, each depicting a different phase of the temptations confronting Youth. The scenery is gorgeous and magnificent and the gowns worn by the 40 beautiful women in the cabaret scene are the latest importations from Paris.

Capt. Alford at Montreal. Belleville, Nov. 1.—Walter Alford has received a telegram from his son, Capt. H. F. Alford, that he has arrived in Montreal from England. Capt. Alford is being invalided home from England on account of the too frequent relapses of malaria, which he contracted during the year of active service in the Dardanelles region. During the last year in England the dampness of the climate was the cause for so many relapses of the disease.

Mrs. Henry Webster died on Wednesday morning at her home after an illness of several weeks. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. S. B. Armstrong.

Familiar Quotations
The high that proved too high, the heroic for earth too hard.
The passion that left the ground to lose itself in the sky.
Are music sent up by God, by the lover and the bard;
Enough that we heard it once; we shall hear it by and by.

The Theatres

Vitalizing a Romance.

It has been the fashion of late to picture the work of famous authors, and Selig has advanced this as a fine art in "The Spoilers" from the book of Rex Beach, in most spirited and vital fashion. This moving picture play in nine reels will undoubtedly become a phenomenal attraction wherever presented. "The Spoilers" is as virile and as red-blooded a romance as any that has appeared in the American class during the decade. It has been visualized in stunning fashion, reflecting upon the astuteness of its progenitor, William N. Selig, and the deep, live sympathetic sense of its producer, Colin Campbell, as well as in the vigorous and responsive action of William Farnum and all the other artists enlisted to make it a star cast extraordinary. This special feature will be seen at the Grand for the days commencing Monday, November 5th, three times daily.

At the Strand.

Madge Kennedy, the famous comedienne of "Twin Beds" and "Fair and Warmer," makes her first appearance as a motion picture star in Margaret Mayo's rollicking farce comedy, "Baby Mine," which is the attraction at the Strand for three days commencing to-night. "Baby Mine" has been elaborated for the picture presentation from a comedy that ranked as one of the most successful of recent years, and which made a fortune for its owners and producers. In "Baby Mine" Miss Kennedy plays the part of a thoughtless, ingenious bride, whose harmless deceptions are constantly getting her into difficulties. It is a play of youth filled with the spirit of youth. Accordingly, the scenic settings and lightning effects were designed to convey a spirit of airy brightness. The costumes for Miss Kennedy and those of her supporting cast were selected to harmonize with the settings, so that everything about the production would be in keeping. Miss Kennedy is seen in light, fluffy frocks in complete harmony with the fittings of the apartment in which most of the action takes place. A Keystone comedy, the Canadian Topical Weekly, Mut and Jeff and a Victory Moore comedy will also hold the boards at the Strand for the last three days.

At Griffin's.

Probably the two subjects that have piqued human curiosity oftener than any other two riddles of the universe are "What Happens After Death" and "What is the Bottom of the Sea Like." You will find an answer to this last question at Griffin's where the "The Submarine Eye," the most thrilling moving picture-film that has ever been produced will be shown for to-day, Friday and Saturday. In addition to the above wonderful subject we also have faintly "Ann Pennington" in Susie Snowflake a high class Paramount feature and another chapter of that very unusual serial "The Neglected Wife." This is without a doubt one of the best programmes seen in some time.

Capt. F. S. Gales Better.

Many friends in the city of Capt. F. S. Gales will be pleased to hear that he is progressing favorably after a serious illness. Capt. Gales left the Mowat Hospital staff here a few days ago to take up the position as quartermaster of the Military Hospitals Commission at Montreal. His injuries while in France caused this illness.

A. and N. Veterans.

The Army and Navy Veterans' Association had a Halloween entertainment for the soldiers on Wednesday evening. Mayor Hughes presided, and among those present was Major W. J. McManus. An informal programme of songs and music passed a very pleasant evening for the returned men.
