The two officers will journey from Pembroke to Mattawa and make examinations at all the intervening little places. This is a wide country and the officers will probably have a difficult time going from place to place.

Capt. Cooke a Queen's University graduate who has been practising at New York, has been taken on the strength of the Army Medical Corps and detailed for duty at the Base Recruiting Office.

To take care of any epidemic of contagious diseases which might break out among the troops of this garrison, the military authorities are trying to arrange for the building of a hospital which could be used should the occasion demand it. The present plan is to have the Onawanda Military Hospital grounds used for this. Four buildings heated by hot air furnaces would be built. These would be closed until some outbreak occurs. In that case the heat could be turned on, the building opened up and the cases taken care of without danger of spreading the disease.

QUEEN'S ALUMNI CONFERENCE

The Chancellor's Lectureship Was Commenced on Tuesday Morning. The sessions of the Queen's Theological Alumni conference were continued at the university on Tuesday morning. Rev. Prof. William Morgan, D.D., commenced the chancellor's lectureship which will consist of four addresses. His theme on Tuesday morning was the idea of religion, and showed that grasp and appreciation of his subject which has brought him by his former efforts to an outstanding place in Canadian theological circles.

At eleven o'clock two addresses were given on the pastor. The first was on the origin and structure of the book by Rev. D. E. Foster, B.A., of Trenton, and the second on his place in Hebrew life and literature by Rev. A. V. Brown, B.D., of Picton. The discussion of the subject was opened by Prof. H. T. Wallace, Ph.D., of Queen's University.

The conference meetings will continue until Thursday.

RETURNED SOLDIERS

Presented Capt. W. A. McCarthy, A.M.C., With Engraved Wrist Watch.

At the weekly meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans held on Monday evening, a discussion took place about the Government not following out its policy of appointing returned men to positions. There are a great number of these positions now filled by men who have not seen service.

It was expected that Hon. Howard Ferguson would give an address, but a letter was received, stating that he had to speak at Prescott.

A pleasing event took place near the close of the meeting. On behalf of the association a gold wrist watch of handsome design and bearing the engraving "Presented to Captain W. A. McCarthy by the Army and Navy Veterans' Association Kingston," was given to that officer. Mr. McCarthy was taken by surprise. He stated that his home was always open for soldiers, and he would give his professional services free to any man in khaki.

Attended Y.M.C.A. Conference. F. J. Wilson, F. L. Newman, Walter Stewart and Walter Henrich have returned from Ottawa, where they attended the conference of Y. M. C. Mott, a prominent American Y.M.C.A. worker, who was a member of the American mission to Russia, on the conditions in that country, and from Hon. Newton W. Rowell, K.C.

SHOULD THEY BE EXEMPTED?

Dr. Edwards, M.P., Says No—Medical Authorities Say Yes.

The Whig learns that the Government has adopted a definite policy regarding the exemption of medical students, and orders are expected in a few days which will mean the total exemption from military service of these men until they become qualified as doctors.

Dr. J. W. Edwards, M.P., made a statement at the Orange concert on Monday evening which has aroused the ire of certain medical men. The doctor expressed himself as opposed to granting exemption of medical students. A medical officer said to the Whig on Tuesday morning: "It does not matter what Dr. Edwards says, the authority is coming through shortly. The Government realizes—even if Dr. Edwards does not—that there is the most urgent need for medical men. Undergraduates who went to France under Dr. A. E. Ross were sent back to Canada to complete their course, and surely if this was deemed advisable exemption of medical students from service while at the college is a sane idea."

Familiar Quotations

O man, upon life's troubled sea,
When tempest-tossed by fate's decree,
Though fortune hold thee contraband,
Hope on! for thou shalt win the land.
If somewhere is stretched out to thee
A woman's hand.

The Theatres

At the Grand.
That the Selig Polyscope Co. have been successful in their attempts to visualize Rex Beach's famous story, "The Spoilers," was evidenced by the enraptured attention of the capacity audience which viewed it at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening.

The story is somewhat melodramatic, but with its many thrills and tense moments it compels attention. It breathes the freshness and exuberance of lands far to the north where the action takes place. In that land which is depicted as a bad and lawless country where the human emotions are bared and man takes man as he finds him one can perceive the same fundamentals in "The Spoilers" that gave to Robert Service in his songs of the north his place as a portrayer of life as it was and not as a gaudy representation of what it should be.

"The Spoilers" has that freshness of theme which makes it a worthy film to be shown at the Grand. The same programme will be shown on Tuesday night and on Wednesday, matinee and night.

"My Irish Cinderella."

Few plays have ever told a prettier story or told it in a more simple or unaffected way than does "My Irish Cinderella." Love and adventure from the chief fundamentals of the piece and in its composition will be found every ingredient that appeals to the lover of the drama. The characters are for the most part very lovable and where they do not possess that attribute, they are at least strikingly real.

"My Irish Cinderella" comes to the Grand Opera House next Thursday, November 8th, for one performance. The play contains plenty of action. Peggy McNeil is an entrancing character and she is surrounded by a whole lot of real flesh and blood people who move and have their being in situations which, rather than being stagey are typical of real life. "My Irish Cinderella" is one play that you should make it a point to see, for when all has been said and done, she is one of the most interesting characters in stagedom and the play itself is one of the stage's very best.

At the Strand.

Dustin Farnum was a big attraction at the Strand last evening when he appeared on the screen in William Fox's photoplay, "Durand of the Bad Lands." That Mr. Farnum made in this screen production, was proven by the crowd that filled the theatre. "Durand of the Bad Lands" depicts how a woman's love and a governor's pardon can turn a bad man of the west into a lovable citizen with three little kids. Little Mary McAllister in "Do Children Count," and a "Musty Suffer" comedy also held the boards, and were well received. The same programme will be exhibited again to-night and Wednesday.

At Griffin's.

The audience at this popular house last evening was treated to an exceptionally meritorious programme, which is headed by infinitely able Elsie Ferguson, the recruit from the ranks of the speaking stage, in a brilliant photo drama of the Algerian country entitled, "Barbary Sheep." Many fascinating scenes are shown with true Algerian splendor, conceded to be one of the most beautiful women on the American stage to-day. Elsie Ferguson loses none of her charm on the screen. In this her first Artercraft picture, her rare personal charm is faithfully reproduced by the camera, and her popularity of stage and will more than be duplicated on the screen. See it to-night and to-morrow at Griffin's.

Adam Couldn't Swallow These.

Joseph Welsh, Howe Island, was a visitor at the Whig office on Tuesday morning and brought in four huge apples which he grew on his farm. They were of the "wealthy" variety and were about five inches in diameter. They were the biggest specimens that have been seen in the city for many a day.

Dr. Edwards To Run.

Dr. J. W. Edwards, for Frontenac, is not going to resign his seat to allow his constituents to select a union candidate. This was shown by the doctor's address at the Orange concert on Monday evening, when he stated positively that he intended to run in spite of the wishes of a certain lawyer to have him sent back to the practice of his profession.
