Letters to the Editor

For Whom Should Women Vote?
To the Editor: The decision of this election may rest with the women. They have been given votes, because their sons and husbands, brothers and fathers, have gone to France. The women who have no soldiers at the war have no votes. Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his friends adopt the attitude of denouncing this as injustice, and in times of peace it might be, but at this time it is right that those who bear the burden should have privileges. They deserve recognition at the hands of the people. For whom should they vote? The parliament now to be chosen must see this war to the end. For that sole purpose men who have been life-long antagonists are sitting down at the council board to take counsel together to win the war. They have put aside all matters of difference between them, and unite for this one thing. Party politics are abandoned and forgotten because of this tremendous struggle. Some of the men who have done this have made sacrifice of a political career, because they believed the call of their country demanded it. They believe it is the only way to win the war. They are convinced that Canada must speak with one voice in this matter, that nothing else will do.

Should the women support them or not? What answer would the ladies in France and Flanders make? They need support; they want more men; some of them are on guard fourteen hours at a time without rest. They have been three years in the fight, and they need rest and relief. There is no way to get it unless the Union Government is supported.

Yours,
G. M. MacDONNELL.

A LULL AT CAMBRAI

No Further Infantry Action, the War Office Reports.

(Canadian Press Despatch) London, Dec. 4.—A lull in the battle on the Cambrai front last night, after the terrific fighting of the last few days, is reported by the War Office. The statement reads: "The enemy's artillery was active during the night on the Cambrai battle front in the neighborhood of Bourlon and Moeuvres. There was no further infantry action. On the remainder of the front, nothing of special interest has been reported."

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, ex-Premier of Canada and oldest member of the Senate, is reported seriously ill. He is only a few days short of being 94 years of age.

The Theatres

"The Thirteenth Chair."
The extraordinary manifestations of an unusual power upon which in great measure the reputations of Paladino, Slade and a number of other spiritualistic trance mediums who have been famous, were founded, are all of them reproduced in "The Thirteenth Chair." Bayard Veiller's melodrama of mystery, which William Harris, Jr., will send to the Grand on Wednesday, Dec. 12th. Rosalie LaGrange, the old medium, who is the principal character of the story, produces "spirit rapping," lifts a table from the floor simply by passing her hands over it, and furnishes a number of other samples of her ability to startle and disconcert.

At Griffin's.
Last evening a capacity audience enjoyed the well-selected programme shown at this theatre, where Geraldine Farrar, the wonderful screen star, appears in her success of successes, "The Woman God Forgot." This picture discloses the latest achievements in the cinema art, and makes a distinct advance in the annals of the motion picture. It is a gigantic spectacle, based on a page of the history of America, when Montezuma and his Aztecs were conquered by the Spaniards, headed by Cortez. Stuart Holmes in "The Broadway Sport," was also highly pleasing and presents some unusual comedy features. It is a first class comedy drama, and provided much amusement. The new serial, "The Fighting Trail," bids fair to out-rival any of our former successes and kept the audience in a high state of excitement. To-night and to-morrow this same bill will be presented.

The Voice on the Wire.
If such nationally representative theatre circuits as the Marcus Loew Circuit in New York picks the "Voice on the Wire" from all the serials on the market for its entire circuit, you can bet your last dollar that the serial is right. "The Voice on the Wire" gives to the public what they want; veiled mystery with the ghostly dismembered hand, and the constant weird warnings of death over the wire, combines to fend punch and thrills galore at the King

Familiar Quotations

All our children are changelings. They are perpetually fresh strangers. Every day they vanish and a new person masquerades as yesterday's child until some unexpected development betrays the cheat.

At the Strand.

Every seat filled and everyone satisfied with the programme, was the traction and unique drama of the feature photoplay which is the headline attraction. The title tells the story of this drama, that of romance, life and love. In this production Miss Clayton wears many attractive gowns. "Fatty" Arbuckle, champion heavy-weight comedian of the screen was also seen in "Fatty at Coney Island." As the name suggests the whole picture was filmed at Coney Island. "Fatty's" adventures at the famous beach resort are wonders and the scenes were actually filmed there during the Mardi Gras festival. This same programme and other reels will be shown again to-night and Wednesday. Verdict at the Strand last evening. "The Stolen Paradise," with Ethel Clayton in the Stella role is the at-

AUTO OVERTURNED; JOSEPH WALSH DEAD

Father of Edward Walsh Victim of Accident Near Bay City, Mich.

Joseph Walsh, father of Edward Walsh, a well-known proprietor of a garage on King street, died as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident.

Deceased was seventy-one years of age, and was a prominent business man of Flint, Mich., owner of the Walsh building, the Yates block lumberman, capitalist and director in Flint and Detroit banks. He was operated on, but the effects of the internal complications proved fatal. Mr. Walsh was driving in an automobile which was overturned in a ditch. Deceased was returning from Bay City in his automobile, which had been stolen by two boys, who had escaped. Mr. Walsh was driving the car in company with Under Sheriff Sutf and the two boys. The other members of the party suffered slight injuries.
