

World's Greatest Siege Gun - With our Italian Allies - A Captured "Pill-Box."

The world's greatest siege gun. It is of more than 20-inch calibre, and is under construction in the Famous French Creusot munitions plant, supposedly for prospective use against fortresses. It is considered far too ponderous for ordinary field service.

Remarkable German concrete blockhouse or "Pill-box," as it is called by the British Tommies, erected on the St. Quentin salient, where it resisted bombardment after bombardment by the French, practically without damage, and finally had to be taken by assault. The face of one of the French captors of the "Pill-box" can be seen peering through the peephole.

The Austrian battleship Wien, lying at her anchorage in the harbor of Trieste, where she was recently torpedoed and sunk by Italian sailors under Lieut. Rizzo, of the Italian Navy, who cut their way to the ship through nets of steel cables strung over submarine mines. Alongside lies her sister ship, the Monarch.

The Third Italian Army moving back to its new position behind the Piave. This view shows the crowded state of the roads during the retreat to the Piave.

In Cambrai battle: "Kamerad"—just in time.