GANANOQUE

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
Jan. 12.—Like a bolt from the blue at an early hour yesterday morning came the sad intelligence that C. V. Ketchum, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, and president of the local Board of Trade, had been found dead in his bed. He had not been feeling well for some time past, but no one dreamed that there was anything radically wrong. He went through his regular duties at the bank on Thursday and was to have been at the meeting of the Board of Trade that evening, but did not feel well enough to attend. Deceased took charge of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto some twenty-nine years ago, and during his residence here made friends of everybody. He was one of the most public-spirited men of the town, but never crowded himself to the fore. His patriotic spirit was always apparent, he being the honorary treasurer of the local patriotic fund, and worked night and day at the bank in connection with the Victory Loan bonds. Overwork may have been the prime factor in his breakdown. His wife, who was for many years prior to her decease an invalid, was tended with the greatest care by her husband, and her death saddened his life to no small extent. He was an energetic member of Leeds Lodge No. 201, A.F. and A.M. A special service was held in Christ church at ten o'clock last evening, conducted by Rev. Walter Cox. Deceased had been an active member of that church throughout his residence here. Leeds Lodge No. 201, A.F. and A.M., met at 9 p.m. and marched in a body to attend the service, as did also the Board of Trade, the local manufacturers and merchants and many of Gananogue's best citizens. The citizens' band also turned out to show respect for the deceased. Many floral tributes attested to the popularity of the deceased, as did the attendance at the service, which was a late hour. The remains were forwarded on the midnight train to Colborne, where interment will be made. There was another large offering of live hogs at the market here yesterday, all of which was purchased by local dealers for shipment. Seventeen cents is still the prevailing price. Thomas Bovey, sr., has gone to Kingston to take a position in the C.L.C. munition plant. "Strathford," the beautiful home of the late Hon. J. R. Stratton, Peterboro, has been sold to Richard Sheehy, household effects and all. On Monday at Smith's Falls, Alexander Rathwell Evey, Smith's Falls, and Miss Kate Lee, of Merrickville, were united in marriage.

At the inaugural meeting of the Peterboro Board of Education V. Eastwood was re-elected chairman. William Stark, a former well-known baker of Peterboro, died on Friday, aged seventy-eight years. B. Close, Winchester, has been appointed organist of St. John's church, Brockville.

OBITUARY

The Late G. Gorriety.
George Gorriety, aged ninety-nine years, died in Friday after a year's illness. The deceased was born in Glasgow and lived here for many years, retiring some time ago from active work. He was an Anglican in religion. The remains are being transferred to Wolfe Island for burial.
The Late S. M. Wemp.
Sophinnia M. Wemp, sister of Mrs. S. Ackroyd, 109 Frontenac street, passed away on Friday in the Hotel Dieu after only two days' illness. Deceased was born on Amherst Island sixty-six years ago. She was an Anglican.
Funeral of late Mrs. (Rev. Dr.) Porter.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Porter, wife of the Rev. Dr. Porter, of Stella, took place on Monday, the 7th inst., from the parsonage to St. Paul's cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. D. Ellis, B.A., president of the Conference; Rev. G. S. Clendenen, S.T.L., secretary of the district, and Rev. James Cumberland, pastor of St. Paul's Church. Rev. J. C. Dixon, rector of the Anglican Church, to his great regret, was too ill to attend. The bearers were S. K. Tagwell, S. Pringle, Capt. Saunders, William Montgomery, Hugh Filson, and Robert Saunders. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, the funeral was large and representative. The deceased lady was in her seventieth year, and was apparently well as usual up to Thursday evening, when a severe attack of bronchitis suddenly developed. Dr. Northmore, of Bath, was at once summoned, and during the following week visited her daily. Under his skilful and experienced treatment the bronchial trouble had by Friday almost subsided, and there was a prospect of recovery, when, as had been feared from the first, heart failure suddenly supervened, and she sank into unconsciousness, and shortly after midnight passed away peacefully out of mortality into eternal life. Having enjoyed the unique experience for a Methodist minister's wife of occupying the parsonage at Stella for nearly ten years, her acquaintance among the sister churches was wide and her friendships many. Thus her death has evoked wide expressions of personal sorrow and of tender sympathy with Dr. Porter, whose ministerial labors she shared for forty-four years and with her niece, Miss H. J. Broughton, who has lived with her from childhood. The other relatives present at the funeral were her sister, Mrs. John Abbey, Port Dalhousie; her nephew, Robert Broughton, Newmarket, and her nieces, Mrs. J. Ryde, Ottawa, and Miss Ella Broughton, Bradford.

KINGSTON'S EASY VICTORY

DEFEATED QUEEN'S IN O. H. A. JUNIOR GAME BY 12 TO 2.
The Game Was Slow in the Last Two Periods—The Penalties Were Many—A Good Crowd in Attendance.
The score of twelve for the Kingston Juniors and two for Queen's team tells the story of the second game of Friday night in this O. H. A. sub-section grouping. The game started off well, but whether because of the lack of experience or the six-man hockey of the second and third periods were slow and developed into help less struggles by Queen's to prevent a bigger score. The ice was good, and the crowd during the first part of the contest, when there was hope for the losers, went off their feet to support their favorites. Both seemed to have a big following among the 530 fans present. In this game the shortage of men on the ice shows itself up, and on several occasions there were only nine or ten men playing. The penalties were for the most part deserved, as the players could not behave themselves. The first period was the best exhibition. The ice was fast, and the players, when they first came on started in with a grand burst of speed, which, however, did not last very long, and took its toll by a decided slowing up the rest of the game. The scoring was as follows:—
First period—
1. Kingston—McKelvey, 2.05.
2. Queen's—Campbell, 10.20.
3. Kingston—Gratton, 11.15.
4. Kingston—Elmer, 12.20.
5. Kingston—Shewell, 14.45.
6. Kingston—McKelvey, 16.05.
Second period—
7. Kingston—Elmer, 2.25.
8. Kingston—Gratton, 6.00.
9. Queen's—Ralph, 6.06.
10. Kingston—Elmer, 19.00.
Third period—
11. Kingston—Shewell, 2.05.
12. Kingston—McKelvey, 17.00.
13. Kingston—Elmer, 13.30.
14. Kingston—McKelvey, 14.05.
The replacements were: First period: Reynolds for Yoerger; Yoerger for Hamil. Second period: Brown for Gratton; Reynolds for Hamil. Third period: Reynolds for Gratton; Elmer for Shewell; Reynolds for Ralph. The line-up was: Kingston—Cornell, goal; McKelvey, right defence; Hall, left defence; Gratton and Brown (alternately), centre; Elmer, right wing; Shawill, left wing. Queen's—Quinn, goal; Baiden, right defence; Campbell, left defence; Yoerger, centre; Hamil, right wing; Ralph, left wing; Reynolds, substitute; G. VanHorne was referee.
Monday's Game.
The greatest interest is being taken by the fans in the Queen's vs. Batteries intermediate O. H. A. opening match for Monday night. The line-up will be selected from the following: Queen's—Legault, goal; Embury and Imbeau, defence; Mackenzie, McQuig, Barrett, Hanley and Taft, forwards. The last two played with Queen's last season. Batteries—Ryan and Tobin, goal; Linn and Coombes, defence; Hughes, Williams, Derry, McElroy and Soby, forwards. Derry is a well-known Kingstonian, and Tobin played here last year for the Batteries. George VanHorne will referee.

The King Of The Rockies

WITH his back broken by a lucky or unlucky shot the big mountain billy of a section of the Rockies in the headwaters of the Kootenay River, sits awaiting the dogs, the first of whom can be dimly seen in the background, scouting cautiously to learn if it is judicious to fly at the bearded throat of the crippled denizen of the heights.
It all came about through an imperious temper and a long, successful warfare waged against opponents. No sympathy ever treated the old buck's life. From his infancy, when his mother taught him to dash to the rocks and turn his sharp little horns skyward when the shadow of an eagle flitted across the sun-blessed rocks on high he had battled, fearless, and with profit, as testified by his beard and his magnitude. In time he became the biggest and most sought-after mountain goat in the reaches of the watershed peaks above the stretches of beaver-dams that go to assist in starting the Kootenay River. Bears and mountain lions he had escaped in his youth, through his own agility, and the watchfulness of his mother and his relatives. When maturity came he met other dangers, the fighting fury of older bucks who saw in him a coming interloper in the happy home circle. These he fought and won or lost or drew. Then he became lord of a band. Their cares were his cares. Other and more staid interests also called him. More than once he had ripped the life out of ambitious bucks, or he had chased them over sheer precipitous to perch on the jagged rocks hundreds of feet below. At dawn he led his band down to the first grassy fats or the upper meadows, at night he headed them back. Frequently, according to judgment, he took them to the lower plateau at nightfall and fed them during the dark hours, slipping back in the safety of dawn and sleeping in safety on the sun-warmed pinacles. Tourists and hunters sought him eagerly and earnestly, for he was a fine specimen. Sometimes they lost him in the rubble of a great slide, sometimes he went down a precipice like a fly, and sometimes his short tail flicked around an edge of granite as the steel-tipped bullet clipped splinters from the face of the ledge.
But finally he met dogs. First it was the trail-man of a trapper that had gone on a foraging trip of his own. The dog charged boldly. The goat received him on his sharp black spikes and then trampled him to pulp. Again it was a group of distant hunters, led by a pair of Arvedales. These he shook off by slipping up the face of a sheer height, and then down the further slope, leading his band to more inaccessible peaks ten miles further south where the higher peaks gave view as far as the entrance to the Vermilion Pass.
One day a man from New York, skilled in hunting in all big game countries, arrived at Leanehoff station, on the C. P. R., with a pack of six powerful dogs. He was going after bear, and anything else that the Canadian Rockies had to offer. The guide knew the Kootenay country like his finger and thumb, and the prospects were bright for a big hunt. The bears were on the slides, the sheep and goats were working down, and the fish were jumping in the river.
Forty hours later the dogs were baying as they scrambled over the loose rubble on the trail of the big goat. Two miles behind and below toiled the men—the dogs had gone beyond control. The goat had scattered and the men drew nearer. The dog came up, and the goat stood with lowered head, making short angry rushes. But the canine had learned. He ran around the white figure, and did not come to grips. From out of the clear air something struck the goat just in front of the hips with stunning force. He sat down. No sound was heard. A white hunter had fired, and the goat stood a vagrant fortune had suited the bullet. The dog crept nearer, the other dogs were loose, and still the goat sat helplessly, his head armed with its needle-pointed dangers being still an active menace from which all the dogs shied as they circled. Then the man came, and a merciful bullet put an end to the biggest mountain goat in the upper-east Kootenays in the history of the guiding fraternity. Another king now lords it over the band of nannies, and kids, and growing young males.

buying of the loose dog started the goats toward the rocks, all excepting the leader. He loitered again, for he had heard the sound before and knew he could treat it with contempt. The dog came up, and the goat stood with lowered head, making short angry rushes. But the canine had learned. He ran around the white figure, and did not come to grips. From out of the clear air something struck the goat just in front of the hips with stunning force. He sat down. No sound was heard. A PRACTICAL COURSE.
War Needs Will Be Helped by a Farming Short Course.
A. W. Sirett has arranged that the work of the fifth annual short course in farming here at the end of the month would be made as practical as possible to meet the needs of the Frontenac farmers. It will embrace such subjects as judging live stock, including horses, dairy cattle, beef cattle, sheep and swine; composition of feeds, feeding of live stock, soil cultivation, dairying, field crops, seed and grain raising. The interests of greater production will be kept in the front, and the demands on the farmers to help in the war will be the object of the course. Mr. Sirett believes that great good can be obtained by having the young farmers attend this course, and justify the action taken in a great many of their cases to have them exempted from military service.

The Dumping of Snow and Ashes in the Slips.
Complaint has been made about people dumping snow and ashes in the slips, and Harbor Master William McCannion is out after the offenders. He had a summons issued against one on Saturday morning, and the case will come up in the Police Court.
"You can dump snow on the harbor if you take it away out," said Mr. McCannion, "but you must not dump it in the slips. People have been dumping ashes into the slips, and this is strictly against the law."
