The Theatres

"Robinson Crusoe" To-night.
The first scene of "Robinson Crusoe," which will be seen at the Grand to-night and again to-morrow at 2.15 and 8.15, is laid in Davy Jones' Locker, twenty thousand leagues beneath the sea. Here the merry mermaids gather to exchange the latest gossip and all the hidden romance of ocean depths—mountains, valleys and plains, strange fishes never captured by man, fields of priceless coral, ocean meadows where only the cannibal sharks roam around, dangerous reefs with century old wrecks—all these are shown or suggested in this wonderful panorama. Hamilton Earle will appear in this scene as Davy Jones, a role which no other singer, with the exception of Eugene Cowles, could do ample justice to. There are eleven scenes throughout the piece presenting a swiftly moving spectacle of lights and colors.

Miss Zara Clinton, who plays the name part, will sing her latest song hit the Allies' favorite trench song, "Take Me Back to Blighty." Another number which she effectively leads is the great patriotic song, "Made in Our Empire," in which the chorus is dressed to represent various articles which are made in the Empire since the war.

"A Daughter of the Sun."
The Hawaiian Islands are the home of the Kanaka. He is a son of the tropics and has evolved many things typically his own. The most pronounced of these is his music. The sad and plaintive melodies tell of his own isolation in the midst of the Pacific. Hawaiian music has swept our land the past few years as nothing of the kind ever did before. We hear it everywhere and, every one seems to enjoy it. The new play coming to the Grand next Wednesday, January 23rd, matinee and night. The cast is one of unusual size. The scenery is massive and beautiful. The volcanic eruption in the last act is the scene of stage mechanism and realism. The company also carries a troupe of native Hawaiian singers and musicians, and the atmosphere of Hawaii is maintained throughout.

At Griffin's.
Herbert Brenin's most powerful photoplay production, "The Love Wolf," from the book by Louis Joseph Vance, proved in every sense of the words highly delightful and entertaining to the exceptionally large audience which greeted the first presentation of this masterpiece of the cinema art at Griffin's last evening. Besides the remarkable drama offered, this picture contains some of the most sensational foats ever recorded by a motion picture camera. Amongst these is the actual destruction of a magnificent aeroplane at a cost of eight thousand dollars. This occurs during a terrific fight in mid-air, which has never been surpassed for realism and thrill in the annals of the motion picture industry. To see "The Lone Wolf" once is to remember it always. Also for to-day and Saturday is the great serial, "The Fatal Ring."

At the Strand.
Julian Eltinge, the talented female impersonator, actually has a handsomer wardrobe of women's gowns than most stage or screen stars. He shows them off to good advantage in his latest screen success, "The Countess Charming," which delighted a large audience at the Strand last evening. Mr. Eltinge is seen as a bewitching foreign countess, who lures men's watches, scarf pins and wallets into her fair ringed hands for no less a purpose than the Red Cross Fund. It's a brilliant story of fun, thrills and high society. "Fatty" Arbuckle in "The Waiter's Ball," was also shown and well received. The same programme, with topical reels, will be exhibited again to-night and Saturday.

The Voice of the Wire.
Arrived this morning, and will be shown to-night and Saturday. Red Warren, will be seen at his best in this episode at the King Edward. Usual admission.

"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH."
A Very Entertaining Comedy Presented at the Grand.

"Nothing But The Truth" is the title of the rollicking and delightful farce comedy presented at the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening. The house was filled to capacity and the audience kept in continuous laughter at the intensely amusing situations created by the working out of the story. A bet was made between Robert Bennett (played by Louis Haines) and a client, Clarence VanDusen (played by Carl Reid) that the former could not speak the truth for twenty-four hours. The situation was further complicated by the fact that the money ($10,000) advanced by Bennett as his wager did not belong to him, but involved Gwendolyn Ralston (played by Gertrude Fowler) his fiancée. It proved to be three acts of a really good comedy, and one of the best seen here in a long time.

Military News

Propped up with pillows in his hospital cot, many a wounded soldier here, returned from the front as unfit for further military service, is doing his bit for the boys at the front by rolling paper candles which will light the dugouts of the comrades he left behind or brew their tea.

In the convalescent hospitals of the Military Hospitals Commission, candle-making has become a popular occupational work for the men who are too wounded by battle to do anything more strenuous at this time. It cheers the men to think that they can still do a little something to win the war, and hundreds of the new trench candles are being turned out weekly.

They are made of strips of newspaper folded and rolled tightly into different sized candles. They are then dipped into paraffin and allowed to dry. They are very hard to distinguish and so resist draughts well. They also give off more heat than the usual wax candle and burn longer.
