

Current News Portrayed in these Striking Pictures from Many Points.

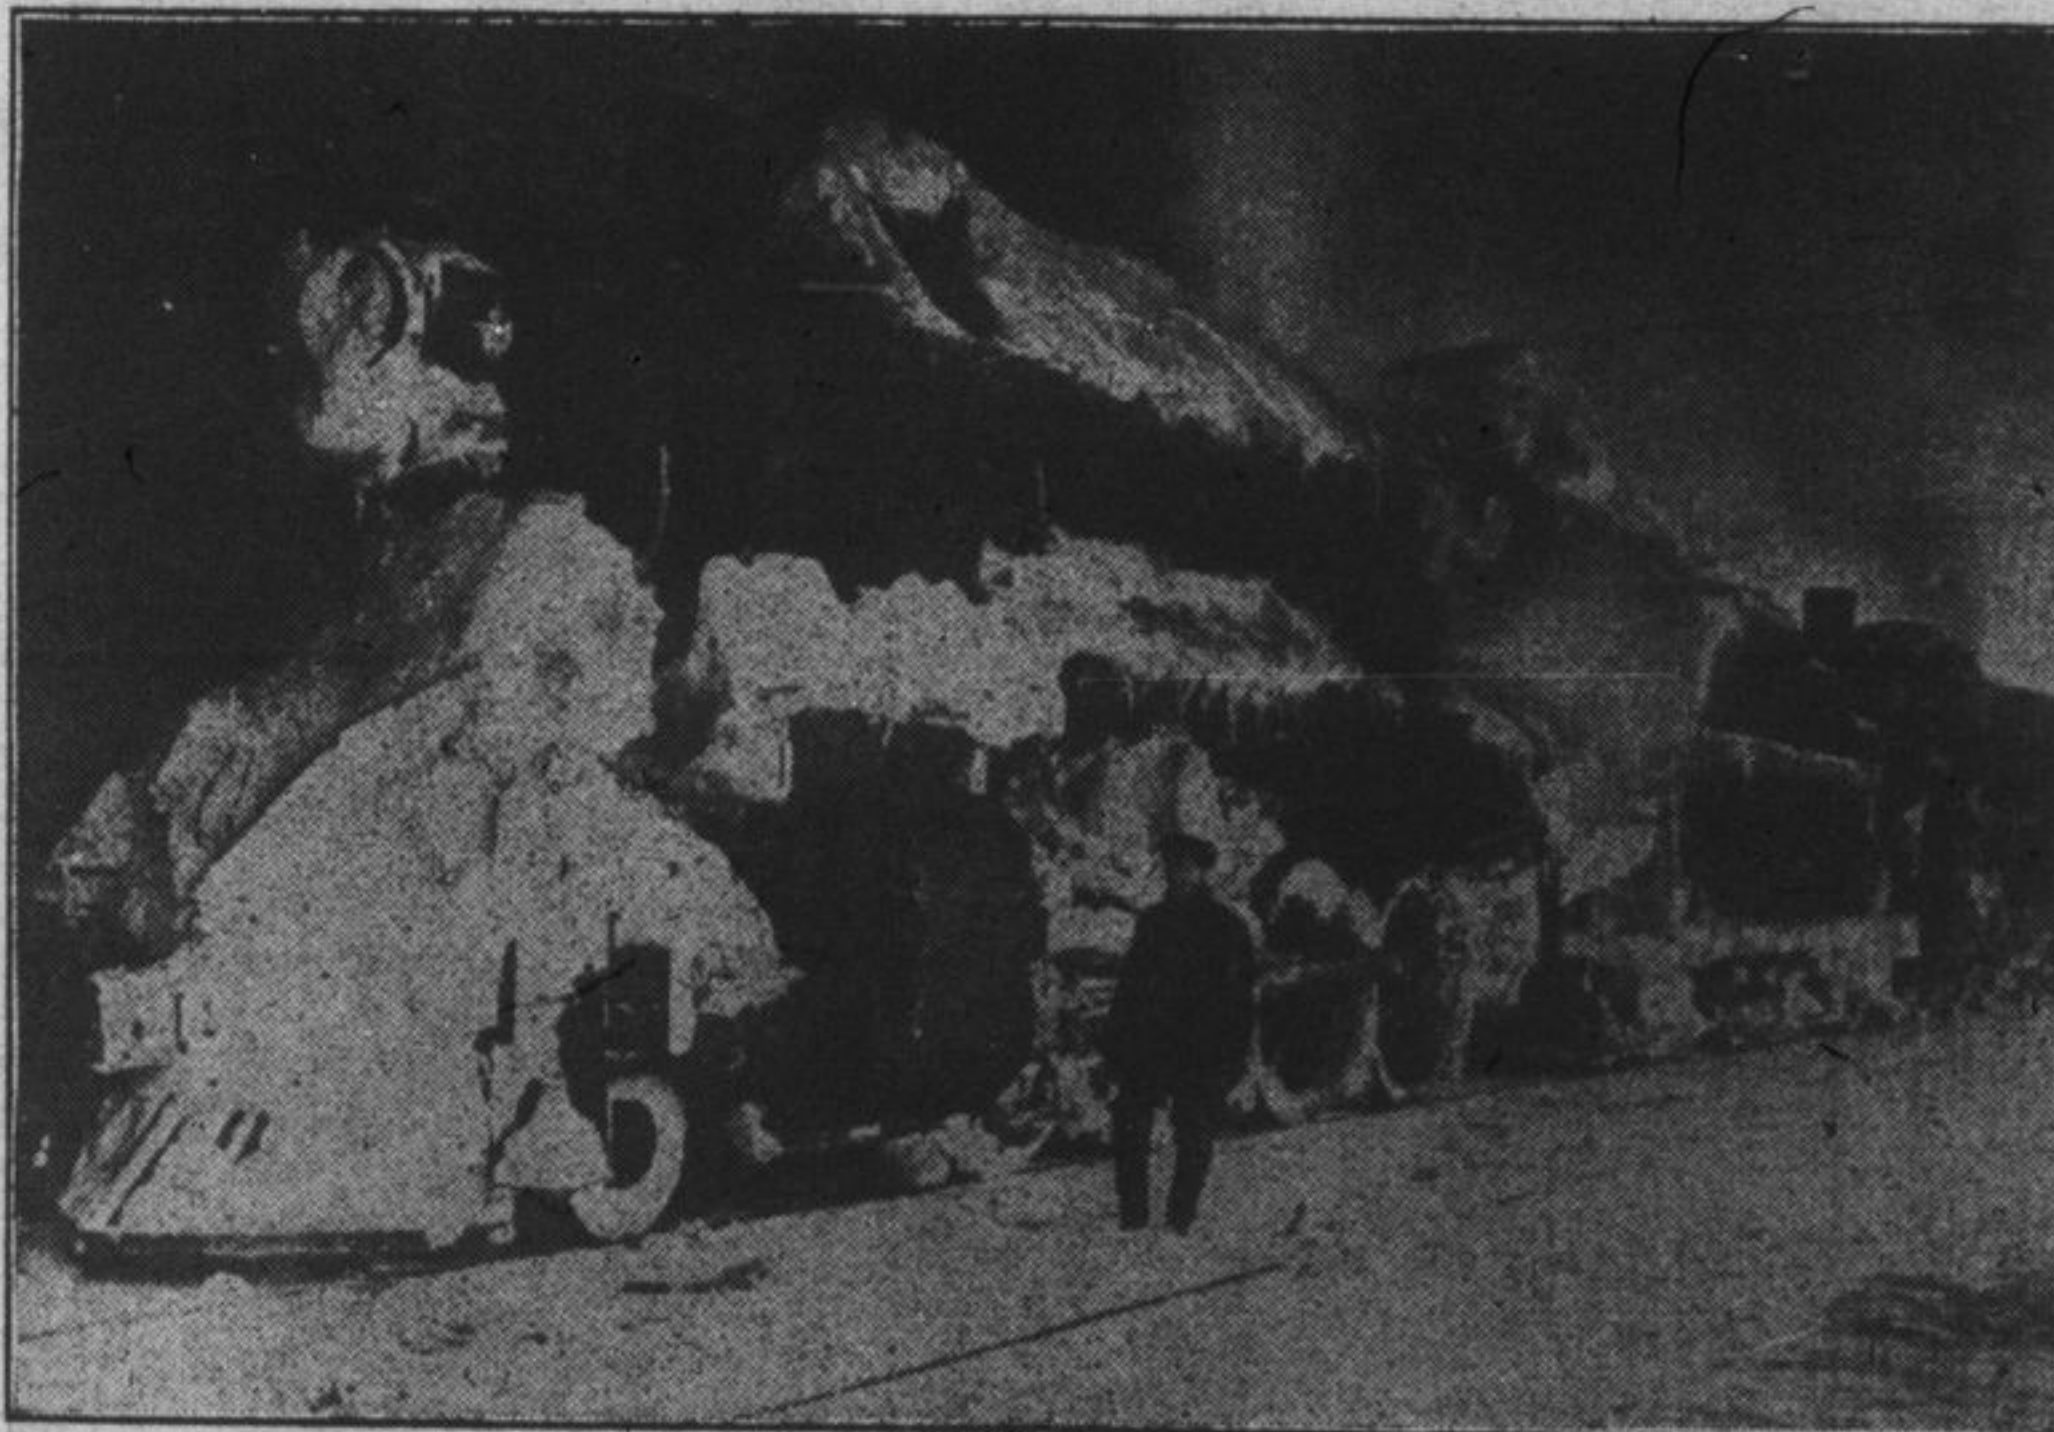

A scientific marvel that is of inestimable value in war operations. This instrument, known as the lightning recorder, gives warning of storms more than 200 miles away.

The men who control affairs in Russia. This is a representative group of Bolsheviks assembled in Petrograd to debate the conduct of the Revolutionary Government. They are delegates from the various industrial centres of the country and include many Americans, so called because they have lived in the United States, although few of them are citizens. There are several women in the assembly.

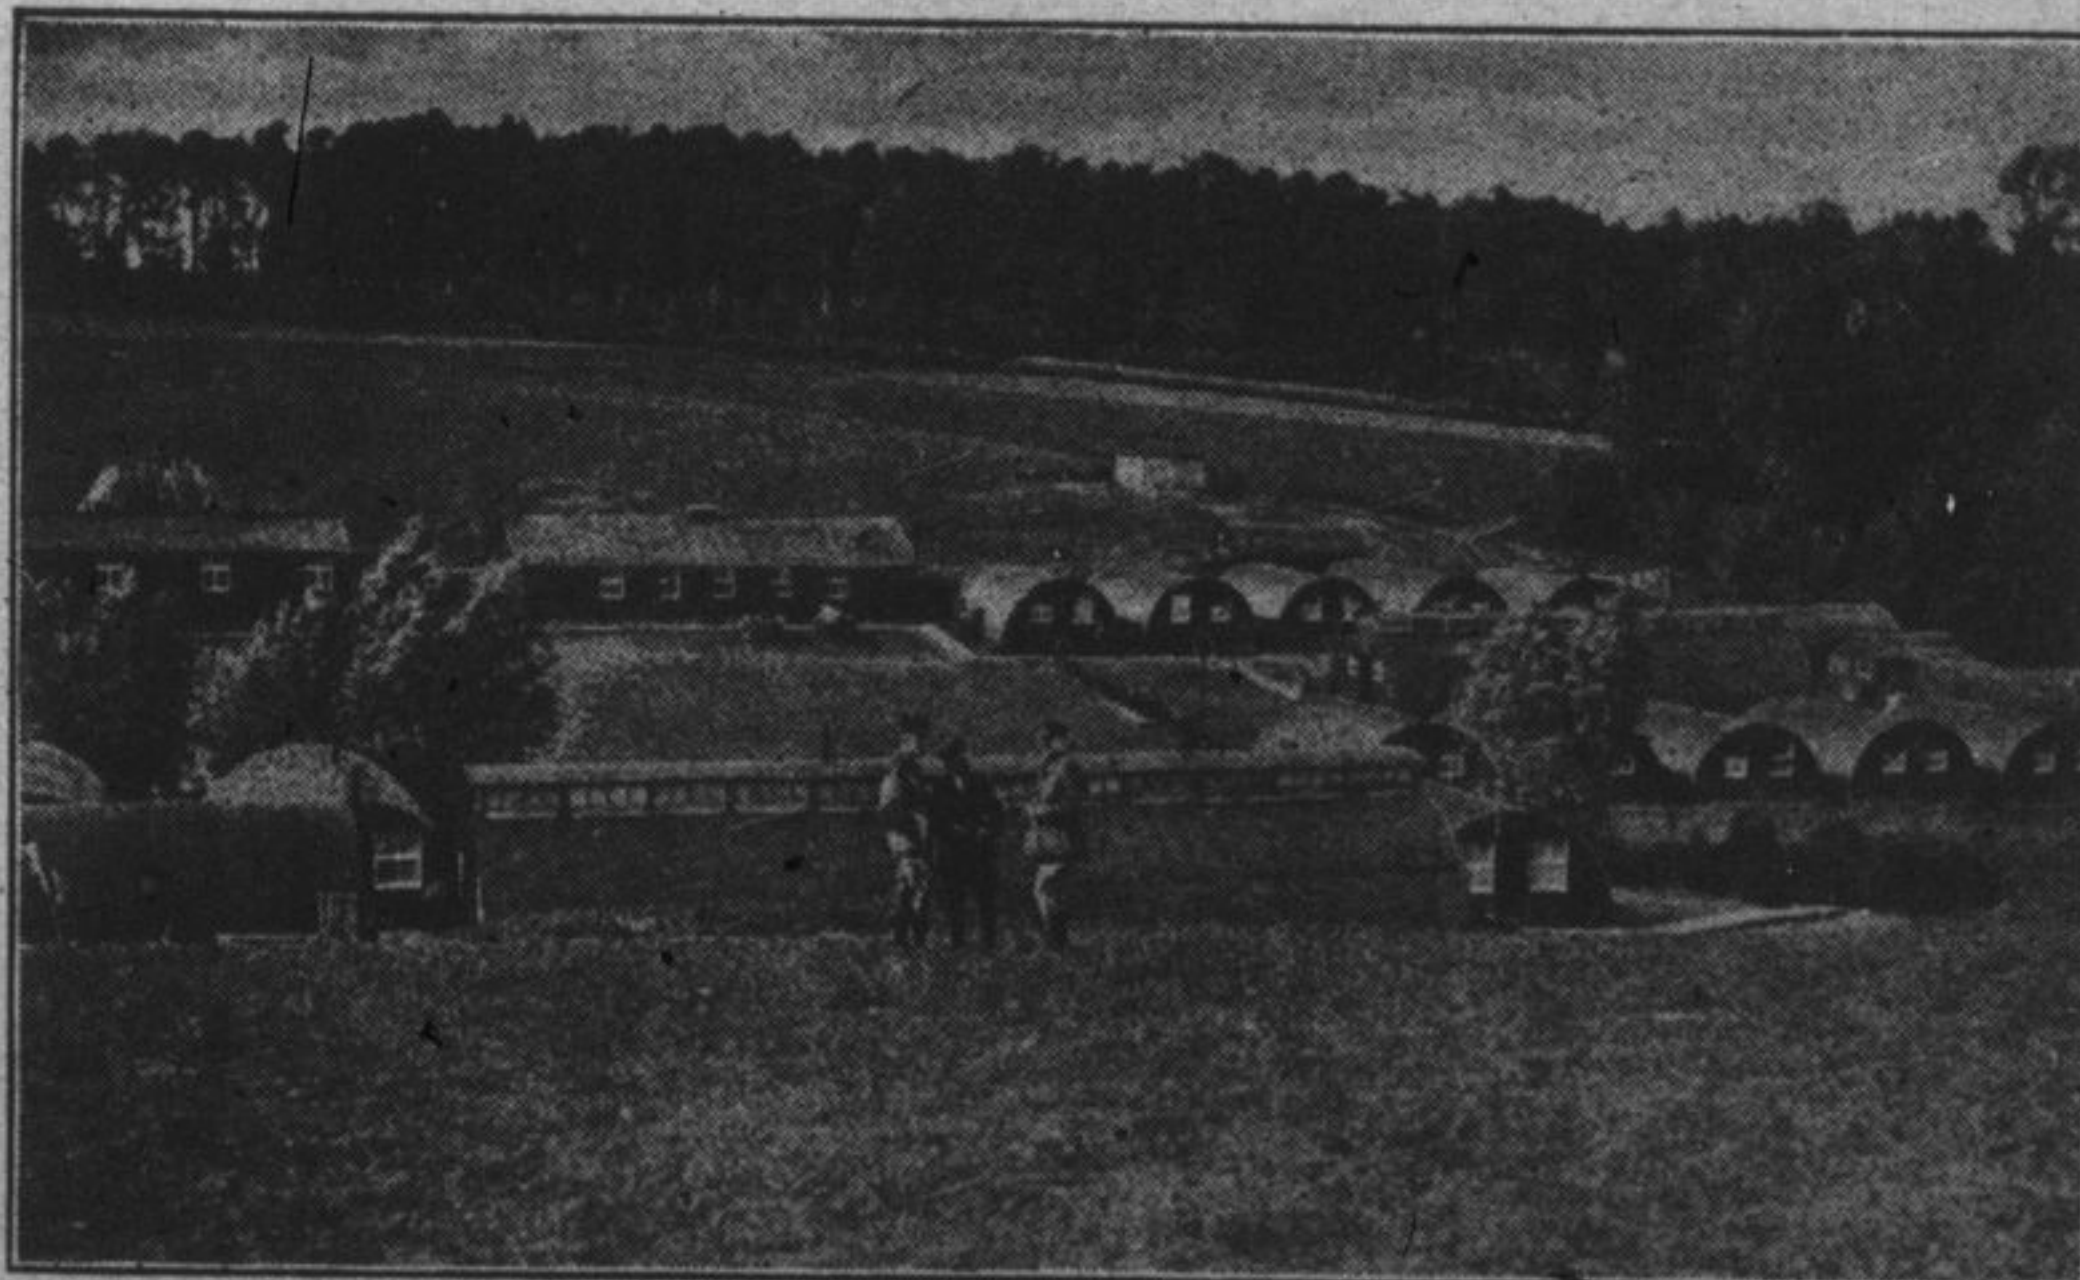

Statue of Joan of Arc in front of the Rheims Cathedral, which, though the cathedral has been practically destroyed and the whole city about it laid in ruins, has so far come out of the fires of war without the slightest damage.

We thought we had a hard time with snow, cold and sleet here, but see what Chicago recently faced. Locomotives that brought a train through the blizzard from Minneapolis, with a delay of only twelve hours.

Solving the transportation problem is no easy task, as this interior view of the Los Angeles locomotive repair shop shows. This plant, the largest in the world, reconstructs dozens of old engines.

General view of the — British Corps School where officers of the American Expeditionary Force in France are learning British methods in modern warfare. The school is behind the lines on the Western front.

German boy prisoners of the class of 1918 questioned by a French officer.

Interior of a Canadian hospital tent "somewhere in France."

Group of German prisoners, in a detention pen near Soissons on the Aisne front, composed largely of boys, who have suffered here and there by veterans of maturer years.