The Theatres

At the Grand.

An extra fine programme will be offered at the Grand to-night and Tuesday, matinee and night. Miss Emily Stevens will be seen at her best in the five-reel Metrol wonder-play, "The Wager," for it is said that it brings her rare talents more actively into play than in any production she has ever appeared in. She is seen as "Diamond Daisy," a woman of the underworld and a high-class crook, who steals nothing but diamonds. How her reform is brought about provides one of the most gripping stories of the season. One of the popular two-reel Lonesome Luke comedies will also be shown, and is a guarantee for a laugh a minute. The Pathe-News and other comedy reels will also be shown, while a very pleasing minstrel act will round out a double feature programme for to-night and Tuesday. Watch for the new Paraha plays.

Return of "Bringing Up Father."

No playgoer in the country will care to miss "Bringing Up Father Abroad," the latest edition of the "Bringing Up Father" series originated by George McManus, the world famous comic cartoonist. "Bringing Up Father" is being hailed everywhere as the biggest laugh production of the new season. The new production will be seen at the Grand next Wednesday, Feb. 6th, matinee and night. For a special return engagement. Everyone who recalls the former presentation of the "Bringing Up Father" series will rejoice to learn that the company presenting the "abroad" version is identical in its main principals, including along others John E. Cain as "Jiggs," Marion "Benson," Blanche Newcomb and Robert Rice, Ben Byron, Eddie Leamon and Madeline Gray.

At The Strand.

"Shirley Kaye" from the play of the same name in which Clara Kimball Young will headline at the Strand Theatre this week, shows the interrelation of social life with the high finance of to-day. The daughter of an old family, whose founder, "Pirate" Kaye, established the great Union Central R.R. line, learns that her father is in immediate danger of being removed from the presidency of the road. He is heartbroken over the impending calamity, which will also include the loss of the family interest in the road. Shirley rises supremely to the emergency—wins the admiring co-operation of T. J. Magen, her father's chief opponent, through her bold fighting for her own, and through his love for his young daughter, Daisy, whom she sponsors in "societies" and also gains the love of "T. J.'s" associate, John Rowson, the woman-hating virile "Lochinvar from out of the West." It is a tale of American life to-day; smart society with its exquisitely-gowned women and high-born noblemen play before your eyes in its beautiful estates.

Comedy and topical reels will also be shown.

At Griffin's.

A whirlwind of action and a riot of fun and typically Fairbanks is the way the new Douglas Fairbanks film, "Reaching for the Moon," is described, which headlines an exceptionally good programme at Griffin's for to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday. With New York and Italy as backgrounds, extraordinary "film punches" are presented, interspersed with flashes of real comedy. The story allowed spectacular treatment, and Arteratt has produced it on a lavish scale, making it a notable offering and one of the most pretensions yet issued from the Arteratt studios. Wallace Reid, the well-known and universally beloved photoplay star, will also be seen in a new Paramount picture entitled, "The Hostage." The story of "The Hostage" is a most unusual one, as it shows the attitude of rival people towards one another. In addition to these two splendid features an unusually interesting chapter of "The Fighting Trail" will complete our programme for the first half of the week.

To-night's the Night.

Marie Walcamp makes her bow in "The Red Ace" and "The Gray Ghost," will make his farewell. Everyone who sees any part of this serial, will be anxious to see who wins Morn Light, and at the same time witness the first episode of "The Red Ace"; plenty of love, suspense, danger, daring, fighting and last minute rescues at the King Edward Theatre to-night and Tuesday.
