CATCHING UP ON ORDERS

THE COAL MERCHANTS HAVE MATTERS WELL IN HAND

Some People Are Drawing Their Own Coal to Their Homes—Further Saving in Fuel is Needed.

The coal merchants are getting caught up with the orders that have come to them this week from Fuel Controller Nickle, and more orders are being issued. The hard coal supply in the dealers' sheds is fast dwindling. There is lots of soft coal on hand, however, and it will have to be used when the harder quality gives out.

On Friday twenty-six people secured small quantities of coal from the Fuel Controller's bins and conveyed it to their homes themselves in order to secure immediately delivery and relief. Others can do the same.

The people are learning that they must conserve coal and use two shovels of it where they have been using three. Many houses are over-heated. There are offices in large buildings where there is also a great waste of coal. Sometimes the janitor makes the fire in the morning and does not come back until night. By additional attention the fuel consumption would be much reduced.

The Theatres

At the Grand.
To-night will positively be the last chance to see that splendid seven-part Paralta Play, "A Man's Man," with J. Warren Kerrigan in the stellar role. Those who have already seen this feature will testify as to its quality, and those who have not should grasp the opportunity to see it to-night. Mr. Kerrigan is seen as John Webster, a young American who goes to Central America on mining interests and finds himself tangled in one of their typical revolutions. The picture was made from Peter B. Kyne's novel, "A Man's Man," and abounds in thrilling scenes and tense situations, and throughout it all there is a delightful comedy vein and a beautiful love story. Lonesome Lake will also be seen for the last time in "Luke's Lively Life," which is said by many to be his greatest laugh producer. A good scenic and the latest Pathé News are very interesting, while Neilson and Neilson offer a spectacular aerial act.

At Griffin's.
Again last evening dainty Marguerite Clark captivated the hearts of the audience at Griffin's by her winsome portrayal of the role of "Bab" in her most charming of photo-plays, "Bab's Matinee Idol." We would like to remind the public that this evening will be the last opportunity given to see this picture, which is the final chapter of the "sub-deb" series. Gladys Brockwell, the brilliant Fox star, was another added attraction last evening in "The Soul of Satan," a compelling drama of deep heart interest. Miss Brockwell has long been known as one of the leading artists in the film world, and her work in this picture is up to the usual high standard set by her former pictures. The tenth episode of "The Fatal Ring" proved unusually exciting, and kept the audience in a constant state of expectancy from beginning to end. To-night will mark the final presentation of this unique programme.

At the Strand.
"The Price of a Good Time," adopted by Lois Weber from "The Whim," by Marion Orth and directed by Miss Weber, comes to the Strand for the first three days of next week with Mildred Harris in the stellar role, supported by Kenneth Harlan and a carefully chosen cast. "Did you ever have a good time?" is the question that Preston Winfield, a young man of wealth and leisure, asks of Lingo Randall, a sad but sweet-faced little beauty who officiates at the father's mammoth department stores. We see them on successive nights dining at a swell hotel, attending a musical comedy, taking in endless amusements at a nearby summer resort and dancing at a cabaret. A policeman, who sees Linnie driven to her humble home night after night, communicates his suspicions to Linnie's pugnacious brother, Dick. It is Linnie's whim to spend the last evening at the Preston mansion, where she is apparently tempted beyond her strength. While Preston is making love to her, Dick bursts through on open window, and a violent encounter leads up to an unusual denouncement. Will Preston be man enough to marry the girl whose life he has broken for a lark? That is the problem which is worked out in the final reel of this most original and intensely dramatic picture. Comedy reels will also be shown. (Continued on Page 9.)

A PEACE AGREEMENT

Signed Between Central Powers and Ukrainian Rada.
(Canadian Press Despatch)
Copenhagen, Feb. 9.—Berlin reports that a peace agreement has been signed between representatives of the Central Powers and the Ukrainian Rada. It is not likely that this will be recognized by the Bolshevik Government.

The Kaiser's Thanks.
(Canadian Press Despatch)
Amsterdam, Feb. 9.—Emperor William's decree, in which he thanks those who addressed congratulatory messages to him on his recent birthday, is published in the Berlin Reichs Anzeiger. In it the Emperor, according to a summary telegraphed from Berlin, dwells upon the relations of confidence between the Crown and the people and his twenty-six years of peace.

Both Rain and Snow.
It rained on Saturday. And then came along some very rough weather, accompanied by a snowstorm. Early in the morning it looked as if we were to have soft weather, but suddenly it got colder and snow commenced to fall.

Ring up $45 for sweet cider.

IN MEMORIAM

In fond and loving memory of Alberta Swere Almark, wife and mother, who departed this life, February 9th, 1917:

Mother, wife, our sad hearts yearn,
We miss you dear at every turn;
You left behind you here to mourn
Husband and your little sons;
A long, long year we've missed your face,
Yet a little while, a little space,
We'll stand united by God's grace,
Wife, husband and sons.

One year has passed, our hearts still sore,
As time goes on we miss her more,
One of the dearest, one of the best,
We miss her most who loved her best.
Often we sit and think of her,
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Some day we hope to meet her,
Some day we know not when,
We shall clasp her hand in a better
hand,
And never part again.

And thus he bore without abuse
The grand old name of gentleman,
Defamed by very charlatan,
And soiled with all ignoble use.
