"MAGGIE" SCORES SUCCESS

MISS PHYLIS NELSON-TERRY IS AN ACCOMPLISHED ARTISTE.

A Splendid Company Gives Support to an Entertaining Production Which Will be Repeated on Tuesday Evening.

"Maggie," the delightful comedy which was produced at the Grand Opera House at two performances on Monday and will be repeated to-night, may be conventional in its story of a young girl taken from a back yard in Harlem to be the mistress of a castle in England, where she finds that true love is lacking and decides to return to the wash tub in America. But the careless abandon of Miss Phyllis Nelson-Terry and the general good humor of the play eliminates any suspicion of time-worn reiteration and provides a charming and vivacious entertainment.

As Maggie Regan, a typical, happy-go-lucky yet intensely sensitive young lady, Miss Nelson-Terry was splendid, and her presence was a radiant light on the stage. She was ably supported in the leading male role by John MacFarlane, who as Dennis Moran gave an ideal interpretation of an unbending and "scrappy" Irish laborer. In the minor roles Leopold Stark as Tom-wiler, a haughty cockney butler, and Arthur Lewis as the Bishop of Baychester, a jolly old ecclesiastic, deserve special commendation for their excellent efforts.

The whole company, which is by no means few in number, gave gratifying support, and their efforts were warmly appreciated by enthusiastic audiences. In spite of its simplicity of plot, the piece is quite original, and the plight of the heroine in high society gives an admirable opportunity for comedy. At this time of special advantage and one of the most enjoyable plays of the season is the result.

The Theatres

"Which One Shall I Marry?" The question "Which One Shall I Marry?" is one which offers itself to every young woman when she stands at the cross-roads of life, where she must make her choice which will affect the future course of her existence. Shall that choice be guided entirely by a desire for wealth, and the luxury it brings, even if love be disregarded? Or shall she choose love and let the rest of the world form the attractive and curiosity provoking title of a brand new play by Ralph T. Kettering, which is to have its production at the Grand for a special return engagement of one night and one matinee, next Wednesday, Feb. 13th. The play is written in the form of an allegory. Such plays have proved very attractive in the cases of "Everywoman" and "Experience," and "Which One Shall I Marry?" is similar in its appeal. The actual period of time covered does not exceed one hour, but it goes through aeons of time in human experience. The idea is entirely novel, both in conception and development.

"There She Goes." Never before in the history of the theatre was it needed as it is now. These are war times; the catastrophe that has shaken Europe for three years has brought the theatre and its vast army of workers more into the limelight than ever before. Never in the world's history was it needed so much to cheer and to bring forgetfulness to the stricken people of the earth. Never before was there such need for the services of those that entertain and make merry, and bring comfort to those in sorrow. The lighter form of clean amusement, especially musical comedy with bright, jingling music, pretty girls and pretty costumes, funny comedians that bring big laughs and make one forget their trouble; bewildering scenic effects, whirling dancers, in fact, an evening of clean entertainment of splendid jollity, refreshing youth and beauty, smart dancing, whistling melodies and the sweetest of girlies. That is just the kind of musical comedy "There She Goes" is, which comes to the Grand one night, Thursday, Feb. 14th. There are forty people with the company.

"Robinson Crusoe" Coming Again. So gratifying was the success of F. Stuart-Whyte's brilliant English pantomime, "Robinson Crusoe," on the occasion of its first presentation here that Manager Small has arranged a return engagement for the Grand on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 15th and 16th. The same clever company, including Miss Zara Clifton, Mr. John V. Barrett-Lennard, Mr. Harry Hoyland, Mr. Victor Dyer, Mr. Hamilton Earle and Miss Madge Locke, will again be seen in the leading roles. Several new songs and novelty features have been added for the return engagement, which should make the performance equally interesting to those who saw it on the last visit as to those who may see it this time for the first time. There will be a special matinee given on Saturday afternoon, which will provide a treat for the kiddies.

At Griffin's. The splendid programme exhibited at Griffin's last evening was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present who expressed their appreciation by numerous bursts of applause. The headliner, "Come Through," featuring Herbert Rawlinson, is one of the most melo-dramatic photoplays ever produced, and kept the audience's rapt attention from beginning to end. Don't miss this greatest of pictures. Another pleasing feature is "The Sweetest Boy and Girl" on the screen, Jack Pickford and Louise Huff, in a charming story of two New York city waifs, "Jack and Jill." This is a story with plenty of punch and thrills, as well as the usual blending of pathos and humor. The eleventh episode of "The Fighting Trail," was also of unusual interest last evening, and proved highly entertaining.

At The Strand. The picturization of "The Price of a Good Time," from "The Whims," with Mildred Harris, is the stellar role, supported by Kenneth Harlan, pleases the large audience which greeted its presentation last night, and bids fair to win the attention of every theatre goer in the city. The trials of a young girl who desires to have a good time and succumb to the allurements of the world and the price which she pays for her pleasure form a stirring plot. It is a most intensely dramatic picture, and holds the interest of all to the last. In addition there is shown the Ford comedy series, "The scene of which shows the launching of the handsome big steamer westmount, owned by the M.T. Co., which launching took place at Collingwood. This picture alone is well worth seeing. The whole series of excellent films will be shown to-night and to-morrow afternoon and night.

C.P.R. WILL HAVE TO PAY

J. MCGREGOR BROUGHT SUIT FOR LOSS OF HORSE.

Was Shipping the Animal From Tichborne to Kingston—Judgment Based on the Contract.

In the December sessions of the county court an action was brought by J. McGregor against the C. P. R. for the loss of a horse shipped by him at Tichborne to Kingston. On Tuesday Judge Lavelle handed down the following judgment:

At the trial the jury found negligence on the part of the railway company in not providing a suitable car with properly protected doors for the shipment of the mare, and assessed the damages at $150. Judgment was reserved, however, on the question as to whether plaintiff did not exempt the company from liability by a special contract signed by Tuesday Judge Lavelle. The form of contract used is one approved by the Railway Commissioners, and is very drastic, greatly reducing the chance of success in any action against the railway for loss or damage of stock carried by it. Judge Lavelle has decided that the company is obliged to furnish proper accommodation for freight, and unless that is done the contract does not apply, there being an implied warranty founded on the Railway Act that the car supplied shall be suitable. Judgment has, therefore, been granted in favor of the plaintiff for $150 and costs.

ENEMY TO RESUME WAR WITH RUSSIA

The Germans Threaten Ultimatum to Trotsky to Accept Their Terms.

Amsterdam, Feb. 12.—Discussing the peace negotiations, the Nord Deutsches Allgemeine Zeitung says that no further concessions to the Russians will be permitted. Should the peace negotiations with Ukraine materialize the development of "peace negotiations with Trotsky may be a matter of indifference to us," the paper adds.

Vorwarts says this means that Trotsky will be confronted with an ultimatum requiring him fully to recognize the German demands of Dec. 27, including the question of self-determination for the Russian border people as the German Government conceives it. Otherwise war against Russia will be resumed. "We do not know what Trotsky will reply," says Vorwarts, "but if the negotiations are wrecked, we know the German people will inquire very thoroughly into the question of who is to blame."

Provincial institutions will be entrusted with the care of the members of the C.E.F. returned to Canada suffering from insanity, but the Dominion Government will pay for their maintenance.

Military News

If you can hop twenty times on each foot without showing signs of undue distress, the British army considers your health good enough for general service, according to a new book of instructions issued to the examining medical boards. The test recommended is as follows: The rate of the pulse is taken, and then the recruit is directed to hop twenty times on each foot, raising the other foot nine inches. At the end of this performance, in health, there should be no noteworthy breathlessness and no pallor or anxiety of expression. Two minutes later the pulse should be not more than five beats more frequent than it was before the exercise.

After the lecture the ladies served refreshments and the representative answered questions. During the evening Mayor Hughes gave an address, remarking that illness prevented W. F. Nickle from being present. Capt. Toone, acting district pension officer, was also present. A short musical programme rounded out the evening.

THE ROOF COLLAPSED.

But Luckily No Person Was Injured in the Smash.

As a result of the thaw and the heavy snow of the blacksmith shop of Cochrane Bros. on Princess street, between King and Ontario street, collapsed on Tuesday morning, but luckily no person was injured. One man who happened to be in the shop at the time, managed to make his escape.

Several small sheds around the city suffered, as the snow was too much of a load for the roof to carry.

Returns of the overseas military and naval vote are expected to reach Ottawa on or about Feb. 23th.

The Government has abolished all patronage appointments to the civil service.
