URGES FOOD RESTRICTIONS

THE BOARD OF TRADE PASSES TWO RESOLUTIONS.

Asks the Ontario Government to Explore and Develop the Peat Resources of the Province.

The food and fuel questions were under discussion at a meeting of the Board of Trade held on Tuesday night and the board passed two resolutions.

One resolution urged the Food Control Board to prohibit entirely the consumption of bacon or hams, green, cured or smoked, in Canada during the period of the war, or until such time as the food problem has been solved; that a definite limit be placed on the amount of beef consumed by an individual within a given time; that such other compulsory measures that might be regarded as necessary to conserve other essential foodstuffs be also taken.

The other resolution urged the Ontario Government to take immediate steps to explore and develop the peat resources of eastern and western Ontario.

In addition to these two important matters, a gist of routine business was also transacted. Francis King, president, presided, and there was rather a slim attendance owing to the inclement weather.

The treat of the evening was to have been given by R. Easson Burns, who had prepared an address on the question of income tax, but as there was such a small attendance, and because of the fact that the question is one of vital importance to all the members, it was decided to have Mr. Burns deliver his address at the next meeting on March 5th, which marks the annual meeting of the board.

The Resolutions Passed.
Elmer Davis brought up the resolutions and they were passed by a unanimous vote. Following are the resolutions:

"That, whereas Ontario has been and still is, entirely dependent upon the United States coal areas, for her supplies of both anthracite and bituminous coal, and whereas much suffering, inconvenience and financial loss has been occasioned by the coal shortage, which has existed during the present winter, and whereas an even more serious shortage may exist during the coming winter, without there being any source of supply within the province on which we can draw, and whereas this condition may be repeated at any time that the United States may find it necessary to embargo our coal supply, therefore, be it resolved, that we do urge the Ontario Government to take immediate steps to explore and develop the peat resources of this province, both those in the east and those in the west, so that some native fuel supply may be available at the earliest possible date."

"Whereas an adequate supply of food, both for our soldiers and for our Allies is an absolute necessity, if we are to win the war, in which we are now engaged, and whereas Canada must supply a large part of the food required, making the conservation of all possible food imperative, and whereas the food controller's report for voluntary saving on the part of our citizens, and at large, has failed to produce saving of the es- degree, there be it resolved that we do urge the Food Control Board to first prohibit entirely the consumption of bacon or hams, green, cured, or smoked, in Canada during the period of the war, or until such time as the food problem has been solved.

"Second, to place a definite limit on the amount of beef consumed by an individual within a given time."
"Third, to take such other compulsory measures as may in their judgment be necessary to conserve other essential foodstuffs, and that copies of this resolution be forwarded forthwith to the Food Control Board and Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, also to other Boards of Trade, with the request that prompt action be taken to support the resolution."

Introduced Resolutions.

Elmer Davis introduced both the food and fuel resolutions. In speaking regarding the food resolution he stated that there was no need of him to refer to the need for conservation. He felt that to accomplish what had been aimed at there would have to be more conservation among the civilian population. He had been travelling extensively during the past two months and he did not think that the voluntary system of conservation in the homes was bringing the results that should be produced. He believed, however, that the regulations of the recent Food Controller were being adhered to in hotels, restaurants and all public eating houses. On one occasion he took occasion to ask a conductor on a C. P. R. dining car as to conditions so far as he had been able to observe. The conductor stated that it was his opinion that the people were eating more. Some ate far more bacon one day because they had been deprived of it the day before. He had run across some people who did not know anything about food regulations. He felt that the only way to conserve food was to have regulations enforced saying "thou shalt not." He recognized the fact that there would be difficulties met with in the enforcement, but he believed that measures could be introduced which would bring the desired results. "Our fathers lived without bacon as it is now termed, and we can do the same," added the speaker.

R. Easson Burns said he would be prepared to go further than Mr. Davis, and would ask that pork in any form be prohibited.

Robert Meek stated that the attention of Dr. Creelman, Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, should be drawn to the matter. He pointed out that it was all right to pass laws, but the real importance was in having them enforced. The present fuel shortage had shown what the people could do when they were appealed to. Under a fuel controller the people had learned to conserve.

The Fuel Question.
In moving his resolution regarding the fuel question, Mr. Davis stated that in the olden days almost everything depended on a wood supply, but to-day coal was needed. Was depended almost entirely on coal. Owing to the great difficulty in securing coal, he suggested that the Government be urged to explore and develop the peat areas in eastern and western Ontario.

J. McE. Stephen recalled that when he was a boy in Scotland his parents used peat for fuel. Of course Scotland did not experience such a cold winter as Canada, but he regarded it as excellent fuel, and was greatly interested in all the experiments and discussions over peat that was taking place at the present time. Mr. Davis declared that there should be some source of supply for fuel, and that people should not be made to suffer.

Other Business.
The board was asked to endorse a resolution from the Board of Trade at Nanaimo, British Columbia, calling for the formation of a commission to investigate and control insurance. Action on the matter was deferred.

A letter was received from R. J. Bushell, asking the warm support and co-operation of every member for the formation of a commission to investigate and control insurance. Action on the matter was deferred.

On motion of Robert Meek, the Greater Production Committee of the board will endeavor to arrange for a conference with Dr. Creelman on the occasion of his visit here on Feb. 15th in order to secure tips and plan a campaign of work for the summer. The president was asked to appoint a committee to act as a nominating committee and present a list of officers for the annual meeting.
