Fiske O'Hara To-night.

In Fiske O'Hara's new play, "The Man From Wicklow," in which he will appear at the Grand to-night, there are two love stories—the principal one, in which O'Hara, as the manly hero, Theobald Emmet, O'Donovan, captivates the heart of the winsome heroine, Eileen Norwood, and a second romance, in which Honora, a self-reliant domestic, who has been twice widowed, sets out to capture her third mate in the person of Mickey Doolin, Robert's bodyguard. Mickey's dominant characteristics are his love for his master, and his habit of hitching up his trousers before he speaks; he has been an old sailor and, and this latter trait is one of the things he has retained from the old life. He vainly attempts to escape from Honora, but finally capitulates, and makes Honora's third captive in the matrimonial market.

Richard Carle in "Furs and Frills."

Richard Carle, surrounded by a company of fifty entertainers and a large chorus of noted stage beauties, will appear at the Grand next Wednesday, March 6th, for an engagement of one night and one matinee. The musical comedy in which Mr. Carle is everywhere meeting with the greatest success, is called "Furs and Frills," and was written by Edward Clark especially for him, with music by Silvio Hein. At its initial performance at the Casino Theatre, New York, the piece at once proved itself worthy of the talents of Mr. Carle and audiences tested the capacity of the Casino for months. The large chorus, composed of comely and agile girls who aspire for greater things in the future, and attired in gorgeous costumes, will be a prominent feature in the proper preparation of the many catchy musical numbers, some of which are "Furs and Frills," "You Can't Take It With You When You Die," "Does Polly Want Wally?" "It's Easy to Lie to Your Husband," "A Short Farewell is Best," "Heart of a Hero," "Make Yourselves at Home," and others.

"Ramona's" Unrivalled Love Story.

All the world loves a love story, and by proving this fact, W. H. Clune's cinema operatic spectacle "Ramona" has dispelled the long existing mystery of the enormous appeal of Helen Hunt Jackson's famous romance of the same title. "Ramona," visualized for the motion picture screen and accompanied by a marvelous score of interpretive music, is one of the theatrical season's most important attractions, booked for local showing at the Grand for three days commencing next Thursday, March 7th. The picture production is a living monument to the memory of the noble woman who devoted her life to the end that the Indians of the United States might receive the support and care of the National Government.

"Peter Ibbetson" Coming.

The Messrs. Shubert will present John N. Raphael's dramatization of George Du Maurier's famous novel, "Peter Ibbetson," with John Barrymore and Constance Collier, at the Grand Opera House on March 11th and 12th. It has been generally conceded that "Peter Ibbetson" is not only one of the greatest plays of the year, but the one most brilliantly acted. It was thought well nigh inconceivable that any dramatist would have been able to transfer to the stage a story so surprising, so novel and imaginative and yet retain in dramatic form all the amazing occurrences of Du Maurier's romance. Messrs. Shubert were most fortunate in securing for this play, players who were able, in so striking a manner, to impersonate the leading roles of this drama. Other than John Barrymore and Constance Collier, the more important members of the cast are Edmund Elton, Wallis Clark, Alice John, Mercedes Desmore, Alice Angrave Butler, Alexander Loftus, Jules Epally, Ruano Bogislav, Emily McLean, Catherine Charlton and Nina Veresa.

At The Strand.

From a would-be modern Cleopatra trifling with fate and forever in pursuit of pleasure, to an unselfish and devoted woman wrapped up in her two small children—that is the character transition portrayed by the versatile Norma Talmadge in her screen impersonation of the heroine of "The Moth," her newest Selymck picture which will be seen Tuesday and Wednesday this week at the Strand. Abounding in emotional possibilities and dramatic incidents, the plot is calculated to give the charming star an opportunity to add one more artistic interpretation to her already amazing list of successes. Comedy and topical reels will also be shown.

Familiar Quotations

Now it is the law that the finer the sensibilities the greater the capacity for enjoyment. A man with a highly developed artistic sense can take more enjoyment out of just looking at a picture than the average successful business man can get out of a box at the theatre and a mid-night supper. A man with a highly developed poetic sense gets more enjoyment out of four lines of poetry that mean nothing to you than the average successful business man gets out of a trip to the coast.

INTRODUCING TO YOU THE MODE IN OUR NEW SPRING SUITS
NOW ON DISPLAY IN OUR MANTLE DEPT.

The very mirror of the new modes in spring suits which are awaiting your inspection in our mantle department, include some of the most successful achievements of the centres of smart and fashionable tailoring.

Suits that breathe chic and distinction in every line, from the tips of their small collars to the hems of their narrow skirts.

Very noteworthy is the prevalence of plain tailored effects—belted coats—often with many flat pleats—with narrow roll collars, close fitting sleeves, and the narrow skirt, frequently exploiting a tunic, and the smartness of such suits is the very thing to marvel at.

The materials are most charming in all wool serges, poplins, tricotines and gabardines of superlative qualities. Colors most favored are navy blue, sand, Russian green, black, taupe, tans, cin-drillon.

The linings range from silks that are startling, vivid to plain, quiet, Quakerish hues, adding greatly to the effect of a studied simplicity.

The trimmings are simple, often just a silk collar, a few well placed buttons, or a little braid being the sole adornment.

Think of the joy of being able to obtain an all wool navy blue serge suit for $18. Yet another suit which is so charming and exceedingly smart; navy blue, Russian green, may be had in an all wool serge suit for $20.00.
The excellent cut and finish of this all wool serge suit entitles it to more than a passing glance. This offer is most unusual today. Comes in navy, sand and black. This serge suit sells for $22.00.
So many new things to note about this assemblage of new spring models, rivaling in values, scope and variety, the similar events of past seasons. Prices $24.50, $26.50, $28.00, $32.00 and on up.
