Military News

Brig.-Gen. Biggar, director-general of supplies and transports, was in the city on Friday and made an inspection of the Queen's Military Hospital, Ongwanada Hospital and Elmhurst Convalescent homes. These institutions are shortly to be taken over by the Army Medical Corps, and the general came here to determine their condition and also to attend to various details in connection with the transfer. He left in the evening for Cobourg to inspect the Ontario Military Hospital of that place, which is also being taken over by the A.M.C. from the Military Hospitals Commission.

Lieut. A. H. Ketcheson, formerly of the 39th Battalion, of Belleville, but later with the 1st Canadian Machine Gun Company in France, was a visitor at headquarters on Friday.

The R.C.H.A. band is to parade with the church party to St. George's Cathedral on Sunday.

When certain of the work of the Military Hospitals Commission becomes part of the Army Medical Corps, the Mowat Hospital will become a strictly civil institution.

Capt. R. S. Steven, A.M.C., is on sick leave.

On Thursday Inspector James Graham, who is in charge of the Ottawa squad, himself rounded up four suspects, all of whom proved to be deserters from the C.E.F. Altogether, five prisoners were brought in Friday from Ottawa to Kingston, to be taken on the strength of the Depot Battalion and put into khaki immediately.

TEA FOR THE CHILDREN.
Enjoyable Event at Bethel Church on Friday Night.

The annual tea for the children of Bethel Sunday school was held on Friday night, and it was a most enjoyable event. The ladies of the church had charge of the tea, which was served at 6.30 o'clock. An excellent spread was provided, and the children did ample justice to all the good things. Following the tea was a programme of music and recitations contributed by the children.

Installing a Plant.
Charles Bayle, electrician at the Portsmouth Penitentiary, will go to Dorchester, N.B., at which place he has been employed during the past four months installing an electric plant in the Maritime Penitentiary. The institution had been supplied with current by the village plant, but as a steam plant was already in use for heating the Government engineer conceived the idea of adding a dynamo for lighting and utilizing exhaust steam for heat. The idea is commendable, particularly at the present time, when measures of economy are being given attention in every direction. The cost of the plant is not stated, but a Westinghouse dynamo was chosen as the most suitable.

Great War Veterans' Dance.
A very successful dance was held in the club rooms of the Great War Veterans on Friday evening, and quite a large crowd was present. The arrangements were admirably carried out by the newly-formed entertainment committee. It is the intention of the committee to hold these dances every other Friday night. The music played by Crosby's popular orchestra was excellent.

The Theatres

"Ramona" at the Grand.
To-night will be the last opportunity of seeing that wonderful photodrama "Ramona," which tells a beautiful love story of California's early days. A good-sized audience witnessed the production at the Grand last evening. The production is perhaps better called a spectacle, for it is of large proportions and requires over two hours to be run off on the canvas. It is a beautiful picture and those who have seen it during the past two days enjoyed it very much indeed. The music played by the orchestra was specially written for the production. Add OBIT.

At Griffin's.
The stupendous historical spectacle, "Joan the Woman," was witnessed last evening by a large audience, who were carried away with the magnificence of the production and the superb acting of Geraldine Farrar. Her every emotion is displayed with startling vividness, and her self-sacrificing spirit is shown through it all. In costume as well as manner she lives up to all our ideals built around the historical character, and when she dies in the fire one can almost hear the crackling of the fagots as the flames leap up about her. One of the many wonderful things of this production is the coloring, which is nothing short of marvellous. The effects used in the fire the costumes Joan wears make the flames so realistic that it is hard to believe that they are only photographs.

At the Strand.
For the first three days of next week a double feature bill of high-class photoplays will be exhibited at this popular theatre. Julian Eltinge, the famous woman impersonator, will be seen in his latest Paramount screen success, "The Widow's Might." In this production Mr. Eltinge appears as Dick Tavish, an enterprising young New Yorker, who decides that there is money in cows and establishes himself on a western ranch. How he is obliged to disguise himself as a woman in order to entrap the cook, who is trying to steal his farm, and how he finally wins out against all sorts of odds, makes a thrilling and entirely humorous picture. Charley Chaplin in "The Immigrant" and topical reels will also be shown. Dr. Zell Hunt, hypnotist and mind reader, will also hold the boards at the Strand each evening, with a special matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

Fighting Blood.
Hanging to the guide rope of the bridge, Virginia holds on by one hand and reaches for her gun with the other. As one of her pursuers is about to cut the rope with a hatchet, she fires at him and he falls over into the canyon. See the rest of this exciting episode in "The Red Ace," at the King Edward Theatre Monday. To-night the further adventures of "Stingeree."

The Late A. J. Murray.
The funeral of the late A. J. Murray was held on Friday from his late residence, 234 Alfred street, to Cataract. Rev. J. de P. Wright, assisted by Canon Forneri, conducted the service. The funeral was very largely attended. The pall-bearers were: William Carroll, James McCammon, William Hornbeck, Robert Hornbeck, John Baker and John Poitte. The funeral was conducted by the Masons and the Oddfellows.

Familiar Quotations

Did you not hear them on this Christmas morn,
Our happy children, laughing on the street,
To see their toys: the soldiers and the horn,
The doll with moving eyes and curly hair?
Since you have heard their voices ringing clear—
Our happy children who now only seem—
Could you turn from me in a future year
To one who might embody what you dream?
