The "combing over" of all men in Class 1 under the Military Service Act who received exemption has been started by W. R. Smyth, chief public representative. The work is being divided into three divisions, that of a careful perusal of all documents concerning each man, by questioning every exempted man and his acquaintances and by information supplied by the general public. The registrar and the public representative are asking the general public to send information as to any individual who has received exemption and whose case ought to be reviewed.

The Theatres

Emily Stevens at Grand.

An unusually good programme of pictures and vaudeville has been arranged at the Grand for St. Patrick's Day and Tuesday. The underscored feature is the five-act Metro picture drama, "Daybreak" featuring versatile Emily Stevens. It is a picture of Jane Cow's wonderful New York success which had a remarkable run in the Metropolitan last season. The story is said to be used to even better advantage on the screen than it was on the speaking stage and no one could give a more amazing impersonation of Edith from than Emily Stevens. "Daybreak" is a picture of powerful human appeal, a drama of home life which carries its message straight to the hearts of the man and woman of to-day. Miss Stevens will be remembered for her remarkable characterizations in "Alias Mrs. Jessop," "The Wager" and many other Metro successes. The Pathe News and side-splitting comedy reels, together with an act of feature vaudeville completes this sterling programme.

At The Strand.

For the first three days of this week an exceptionally high class bill will hold the boards at the Strand. Alice Brady will be seen in "Her Silent Sacrifice," adapted from the successful play, "The Red Mouse." The story of "Her Silent Sacrifice" is of a young, unsophisticated country girl, who enters into a bargain with an old roue of a prince by which she secures his influential support to further the career of her starving artist lover, an American artist. True love, however, gradually conquers the empty lures of Parisian smart society life and the pair are united. Anita Stewart will also be seen in "Clover's Rebellion," a charming love story. Comedy and topical reels will also be shown.

As a special added attraction for Monday evening, Master Emerson O'Connor, boy soprano, will be heard in Irish selections. Hear him sing "When I Dream of Old Erin" and "Molly Mine."

At Griffin's.

Mary Miles Minter, the charming little golden-haired beauty of photodrama and said to be the loveliest girl in motion pictures, headlines a bright bill at Griffin's for to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday in "The Mate of the Sally Ann." A lovely little girl her only companion, a favorite old sea captain, and her home the wrecked hulk of a ship, her secret friendship for a little dog that led her into the arms of her own father, for the theme of the story. Another enticing feature is Wallace Reid, the idol of the screen, in his latest and greatest achievement, "Nan of Music Mountain," a typical "Wally" Reed picture, says the press, and what more could anyone wish. Don't miss this great favorite in this superb photoplay. The second episode of "Vengeance and the Woman," with William Duncan and Carrol Holloway, completes an exceptionally fine programme.
