Easy and Practical Home Dressmaking Lessons

Prepared Specially for this Newspaper by Pictorial Review. Semi-Formal Costume of Distinctive Design.

So smart that it is appropriate for almost any occasion is this costume with semi-fitted waist and skirt draped at the back.

There is a quaint daintiness about this costume. It is a gathered, full, in medium size the dress requires 6 1/2 yards 36-inch material, with 1/4 yard contrasting material 27 inches wide for the collar.

The material that remains is now folded in half, the front, side front and upper sleeve section being laid near the fold, but with large "O" perforations along a lengthwise thread.

Next comes the underbody, for which 3/4 yard 36-inch material will be needed. This is simply folded in half, the back being laid with triple "TTT" perforations along the lengthwise fold and the front opposite, with large "O" perforations along a lengthwise thread of material.

The model lends itself to development in voiles and is particularly smart in beige made over a foundation of Burgundy or blue.
