Military News

Capt. M. J. Kennedy, Spadina Hospital, Toronto, has been transferred to New York City to continue medical duties.

Capt. W. H. V. Hooper, Carleton Place, a prisoner of war in Germany since April, 1915, has been repatriated and is in London. He will come home at an early date. He was of the first contingent.

Lance Corp. R. R. Paul, Lavant Station, has been given a round of public receptions in Lanark county on his return from Kingston, to which city he came recently. He escaped from Germany after being a prisoner for a year and a half. Lavant has been given a purse of money, a gold watch and a gold ring. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paul, Lavant.

In the near future there will be a final cleaning out of all men in local units. The artillery units have been asked to supply 100 and the Depot Battalion 200. The former will be practically depleted and the battalion will have only a few left after such a big call. It has been the intention of the headquarters to send overseas for training every available man, and as changes are liable to occur which would make transportation more difficult, this draft will be completed as rapidly as possible.

"Soldiers are not to be included in any draft proceeding overseas later than the fourth day previous to the draft leaving its depot," is the text of a recent order which will insure all documents being fully prepared before the drafts leave. One conducting officer in discussing a trip to England recently said to the Whig, "We have to feed the authorities on nominal rolls after we leave Kingston," so this order is quite necessary.

The formation of the new District Depot, the taking over of the M.H.C. work by the Army Medical Corps and the general reorganization of the returned soldier problem is now taking place. The division of men ready for discharge, for casualties of various kinds, and those who are capable of permanent base duty, is taking up the time of the officers now. It is expected that the new system which will come out of this shake-up will make for better efficiency on all sides.

The new tank battalion has aroused the greatest interest among all classes and the decision of the military authorities to call it the "Canadian Universities Tank Battalion" is generally well received. Men whose exemption does not expire for some time yet will probably waive their advantage and enlist in this unit and in a short time the authorities hope to complete the establishment of 700 men and eighty officers.

Brig-Gen. D. R. Hemming, G.O.C., received a letter on Monday which stated that his son-in-law, Major G. S. Bowerbank, M.C., was returning to France as temporary second in command of the 21st Battalion. Major Bowerbank left as a lieutenant in the battalion and has everywhere been commended for his splendid work on the firing line.

Major W. J. McManus, garrison adjutant, who has been confined to the General Hospital for several weeks for eye treatment, was able to walk to his home on Sunday and may be discharged from treatment in the near future.

There are about eighty farmers who are applying for leave of absence, still to appear before the leave of absence board.

No request for troops to go to Quebec was received here, probably because most of them are under orders to go overseas in a draft in the near future. There are certainly a number of returned soldiers who would like to go to the eastern province to administer military law.

Applications to join the new tank battalion are pouring into headquarters here. The battalion is certainly proving a popular one and a great many see in it a fascination as great as the flying corps.

Col. T. E. Powers, who is now on the headquarters staff at Ottawa, in charge of the engineering department, was in the city last week.

Retreat for the ensuing week is being sounded at 6.35 p.m.

Lieut.-Col. G. H. Gillespie will preside at a garrison board at Ottawa on April 10th.

Nursing Sisters Eleanor Graham, Myrtle McCabe, Laura MacDermid and A. M. Johnson have been taken on the Army Medical Corps of the C.E.F.

The following officers have been struck off the strength of the C.E.F.: Capt. R. E. Layfield, late 80th; Capt. J. D. Hogan, C.A.V.C.; Lieut. A. C. Lord, late 16th; Capt. C. W. Sanders, C.A.M.C., and Capt. H. F. McAdam, C.A.F.C.

Kingston Lost on Round. City playgrounds team in the juvenile section of the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association won the return game in the semi-finals with Kingston, Y.M.C.A. in Toronto Saturday night by 32 to 21. The Toronto team was beaten in Kingston by 23-16, but won the round by 48-44, thus qualifying to meet Hamilton in the western section.

OBITUARY

Late Mrs. Alexander Orr.

The death occurred at her late residence, 225 Princess street on Thursday afternoon of Mrs. Alexander Orr, widow of the late James Orr of Sunbury. The deceased leaves a number of nieces and nephews. She lived a consistent life and is mourned by many. The burial took place on Monday morning, Rev. J. W. Stephen of St. Andrew's church, of which deceased was a member, officiating.

The Late Mrs. T. Gillespie.

On March 29th Mrs. Thomas Gillespie, Pittsburg Township, passed away. She had been ailing since last October, but not till a few days before her death did she seem seriously ill, and her passing came as a great shock to her many friends. Mrs. Gillespie was the fifth daughter of the late William Scott, of Woodburn West. Besides her husband she leaves three children, Edna, Muriel and Willie, and her aged mother, Mrs. William Scott, of Woodburn West, and five sisters and three brothers, Mrs. W. Sutherland, Fulton, N.Y.; Mrs. B. Trotter, Brandon, Man.; Mrs. H. Johnston, Atkinson; Mrs. J. Palmer, Maberly; Miss Olive Scott, Woodburn West; John Scott, Kingston; Fred Scott, Woodburn and Harvey Scott, Pittsburg.

A. B. Morrison conducted the funeral service and the remains were followed by a large cortege to Gananoque vault.

Death Of A Little Girl.

On March 29th there occurred at Wilton, at the home of B. B. Mills, the death of Dorot Rossina, daughter of Rev. W. J. Parsons, aged six years. The little girl had been a sufferer for several months with an infected eye and the best medical skill on this continent failed to restore to the child her health, and on Friday morning death claimed her. Parsons has suffered exceptional bereavement during recent years and the sympathy of the entire community goes out to him.

The Late Mrs. A. Clarke.

Mrs. Anna Clarke, who was removed to the General Hospital last Thursday, died on Sunday of pneumonia. Her husband's remains were buried on Thursday. Deceased was seventy-four years of age and resided at Kilburnie, being one of the best known residents of the district.

The Late Pte. F. Conroy.

A military funeral was accorded the late Pte. Frank Conroy, whose remains were buried on Monday morning. Deceased was born thirty-six years ago and died on Saturday after a long illness. The funeral was from R. J. Reids undertaking parlour to St. Mary's cathedral and cemetery. Father Hanley officiated at a solemn requiem mass in the cathedral.

The Late Mrs. W. Creighton.

Mrs. William Creighton died in the city on Friday after a short illness of pneumonia. The remains were transferred to Sydenham, where the funeral will be held on Tuesday. Deceased was a Methodist.

Familiar Quotations

The more things a man is ashamed of, the more respectable he is. —GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

The Theatres

Thurston, the Magician Tonight.

Thurston, the magician, with new magic, conjuring and colloquy, illusions, and all that similar entertainment connotes will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House to-night and Tuesday night. We do love mystery! And in this we are like all other people of all other times.

It is a strange field in which this brilliant young man has devoted his life, one that has been occupied by very few really illustrious artists. With his dexterous fingers, his ready wit, and his genuine personality, he is not only a wizard to excite wonder, he is a companion to enjoy. To catalogue Thurston's new program is hardly necessary; his reputation is made and the knowledge of the rare quality of his performance is universal. His is a polyglot program; it pleases every taste, answers every desire, and as for the incidental frills, puffs and founces of the general comedy, nothing could be more delightful. Most of Thurston's new mysteries for this year deal with life in the afterworld such as the materialization of ghosts and the manifestations of spirits. Chief among his big effects is a sketch called "Vill. Captured" showing a sensational race between an automobile and motorcycle.

The Eyes of the World.

The pictorial drama is said to reach its zenith in the elaborate presentation of "The Eyes of the World," which comes to the Grand on Wednesday, April 3rd, for four days. Harold Bell Wright, author of the book which has reached the amazing sale of over one million copies, amplified his thrilling California love story for its presentation and personally assisted in the seven months' constant labor required to translate his greatest work into cinema form. The producer of "Eyes of the World," is W. H. Clune, who first achieved note in his calling as associate producer of "The Clansman" ("The Birth of a Nation") and followed this with the beautiful "Ramona." Expense was not spared in this work, and the absorbing story is told in more than a thousand scenes of superb photography, and with acting and characterization which Southern California critics say have never been equaled in motion pictures. In the intensity of the closing scenes, it is asserted, "The Eyes of the World" excels in "punch," the climax of the most famous feature film. A special musical score accompanies the pictures, which is said to be an elaborate one.

At The Strand.

After five years of persuasion by their admirers to appear in Romeo and Juliet, the clever artists, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, have at last consented to do so, but it was only after the greatest assurances had been received that the drama would be produced on a scale in keeping with their ideas and ideals that they consented. The result is an elaborate production of Shakespeare's great drama on a scale which marks the highest achievement in their picturesque careers and marks the fulfilment of hopes they have long entertained. This film will be presented at the Strand for the first three days of this week, and all lovers of Shakespeare and of the best in film-dom cannot afford to miss the treat. In addition there will be comedy and topical reels, which will serve to balance the programme.

Thrilling Beyond Words.

No photoplay presents such remarkable and wonderful exploits as that dashing and fearless Marie Walcamp in "The Red Ace." It's a serial for everyone. Young and old alike are thrilled. Don't miss a single episode. At the King Edward to-night and Tuesday. Usual admission.

Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Bard, Hamilton, announce the engagement of their second daughter, Beryl Marguerite, to Andrew H. Sanders, youngest son of Mrs. J. Sanders, Cobourg, marriage to take place the latter part of April.
