HELD UP FOR A SALUTE INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

WOUNDED OTTAWA SOLDIER TELLS OF EPISODE HERE.

A Kingston Headquarters Colonel Demanded a Salute When Returned Wounded Man Could Hardly Walk.

The Ottawa Citizen says: If the experience of Pte. Fred Card, son of Charles Card, 99 Greenfield avenue, Ottawa East, is common with the invalided men who are treated at the military hospitals at Kingston, then they must have little if any love for some staff colonels. Young Card's story came out last night when he arrived home from the front with a party of twenty other returned men and his father, who is also a returned soldier, was pretty indignant when he heard it.

The young man was away at the front for two years and seven months and he was badly wounded through the right leg by pieces of shrapnel, four severe wounds being inflicted. He came home a few weeks ago and was taken to the Queen's Military Hospital at Kingston, supporting himself on crutches. He was operated on three weeks ago and was let out a few days ago, barely able to walk and very weak.

While going along one of the Kingston streets a few days ago, supporting himself with the aid of a stick, a staff colonel went by and the returned soldier, barely able to hold himself up, didn't salute. The officer caught him by the arm and demanded to know why he didn't salute in the street with "What do you mean by passing me without saluting?" he asked.

"It's all I can do to go along the street holding myself up without saluting anyone, sir," replied the soldier, and whether in shame or not, Pte. Card didn't know, but the officer dropped the soldier's arm and went on his way without another word.

"If I had been able to I would have saluted him," said Pte. Card to the Citizen last night, "but I could hardly stand. If I had been in better condition he wouldn't have been away without me saying something else to him. It wouldn't have been so bad if he had been a man who had been at the front, but he hasn't."

Pte. Card's wounds are still open and he still suffers great pain. He is twenty-one years old.

Letters to the Editor

The Allen Question.

Kingston, Ont., April 3.—(To the Editor): I will be very much obliged if you will give me a place in your valuable paper. I want to know how much longer these alien men are to walk our cities and work in our factories. After this war is over, and our own men come home, after fighting for some of the countries these men come from, they will have no show at all.

I know several foreigners who are working for one of the companies here, making about twenty dollars a week, and our men are earning one dollar and ten cents a day. How does this catch you? If our fellows were in their countries they would soon be made to fight. No loafing around in any other land.

The other day one of the Dominion Police was making his examinations on the west bound train, when he saw a young fellow sitting looking out of the window. He went over to him and asked him for his papers, and was politely told to go to the hot place. He was very much surprised to see the badge of the law. He proved to be one of our lovely foreigners.

HAD A "SPAT" ON MARKET.

Woman Fined $2 for Slapping Sister-in-Law in Face.

For slapping her sister-in-law in the face, a woman was on Wednesday morning fined $2 and costs by Magistrate Farrell.

The "spat" occurred Saturday morning on the market square in a crowded thoroughfare. The accused admitted making the strike at her sister-in-law, but stated that she had been provoked by certain remarks she had made about her as they passed.

Police Constable Marshall Armstrong saw the blow struck, but although he was standing just a few feet away from the woman, he heard no words spoken, and was amazed at the incident. The complainant afterwards came to the constable and said, "Did you see her strike me?" The complainant strongly denied charges made by the accused that she had made uncomplimentary remarks about her.

A youth was up for being intoxicated and was fined $10 and costs.

Graduate Nurses Met.

The regular meeting of the Kingston Chapter of Graduate Nurses was held Tuesday afternoon in the Nurses' Residence. The address of the afternoon was given by Miss Leeder of the Victorian Order of Nurses on "the convention recently held in Ottawa." She outlined the work of the order since its inception by Lady Aberdeen, and spoke of the great need for more nurses, especially to sparsely settled districts of the west.

The Association's application for affiliation with the Canadian National Association of Trained Nurses has been accepted.

Money was voted for 200 bedside table covers for Queen's Military Hospital and the mothers present contributed a sum of money to buy three dozen vases for the rooms in the General Hospital.

Petition Not Popular.

Several merchants have reported to the Whig that a woman is taking a petition around the city asking that the ban on "The Finished Mystery" be lifted. She claims that this book is not pro-German and that the teachings of the I.B.S.A. have been misunderstood. At least two merchants refused to sign the petition.

LIEUT. J. H. ROBERTS WOUNDED

Mrs. R. S. Waldron received a cable from overseas on Wednesday morning which stated that Lieut. John Hamilton Roberts, of the R.C.M.A., had been wounded in the thigh, but that the wound was not serious.

Lieut. Roberts graduated from the Royal Military College in 1914, taking a position some time afterwards as an instructor of the Royal School of Artillery. Permission was granted for him to go overseas in 1915 and he took a draft over in August of that year. He has been with the Kingston brigade since then.

Killed in Action.

Mrs. (Sergeant) Love, 204 Alfred street, received word of the death of her nephew, Pte. Thompson, who was killed in action. His brother, Pte. Ernest Thompson, was wounded. Her husband, Sergt. Love, is at present in Kingston General Hospital, recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

TO HOLD A TAG DAY ON 25TH OF MAY.

Inspector Jack's Report Told of a Good Deal of Work Done During the Past Month.

The Children's Aid Society executive met on Tuesday afternoon with Dr. A. W. Richardson presiding. The report of Inspector Jack stated that a boy was sent to St. John's Industrial School, as his parents complained that they could not control him. Three girls and one boy, children of irresponsible parents, were taken under the care of the society, two of the girls being sent to hospital for treatment. Two girls, absent from home, were found in bad environment and were restored to their parents in neighboring towns; another was located for anxious parents. One boy was returned to the society because his foster parent was injured by an accident. A Chinaman was prosecuted for selling cigarettes to a minor and fined. The Inspector made 101 calls, held 30 interviews and visited 50 wards.

The matter of the society's funds was discussed at length, and it was decided to hold a tag day on May 25th next, and Dr. G. W. Bell, F. Welsh and William Murray were appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements. As the society depends to a large extent upon voluntary contributions by individuals interested in child welfare, those present felt that a tag day would present the claims of this very important branch of the city's social work to a large number of people not now reached.
