The interned German should be liberally fed—on the ground glass bread their spies have been turning out.

If a farmer can make one hundred per cent. on his hog sales in what class of profiteering would you place him?

The Y.M.C.A. has one hundred pianos, three hundred gramophones and twenty-seven small and large moving-picture machines in England and France.

The longer Germany delays submission, and the more damage she inflicts upon others, the more severe will be the terms of settlement and the worse her ultimate breakdown.

Universal military training for Canada is the proposal of Major Mowat, M.P., and it would not be surprising to see Parliament adopt the idea.

"Let up on white bread" is a worthy motto to follow at least until the new harvest is reaped.

The Quebec coroner's jury which censured the federal police over the recent riots in that city should remember that absentees under the Military Service Act are deserters, and no country shows much mercy to that class.

The overseas edition of the Toronto News is handsomely illustrated, full of meaty information as to the resources and progress of Canada, with detailed facts as to the provinces.

As the result of one day's bombardment by the big German gun eight chickens were killed in Paris.

According to a writer in the Toronto Star Weekly, W. F. Nickle has a carriage and pair for going to church on Sunday.

TO MAKE PLACE ATTRACTIVE.

There is nothing dull about a town that has lively young people no matter how small the place is.

CAUSE OF HIS ACTION.

The Whig has expressed its regret at the enforced retirement of W. F. O'Connor, the high-cost-of-living commissioner, and stated that his chief, Hon. T. W. Crothers, could far better be spared.

WHO COUNSELS PEACE?

The following poem, written by Robert Southey as his answer to a demand for a patch-up peace with Napoleon, is especially appropriate to-day:

Who counsels peace at this momentous hour. When God has given deliverance to the oppressed? Who counsels peace, when vengeance, like a flood, rolls on, no longer to be repressed?

UTILITIES' INDEBTEDNESS.

The city auditor in his report on the Utilities gives the impression that the bonded indebtedness of the electrical and gas departments is high as compared with their book value.

SHOULD COMMAND SUPPORT.

Every mother who has a son at the front knows the good work done by the Military Y.M.C.A. Now that a campaign is on to raise $15,000 in Kingston for the organization every son's mother should spread the news and aid, with abounding joy, the institution that mothers her boy overseas.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE UTILITIES COMMISSION.

The city auditor in his report calls attention to the large bank overdraft of the Utilities Commission. We understand that it was not as large as he stated by some $29,000, for he included the unexpended balance of the amount received from the gas tank bonds.

PUBLIC OPINION

Holding the Line. (Amosoda Standard) When it comes to holding the line, a couple of women engaged in a telephone conversation can beat General Haig hands down.

It's Coming to Them. (Detroit Free Press) "God certainly has something in mind for the German people," says the kaiser; and for once we can agree with him.

Worry Today. (London Punch) Jones—You're looking rather below par. What's the trouble now? Robinson—I'm worrying about what we'll have to worry about when the war is over.

A Present Ill. (London Bystander) A trouble-harrowing contemporary wants to know how girls are to find husbands after the war. But that isn't half as pressing a problem as the shortage of matches while the war is still going on.

Explained. (London Advertiser) Sir Sam Hughes wants to know the reason for the Allied withdrawal. Well, the Germans had something to do with it, but the principal reason was the absence of Sir Sam from France.

The Steadfast British Troops. (New York Times) There are classic instances of public steadfastness—the Athenians with the Persians in Athens, the Romans with Hannibal under the walls. To say that the British this week are worthy companions of these peoples is not to say enough.

Growing Unpopular. (Christian Science Monitor) Instead of making for Germans a place in the sun, the military caste is succeeding wonderfully in making for them a place in the street.

Rippling Rhymes THE WAR TRADE Before the boons of peace return, those boons so long mislaid, our Teuton foes will have to learn that war's a beastly trade.

WALT MASON. THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN By GENE BYRNES

HEAVEN NEVER HELPS THE MAN WHO WILL NOT ACT.—Sophocles. With malice towards none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right.—Abraham Lincoln.

Too late we learn a man must hold his friend Unjudged, accepted, trusted to the end.—John Boyle O'Reilly.

Happy and strong and brave shall we be—able to endure all things, and to do all things—if we believe that every day, every hour, every moment, of our life is in His hands.—Henry Van Dyke.

For none of us liveth to himself, and none dieth to himself.—Rom. 14:7.

A greater man than is the sceptered King And greater than the richest I shall be If I can learn to do some honest thing.—S. E. Kiser.

We must truly serve those whom we appear to command; we must bear with their imperfections, correct them with gentleness and patience, and lead them in the way to heaven.—Fenslon.

A MEMORIAL HIGHWAY No Man's Land to be Transformed Into Public Grounds.

The present western battle front, running from the North Sea coast of Belgium to the Swiss border, is to be made into a great international memorial highway, 400 miles in length, if plans which are said to have the indorsement of the Governments involved, are carried out after the war. Here, about the countless graves of the men who have fallen in battle, forests will be planted, and the appalling desolation of No Man's Land will be transformed into carefully kept public grounds bordering the highway on either side.

It is proposed also, to allow many of the ruined villages to stand for a time just as they are—grim reminders to coming generations of the horrors and heroism of this war.—Popular Mechanics.

Word of the sinking in the Indian Ocean of a French liner, and the rescue of 659 persons from the vessel by a steamer whose home port is San Francisco, is conveyed in a despatch from Singapore.
