The Theatres

At the Grand.

Glimpses of the picturesque, arid Mojave desert in San Bernardino County, California, and life as it existed there about fifty years ago, are shown in "The Winding Trail," a Metro picture starring the adorable Viola Dana, which will be presented at the Grand to-night and to-morrow, matinee and night. The story of this interesting picture is laid in the west in the mining and prospecting days of the picture is laid in the west in the mining and prospecting days of the 1870's. Audrey Graham, the heroine (played by Viola Dana), goes from New York to the west. There is no railroad across the desert at this time and Audrey makes the trip in a typical prairie schooner. All the trials and thrilling experiences encountered on the desert in the early days are lived through by the little heroine. During her trip through the west Miss Dana received many valuable presents, among which was a revolver formerly owned by a noted desperado. The Pathe News and two reels of Lonesome Luke comedy that is a scream, along with an act of polite vaudeville will complete this sterling bill.

"20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." Jules Verne's immortal story of the deep, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," has been given an elaborate production by means of the camera, with the result that one of the most fascinating of sea stories is given an ocular presentation, that is, if anything, more fascinating than the book. The mysteries of the sea are shown in a series of artistic sea scenes by motion photography and the story is so interesting that the spectators are loath to leave the theatre when the last reel is run. "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," is coming to the Grand Opera House and lovers of high-class photography should not fail to see this great masterpiece. Recently it was presented for the first time at Massey Hall, and so great was the demand for seats at every performance that the management was obliged to give special morning matinees, and special presentations for school children only.

MISS HELEN DELANEY Who plays the Dacting Teacher in the big musical comedy success "Watch Your Step" at the Grand Opera House, on Tuesday evening, April 23rd.

At the Strand.

The feature pictures at the Strand which will be shown for the last time to-night, include Dorothy Phillips in "The Grand Passion" and Ethel Barrymore in "Life's Whirlpool," both pictures being of exceptional merit, and triumphs of filmization. These artists are surrounded by excellent assistants, and no expense has been spared to make the presentations pleasing. The large audiences which have attended their presentation were well pleased with them, and those desiring a pleasant and enjoyable evening will do well to attend to-night. For the last three days of the week there is coming Mabel Normand, in a famous Goldwyn production, "The Floor Below," a film of exceptional merit, and another of splendid accomplishment, both of the talented actress and of the studio which is famous for good productions.

At Griffin's

The interesting programme being shown at this popular playhouse and which has attracted large audiences during the past two days will be shown this evening for the last time. It is headed by the noted star, Alice Brady in a powerful drama of the fate of a Belgian refugee, entitled "The Maid of Belgium." This picture grips attention at the very start of the picture, and holds it constantly throughout. All admirers of handsome Wallace Reid, who revel in seeing their favorite in a good fighting picture should not miss his latest success, "Rimrock Jones," which is filled to overflowing with typical Reid thrills, and presents the noted star in a number of heroic moods. The great-out-door serial "Vengeance and the Woman" is supremely melodramatic in this episode, which is one of the best so far shown on the whole it would be difficult to find a more entertaining programme to be seen anywhere.

RETURNED OFFICER OPTIMISTIC

Says That Allies Have Clever Generals Who Can Hold the Enemy. Always optimistic for the success of the Allies in this battle, the returned soldiers are still confident that the reserve army which has been spoken of so often will soon come from cover, and at the proper time make a break into the German lines which will turn the tide of victory to Foch. The war news on Wednesday morning was certainly bad, when the strategical importance of the famous Messines Ridge is taken into consideration. One officer recently back from France said that this point commanded a great section of the country and had been an objective to the Huns on dozens of attacks during the past three years. He said that clever generalship still had the situation well in hand, according to his judgment, and that this advantage would not long remain with the Germans. The district is well known to the Canadian Division.

St. Mary's Boys Had a Jolly Gathering Tuesday Night. Father Halligan presided, and also present were Father Hanley, Father Casey, Mr. Noury, organist of St. Mary's cathedral, and Mr. Devlin, who represented the board of trustees. Father Halligan stated that he would have something important to announce shortly in the line of sports. There is a programme under way, but the arrangements have not yet been completed. There is a movement on foot to boom sport.

War Topics Discussed.

The film houses in this city had speakers last night, under the auspices of the War Lecture Bureau, when the responsibilities of the war were set forth and the people took of the seriousness of the situation and yet strengthened and steadied as to the outcome. The speakers in the various theatres were: The Strand, J. M. Farrell; The Grand, Rev. E. B. McLean; Griffin's, George Smith; King Edward, Ald. H. W. Newman. The audiences appreciated the remarks and applauded the good points made. The addresses were of five minutes duration and were snappy and interesting.

Familiar Quotations

Laddie, little laddie, come with me over the hills,
Where blossom the white May lilies, and the dogwood and daffodils;
For the Spirit of Spring is calling to our spirits that love to roam over the hills of home, laddie, over the hills of home.
—LILLIAN LEVERIDGE.

Hear Isolde Menges.

Critics are saying that Isolde Menges stands on the threshold of supermanship in violinistic interpretation. She has drawn round her tributes that few artists in the past or present have had bestowed upon them. She is to give a concert here in Convocation Hall on Thursday evening, and that she will get a hearty welcome is already evidenced. Miss Menges' name is now bracketed with Ernst, Vieuxtemps, Wieniawski, Sarasate. There is only one young violinist of this age that can be compared to Isolde Menges and that one is Heifetz, who was her fellow-student in Russia. Heifetz is considered technically the superior of all violinists; but when it comes to interpretation, musicians and critics in Europe say that Menges is the greatest of this age.
