

RED TRIANGLE CAMPAIGN

ADDRESS IN CITY HALL BY CAPT. T. F. BEST.

Who Emphasized the Need of Funds—Tributes Paid to the Late Robert Meek, Who Organized the Local Campaign.

A spirit of optimism and confidence in the ultimate victory of the allied arms permeated the magnificent address of Capt. T. F. Best in the City Hall on Wednesday night.

In introducing Capt. Best, Mayor Hughes referred feelingly to the passing of the late chairman of the campaign, Robert Meek.

As an outsider, Capt. Best said he did not feel competent to pay a personal tribute to the late Robert Meek, but from the many expressions of regret which he had heard during the day from those who knew him, he had no hesitation in saying that the deceased would be sorely missed.

The time for action, Capt. Best remarked several times that he was not a preacher, and therefore, he did not choose a text. It was apparent, however, that his splendid address was based on one thought, and if he had been a preacher and had chosen a text it would have been, "This is not the time for pessimism. This is the time for action."

There was a tendency on the part of the people at the present time to look at the darker side of the situation, and to dispel this attitude the speaker drew a vivid picture of the first days of the war, and then compared it to the present circumstances in which the Allied armies are placed.

There is no need for down-heartedness at the present time, said Capt. Best. "In the first years of the war we were fed up on optimistic war news and were living in a fool's paradise. For the first two years of the war we had no chance to win and many beautiful chances of losing."

that the world had ever seen. Only the spirit of the men who fought and split their blood for the common cause of humanity held the flames at bay, and, said Capt. Best, "I have the greatest respect for my superior officers. Sir Douglas Haig and the headquarters staff are magnificent soldiers but I have to take of my hat to the common soldiers. It was his spirit that saved the situation and nearly four years of war has not been able to break that same indomitable spirit."

Work of Red Triangle.

The speaker drew the attention of his hearers to the work that was being accomplished by various organizations to maintain that wonderful "esprit de corps" and morale among the soldiers. The Chaplains' Service was accomplishing tasks that could not be overestimated in cheering the weary ones, in assuaging the pain of the wounded, in comforting the dying.

It was to maintain these organizations that appeals were being made for funds. The letters written home on Red Triangle newspaper testified to the inestimable value of the work of the Y.M.C.A., and it was to sustain the spirit and morale of the men on the fighting line that contributions were sought.

In conclusion Capt. Best beseeched his hearers to realize that the war was on, even though it had not touched Canada as Belgium and France and Serbia had been touched, and that only the line of attack men that stretched from the coast of Belgium to the frontier of Switzerland and the silent ships of the British navy stood between Canadians and the barbaric Huns.

"Take up our quarrel with the foe, To you, from falling hands, we throw the torch. Be yours to hold it high. For if ye break faith with us who die, We shall not sleep, though poppies grow in Flanders' fields."

During the evening the R.C.H.A. band played, and the meeting was brought to a close with "The King" and three cheers for the Red Triangle and Capt. Best.

ROMANCE OF HIGH SEAS

DR. TAYLOR'S WARNING

Went to Rescue of the Steamer Charles S. Neff When She Lost Her Propeller on Lake Erie—Case Before Justice Hodgins.

There is an interesting romance surrounding the steamer Charles S. Neff, which was laid up in Kingston last winter, and which was recently taken over by a New York shipping firm.

As judge in Admiralty, Justice Hodgins has awarded Adam Brown Mackay, of Hamilton, owner of the steamer Sarnor, $1,350, and to the master and crew of the Sarnor the sum of $350, for salvaging the steamer Charles S. Neff in Lake Erie last November, 1916.

The Sarnor herself had been in drydock at Cleveland, and was on her way, later, from Toronto to Erie, when, six miles north of Dunkirk, she heard faint and distant appeals for help from some steamer which could not be seen.

The sea was running high and the conditions were atrocious. Captain the Sarnor went to the rescue of the other ship and found her to be the Neff, which had lost her propeller and was at the mercy of the waves. The Sarnor brought her into port. The value of the rescued vessel and cargo was $150,000.

Movements of Vessels.

The steamer City of Hamilton arrived from Toronto at 8 a.m. and cleared for Montreal at 9 a.m. on Thursday.

M.T. Co's bulletin—The tug Thomson arrived with the barges Augustus and Conard with coal from Charlotte, and cleared with the barges Davie and Hilda to load coal at Oswego.

The steamer Buena Vista has arrived in port, marking the first arrival from the Rideau Canal. Captain John Randall is in command. His son, Capt. Henry Randall, is in command of the steamer John Randall this season. The Buena Vista will clear for Oswego to load coal for Smith's Falls.

Lieut. Carey was well-known to many Kingstonsians. He was a brother-in-law of Capt. E. J. de Beaupre, of Kingston, and has many relatives in Kingston. He has a brother, Major Leo Carey, now in France.

BRODED OVER OUTLOOK.

A Farmer in Ernestown Ended His Career. (From Our Own Correspondent.) Napanee, May 2.—Our town was shocked yesterday afternoon when it was learned that Elias Smith, Ernestown, had ended his days at his home, about five miles from Napanee. Deceased had not been in very good health for the past few years and it is thought he was brooding over the fact that his son, Roy, would be called to war and leave him with the farm to manage, which he was far from being able to do. One brother, J. F. Smith, and two sisters live in Napanee, and one son, Dr. Harold Smith, also in Napanee; another son lives in Boston, Mass., and one daughter in Saskatchewan. The deceased was a man of sterling qualities, a kind neighbor and true friend.

The Ford car, license No. 10519, stolen from Napanee on Thursday, April 25th, was located to-day near Camp Mohawk.

T. H. Wiggins returned this week from a two months' trip through Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Miss Vera Shorey is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Shorey. Madill leaves to-day to visit her son, C. S. Madill, Montreal.

Tells New York Students, German Victory Possibility.

A New York despatch says: Major the Rev. Robert Bruce Taylor, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and former chaplain of the Fifth Royal Highlanders, told Columbia students yesterday that it is possible for Germany to win the war. Although he considers the taking of Kemmel Hill the biggest advantage the Germans have gained in their great offensive in the north, Major Taylor believes the situation will not be acute unless the British are forced from the low range of hills behind Kemmel.

Major Taylor urged that before the British be criticized for their seeming inferiority of numbers on the western front, their operations in other fields be considered. "Remember," he said, "we have probably 500,000 men in Palestine, besides those in Northern, Eastern and Western Africa, in Mesopotamia and in India, of whose activities we hear nothing."

Praising the United States for its "magnificent third Liberty loan," he said, "a need greater than your vast wealth is your almost unlimited supply of manpower."
