Presentation at Pittserry.

On Thursday evening, June 20th, the many friends and relatives surprised Pte. Gordon McFadden by presenting themselves at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lane about eight o'clock. The gathering took the form of a farewell for Pte. McFadden who will shortly leave for overseas. During the evening a programme was rendered. Rev. W. E. Long acted as chairman. After the programme the friends presented Pte. McFadden with an address and military wrist watch and safety razor. The address was read by Miss Bessie Lane and Miss Edna Spence made the presentation. Pte. McFadden made a suitable reply, expressing his regret at leaving so kind people, but he hoped to be with them again some time in the future after he had done his bit.

The Theatres

At the Grand.

The war's most thrilling story, that of Cardinal Mercier, of Belgium, and his ward, Liane de Merode, is superbly told in the new World Picture, "The Cross Bearer," in which Montagu Love is seen in the powerful role of the world famous Cardinal, who has so staunchly set himself against the aggressions and oppressions of the German invaders. "The Cross Bearer" is unqualifiedly recommended as a perfect photoplay to all who are looking for the utmost in screen entertainment. See this picture at the Grand to-night, and you will be as delighted with it as was the large audience of last evening. Other reels that complete this bill were the Pathe News, an O. Henry story, and a Lonesome Luke comedy, along with a feature act of polite vaudeville. For the first three days of next week Harry Morey will be seen in his latest five-reel Vitagraph triumph, "The Desired Woman," and supporting him will be Florence Deshon and a host of other favorites. There will also be the Pathe News, a Judge Brown story, and comedy reels. The vaudeville will consist of Gaston and Babel in a singing and dancing act that is sure to go a little better than the best of them.

At the Strand.

May Allison appears at the Strand for the first three days of the coming week in the strongest social film yet made, "Social Hypocrites," in which the evil influence of a lie is traced to its final conclusion by a master hand. The plot deals with society and social ways, and tells a thrilling story of social intrigue and the workings of jealous minds. The plot shows a baccarat game in full progress in an exclusive Paris gambling saloon, where the innocent victim is accused of cheating, and is finally banished from the home of her patron. Later her friend is able to prove her innocence, and the tale ends in the usual way, but with a finalization which is different. The film is said by experts to be the strongest yet sent out by the Metro people, and will be a big drawing feature at this popular theatre for the first of the week. In addition the usual careful selection of comedy and topical reels will be shown.

At Griffin's.

Another highly delighted audience attended this theatre last night and witnessed an exceptionally entertaining programme headlined by the famous portrayer of western types, William S. Hart, in one of the most vertle and heart appealing roles of his entire career, "The Tiger Man." Another feature is Janus Morrison in "Two Men and a Woman," a charming picture unfolded in a most whimsical manner, and which won the praise of all present. These two features and the seventh episode of "The Eagle's Eye" make up a programme for this evening which should be seen by everyone seeking a genuine evening's entertainment.
