CAMPBELL-ORR NUPTIALS

At the Home of the Bride's Mother on Wellington Street.

On Thursday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Orr, 32 Wellington street, her oldest daughter, Myrtle Elita, was united in marriage to George Earl Campsall, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Campsall, Harrowayville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. R. McLean, of Cooke's Presbyterian Church, of which the bride is an active member. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Rosie Webb.

The bride, who was given away by her mother, wore a pretty gown of white crepe de chene and carried a bouquet of roses and maiden-hair ferns. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo decorated with orange blossoms and marguerites. During the signing of the register Miss Lizzie P. Campsall, sister of the groom, sang "Love's Coronation."

After congratulations, the guests sat down to a dainty luncheon served by girl friends of the bride. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a pearl and pearl necklace, to the pianist, a cameo bar pin set with pearls, to the soloist a cameo ring set with pearls.

The bride received a fine collection of gifts, among which was a handsome cheque from the groom's father. The bride looked very lovely in a smart tailored suit of navy blue serge with hat to match. After a brief honeymoon spent in Toronto, Niagara and points west, Mr. and Mrs. Campsall will reside at Harrowayville.

CHILD WELFARE STATION

WAS FORMALLY OPENED ON FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

Mrs. Frances Robinson in Charge—Mothers Will Find It Interesting and Instructive at the Station.

A special meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses committee was held on Friday in the new Child Welfare Station, 291 Barrie street. This committee meeting was the formal opening of this station, which is a great forward step in the saving of child life in Kingston.

The station was inaugurated by the gift of a prominent citizen of Kingston. It has always been the special work of the Victorian Order of Nurses to conserve child life to the full extent of their power in the regular routine order of district nursing work, but a special work is solely preventive and educational. Diseases are not treated at the welfare station. Examination is to be made, advice given, and where medical attention is required the patient will be directed to the family physician.

The "ounce of prevention" so long acknowledged to be worth the "pound of cure" is the slogan of this great work. Mothers are sure to find it interesting as well as instructive at the station, and Mrs. Frances Robinson, whose kindly sympathies envelop all she comes in contact with, will be there to receive and advise them.

The station is to be open three days each week, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, from 2 until 5 p.m. There is no fee. The Victorian Order committee is back of the work with the steadfast vigor for which its workers have already won a reputation.

Persons wishing help in this pre-eminently Christian work will always find the committee appreciative of any help offered through the nurse, Miss Leeder, or Mrs. Frances Robinson, children's nurse.

Mrs. Robinson impressed upon the Whig the fact that the station was only for consultation and advice. The weight and height of babies are noted and if there are defects their mothers will be advised to take them to their doctor. The co-operation of the public is wanted in this earnest effort to conserve child life. It is hoped that the establishment of the station will, during the next year, considerably reduce infant death.

WELCOMED NEW PASTOR. At Congregational Meeting in Brock Street Methodist Church.

The members of Brock Street Methodist Church tendered a reception to their new pastor, Rev. D. A. Lough, on Friday night, and the event was a most happy one. Dr. C. C. Nash presided, and introduced the new minister, who delivered a timely address. Rev. S. Shibley offered prayer, and addresses of welcome were given by Rev. W. T. G. Brown, Rev. J. A. Waddell, and J. S. Lyons, an old friend of the new pastor, the latter speaking on behalf of the laymen of the city Methodist churches. Following this there was an interesting programme of music and recitations. Those taking part were Miss Annie Prager, Miss Isabella Hughes, Miss Ruth Nash, Miss Myrtle Stagg, Miss Mildred Lee, Lieut. P. L. Nesbitt, Miss J. Simmons, Sergt-Major Gask. At the close of the programme the ladies of the congregation served refreshments.

HAS DIAMOND RING. Which Clerk Says Kingston Young Lady Gave Him.

A Pembroke despatch says: Stanley Poole, formerly employed by the Dominion Express Company here, and who was arrested in Ottawa charged with the theft of carrier pigeons from the company, appeared Wednesday and was remanded until Monday. On his person Chief Carroll found a diamond ring which he claims was given to him by a Kingston young lady, and which a local jeweller values at $90. He also had several railway tickets, which are believed to have been taken from the C.P.R. station, while he is suspected of being implicated in the theft of watches from the Dominion Express Company some time ago.

An Appeal to the Public.

The increase in the cost of food and other materials has thrown such a burden on the Orphan Home that our expenditure has for some time and now exceeds our income by $2,000. Those responsible for the administration of affairs are averse to making use of any part of our small endowment to meet the ordinary expenses, as if this were done it would mean a lessened revenue and deficit for the future. We, on behalf of this most deserving institution, to which in time of need, support has always been accorded, direct the attention of generous Kingstonians to our requirements, and urge, as promptly as possible, assistance by way of subscriptions however small to be sent the treasurer.

Treasurer—Mrs. Strachan, Miss Mackintosh, Mrs. Clark. Secretaries—Mrs. Garrott, Mrs. H. Nickle.

THE SALVATION ARMY ON THE BATTLEFIELD

Sister Madeline Has No Press Agent to Work For Her There.

She has no press agent, this Salvation Army lassie, and when the doughboys move up to the front line trench "over there" begrimed with dust and mud, they gaze in wonder at the poke-bonneted Martha awaiting them with her basket of doughnuts and bucket of coffee. "Sister Madeline," they call her, and they will tell you that this Martha of the battlefield has a heart that pulses 100 per cent true to the call of service, let bullet and shell speed where they will, and more than through with crimsoned basket.

You of over here listen to one of Pershing's khaki stalwarts: "I have just turned my pockets inside out and the tambourine could hold much more, but it was all I had, and I am still in the debt of the Salvation Army. For what? You ask. For about all that I brought back of body and soul! For hot coffee and cookies when I was shivering like an aspen; for buttons and patches on my fatigued uniforms; for steering me clear of the camp followers, the parasites that decimate the morale of the army; for some lively scraps with the Hun turned his softening glance toward France and the American sector, "more than all" for the cheery word, for the solace of those "gone west," for the blessed face of a woman from the home-land in the midst of withering blight and desolation."

And so, Sister Madeline carries on! Unpressaged, her work almost unknown to those over here, but enshrined in the heart of each brave defender of the right "over there." And when he returns to his mansion or cottage, this crusader who fought to "keep the home fires burning," a paean of praise will be sung for Sister Madeline, the Martha of the battlefield.

A BRAHMIN PROFESSOR VISITOR AT QUEEN'S

He Came to Inspect Prof. MacClement's Method of Teaching Botany.

On Thursday Queen's University had an interesting visitor in the person of Dr. A. A. Sampath, professor of botany in Central College, Bangalore, India. Dr. Sampath is a Brahmin of high caste, and has been for two years engaged in botanical research in the University of Chicago. He is now about to return to India and is visiting with a view to studying their methods of teaching botany. He spent an hour or so with Prof. W. T. MacClement in visiting the laboratories at Queen's and in viewing the grounds and was very much impressed indeed with what he saw. Dr. Sampath was also interested in meeting Dean Coleman of the faculty of education, as some years ago he had worked in a Government department in India in which a brother of his own, and a personal friend of his, was in charge. Dr. Sampath left early Friday morning for Montreal.

On Force Twenty-eight Years. On Monday (Dominion Day) sergeant James Bateson will have completed twenty-eight years' service on the Kingston police force. He is one of the oldest members of the force, and has a long and faithful service to his credit. "Jim," as he is known by his friends, and they are legion, was appointed to the position of sergeant two years ago on the death of the late Sergeant Alexander Snodden.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

G. W. V. A. Pay Rent. Kingston, June 29 (To the Editor): The G. W. V. A. Kingston Branch, wish categorically and absolutely and for all to contradict the persistent rumor that Brig-Gen. Shannon gives the Shannon building rent free as club rooms to the association. The association pays $600 per year for these rooms, and has put about $3,000 improvements on the rooms in addition to the $1,000 expended by Gen. Shannon on his own building. There is a five-year lease, which will net Gen. Shannon $3,000 in addition to the improvements.

Yours truly, C. W. TOPPING, Secretary.
